It was a lonely death chained to a tree

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Before he died, Douglas Ray Sumner spent two weeks chained to a tree. He built a lean-to for shelter, dug a hole to collect rain, and ate palmetto leaves and bark chips while he struggled in vain to free himself, police say.

Sumner, 21, had not been seen by his family since he left home to go camping two years ago, telling his mother, 'I'll be back in three or four days — or maybe never.''

When his best friend saw him a year ago and asked what he had been doing, Sumner replied, according to police: ''I'm just trying to get my head screwed on straight. Don't tell anybody you've seen me,''

A Baptist pastor who knew him said Sumner had gotten involved in a ''way-out religious group'' and might have willingly allowed himself to be anchored to a tree by a 15-foot logging chain attached to a 20inch metal collar around his waist.

Two hunters stalking wild boar found his bones in a dense thicket a mile from the Gulf of Mexico last month. Investigators say Sumner had died about seven months before that, from either starvation or exposure.

Police call his death murder, but have not speculated on a possible motive. No arrests have been made.

Pastor Pierre Kennedy said Tuesday that the last time he saw Sumner the youth told him ''he was going to go up to the forest and stay for a while.

''I think he might have had somebody chain him to that tree. Maybe someone said to him, 'We'll chain you to this tree and you can get closer to God.'

''This is the type of thing some of those lunatic religous groups talk about, this ascetic idea that you can get close to God by depriving your body of things, food and drink and pleasure.''

Found near Sumner's body were sneakers, shreds of clothes, a leather belt, books including a Bible and an identification card from the University of South Florida where he had worked as a groundskeeper.

Only 10 of the body's 206 bones remained. Officers said the rest must have been carried off by animals. Sumner was identified by a jawbone fragment and the identification card.

At the bottom of the pine tree was a gash where Sumner apparently tried to cut the thick bark, police said. They said scars 10 feet up showed where he tried to work the chains up and over the top of the tree.

Agents from the Florida Department of Criminal Law Enforcement said that near the tree where Sumner died they found a crude lean-to fashioned from palmetto fronds and a hole apparently dug by human hands.

Also nearby they found several balls of leaves the size of a fist, which they believed Sumner had used for nourishment.

They speculated that he had been left to die sometime in January and had managed to keep alive for about two weeks.

RTD strike talks snagged

Talks with mechanics break off

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bus drivers have voted to accept a new contract with the Rapid Transit District, but talks between striking mechanic-maintenance workers and the RTD broke off this morning without achieving a settlement.

State Conciliator Thomas McCarthy will try to get the talks going again on Thursday, said RTD spokesman Pat Barry. He added there is no immediate word on whether the talks have shown any progress. The main issue is wages.

Meanwhile, there remained a dispute Tuesday regarding exactly what the new contract means to drivers, since both sides have claimed a victory in the month-long dispute.

As the strike moved into its 32nd day today, drivers overwhelmingly approved a new three-year contract which the RTD said gave drivers about a 19.4 per cent increase in wages and fringe benefits.

However, union officials told their drivers before Tuesday's ratification vote that the new contract would provide them with 21 per cent more in fringe benefits and wages — a statement which a spokesman for the RTD said was incorrect. However, the spokesman said no definite figures were available, and wouldn't be until the RTD board met today.

Drivers earned a top scale of $6.67 per hour in wages before the strike. There was no immediate announcement of what the new pact would mean in terms of salary, but it was expected to be $8.27 an hour.

Without the mechanics back, the drivers have said they, too, will stay away. Thus the 750,000 riders who normally take the buses must continue to find alternate means of transportation.

A spokesman for the drivers' United Transportation Union said that even if mechanics accepted an offer by this afternoon, it would be Friday, at eearliest, before buses could roll again.

Drivers tentatively accepted the new contract offer Sunday. Tuesday's ratification vote was not unexpected. However, the proposal must still be ratified by the RTD board, which was to meet today.

Before the balloting by drivers at the Los Angeles Convention Center, UTU chairman Earl Clark said, ''We have won a clear victory and we now have a decent contract.''

Goldy Norton, a spokesman for the drivers, said 1,785 votes were cast for acceptance of the contract and 571 were against with 35 ballots void.

GM discloses new price increases

DETROIT (AP) — Base prices on General Motors' smaller 1977-model full-size and luxury cars have been boosted an average 4.9 per cent over their 1976 counterparts, the auto company has announced. The increases average $338.

The increase announced Tuesday is just shy of the 5.8 per cent base-price boost GM previously announced for its entire fall lineup of new cars.

The latest dollar boosts range from $103 for the four-door Chevrolet Impala — a 2.1 per cent increase — to $611 for the Cadillac Fleetwood limousine — a 5.6 per cent hike.

GM did not give an average dollar hike just for the full-size and luxury cars.

The new Impala will list for $4,901, compared with $4,798 in 1976. The price does not include options, shipping charges, taxes, likely dealer discounts or changes in equipment for 1977

On some 1977 cars, GM has dropped standard equipment that came at no added cost in 1976. On other cars, GM has added standard equipment. The new Impala, for example, has been stripped of nearly $170 worth of equipment that was free in 1976.

Thus, a 1977 Impala actually costs $271 more than a 1976 version with the same amount of equipment, GM said.

GM, which had not disclosed base prices for its redesigned full-size and luxury cars until Tuesday, ended speculation over whether it would either not raise prices on those models or boost prices only modestly because they are smaller.

The new cars are up to a foot shorter and 1,000 pounds lighter than 1976 models on the outside and are powered by smaller engines. But they have comparable passenger space and larger trunk capacity and get better fuel economy.

GM officials have conceded that the cost of building a car is slightly less than for the same 1976 model, but they said the firm is entitled to make a fair return on the multibillion dollar investment required to redesign its cars.

GM has said it is spending $15 billion by 1980 to make all its cars smaller and lighter to meet tougher federal fuel economy standards.

CRASH VICTIM

Rescuers haul up the body of Alex Panzers, 32, after his car plunged off the Mt. Lemon Highway near Tucson Tuesday. The body landed on a ledge about 150 feet down, the car landed another 500 feet down the mountain. Deputies found a hole in the man's crushed skull and a gun nearby. An autopshy and investigation is being conducted by Pima County officials.

On the eve of debates

Ford is rehearsing while Carter studies

By Associated Press

On the eve of the Great Debates, President Ford is holding dress rehearsals at the White House while Jimmy Carter is resting and studying issues.

Their first nationally televised debate, on economic and domestic issues, will be held in Philadelphia on Thursday night. Two more Ford-Carter debates, on other issues, will follow.

Presidential advisers say Ford is rehearsing with his aides acting as reporters who fire questions at him. Aides say the exercise is aimed at honing his responses to questions likely to be asked before the national television audience.

Ford aides say he is hoping to dispel doubts about his intelligence and ability. ''He wants to appear informed, decisive and experienced while picturing Carter as the opposite,'' one aide said.

For his dress rehearsal, Ford planned to perform before videotape cameras that would allow him to replay and refine his responses.

Carter's aides said the Democratic nominee planned no special preparations for the debate other than to rest and read briefing books designed to keep him abreast of the issues.

FDA announces food dye ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration today banned the artificial colors used to make maraschino cherries red and jelly beans and licorice black, saying their safety is questionable.

Laboratory tests with dogs suggest that food dye called Red. No. 4 may cause urinary bladder polyps and atrophy of the adrenal glands, the FDA said. Furthermore, there is no reliable testing method to assure that the color carbon black does not contain a cancer-causing byproduct.

Carter to campaign in valley Saturday

Jimmy Carter will bring his Presidential campaign to the valley Saturday when he visits the Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona.

The Democratic candidate will arrive at 1 p.m. at the Ontario International Airport and travel by motorcade to Pomona where he will spend about an hour meeting fair visitors.

He will be greeted at the airport by Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., who will serve as his official host.

The motorcade from ONtario to Pomona will include city, county and state officials, said McVittie.

Following his tour at the fair, Carter will travel to Orange County where he will meet with Democrat Party officials. He will be featured guest there on Sunday.

Alioto to wed Boston school committeewoman?

KATHLEEN SULLIVAN

BOSTON (AP)—Boston School Committeewoman Kathleen Sullivan and former San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto plan to marry when his divorce becomes final, it was reported today.

The Boston Globe, in reporting the marriage plans, said Miss Sullivan would not confirm them Tuesday. ''My private life is private,'' the newspaper reported her saying.

It said Miss Sullivan 31, and Alioto, 59, met last April when she attended the annual meeting of the Nationnal Association of School Boards in San Francisco.

She is the daughter of William Sullivan, president and majority stockholder of the New England Patriots of the National Football League. Alioto is a wealthy antitrust lawyer.

Miss Sullivan was a special education teacher in Boston before she was elected to the School Committee. She is serving her second term on the committee.

Alioto's wife, Angelina, dropped out of sight in February, 1974, returning to say she had visited California missions in a ''desperate attempt to secure some measure of personal privacy.''

She filed for a divorce, for a second time, in California last January. She is reported to be out of the country, but the Globe reported her lawyer's office said no dates for conferences in court had been set.

Alioto was first elected mayor of San Francisco in 1968 and was mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate during his first term.

He was acquitted of fee splitting in a state of Washington case. The case ended with a ruling supporting a $2.3 million legal fee received before becoming mayor.

Miss Sullivan was graduated from Manhattanville College and has done graduate work at Boston University and Harvard Graduate School of Education.

Probe compares nursing homes to Auschwitz

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The chairman of a sate commission probing licensing of California nursing homes says pictures of some patients look like people he saw at the Auschwitz concentration camp.

Nathan Shapell, a Polish Jew who was incarcerated at the German concentration camp, commented Tuesday at a hearing by the Commission on California State Government Organization and Economy.

At the hearing, several expatients and patients' relatives told of urine burns, bed sores, rough handling and other results of poor quality care in nursing homes.

Shapell, a Beverly Hills building contractor, said in clipped tones at the close of the hearing, "We saw some pictures here that I have not seen since Auschwitz, and I am a graduate of Auschwitz."

John Brooks, a 64-year-old San Francisco resident whose wife was in a nursing home before her death from cancer, also gave a stinging indictment of nursing homes at the hearing.

In a slow, halting voice, the short, black man said, "Nursing homes do not have a human feeling for no one. They only have a human feeling when they hear those cash registers ring."

Repeatedly, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s already-beleaguered state Department of Health came under attack at the hearing about the quality of federal-state nursing home inspections and licensing.

Brown's director of the Department of Health, Jerome Lackner, responded in his testimony that he didn't deny that the department "had a long way to go."

Robert Gerst, a nursing home industry spokesman, said there had been major changes in nursing home regulations in the last year with "much more enforcement."

Department officials testified they were working to upgrade the caliber of inspections at the 1,200 state-licensed nursing home facilities in California.

Present law mandates that state investigators inspect nursing homes once a year, but state officials said they wanted to do six to eight checks a year starting by next July 1.

All this testimony was not enough to assure some members of the commission, known as the "Little Hoover" Commission.

Robert DeMonte, a commission member from Piedmont, told Lackner he thought the Brown administration might be "over before you are ready to start directing the Department of Health."

DeMonte said he had heard a lot of "academic talk" about organization charts and pending plans but had seen little concrete action.

In recent months, the department has been the target of repeated criticism — some of it from an Assembly investigating committee on prepaid health plans and from a Little Hoover report.

Harold Coleman, a U.S. Health, Education and Welfare licensing official from San Francisco, caused a stir when he admitted he had not read the commission report criticizing licensing procedures.

Coleman had just told the commission there is only one three-member federal team in the field checking on the quality of inspections done by a staff of 120 state investigators.

The federal government has the last say on certification of nursing homes to receive federal Medicare and Medi-Cal money, but it only spot-checks some work done by state investigators, Coleman said.

Commission members told Coleman their report used words such as "chaotic," "ineffective" and "irrational" to describe the state-federal nursing home licensing procedure.

"You haven't read our bible," said commission chairman Nathan Shapell, holding up a copy of the report, "and you feel everything is going beautifully."

He told Coleman the report indicated "alleged conflict of interest between inspectors and the people who run the homes."

Coleman said federal random checks come within 90 days of a one-year contract's end. Some commissioners criticized that practice, saying it was too predictable.

RECORD-BREAKING CHOPPERS

Pomona teachers voice dissatisfaction to board

Several hundred angry teachers crowded the Pomona school board meeting Tuesday night, turning it into a shouting match as they voiced dissatisfaction with 1976-77 contract negotiations.

The cafeteria at Palomares Junior High School was not large enough to seat the overflow crowd that took charge of the meeting for about 65 minutes.

Seven from the group addressed the board, including Judd Ellson and Steve Enoch, president and vice president respectively of Associated Pomona Teachers (APT), bargaining agent for the district's certificated employes.

Ellson traced the history of negotiations from last March when APT presented its initial proposal. He described it as one of "frustration" and "very little progress.

"We had good relations with the district last year," said Ellson. "We desire to continue this. We wish only to be treated fairly and with dignity."

Through the summer disagreements have arisen between the teachers and the board's negotiating representatives over the scope of what is negotiable and what is grievable.

The geachers have attempted to retain many of the areas of influence they had gained under a master contract they negotiated with the district last year.

District negotiators have maintained they can negotiate only on 10 items listed in the state's new collective bargaining law.

"I am amused and concerned with this word 'scope'," said Royce A. Hunt, industrial arts teacher at Garey High School.

"It appears to me I am to do nothing, or supply nothing not specifically mandated by contract."

Lexington teacher Josephine R. Sigler said: "We need an arbitration procedure. The administration does not listen to us very well. We have no safeguard without arbitration."

"I find little from district administration to show I have been treated as a professional," said teacher Jean Fletcher. "I worked hard for the tax override last year and all I see are more administrators.

"I do not see one benefit for our kids at school. As a voter, I shall not vote for another override, nor shall I vote for any members of this board who advise teachers to go out on strike if they want to do anything."

"A great demoralization has taken place," said Montvue reading teacher Perry E. Manwaring.

"This is a thing the board will have to wrestle with. I don't know how much money it will take to restore morale lost in the last few weeks. We urge you strongly not to force us to stand against you."

A member of the teacher's negotiating team, Lexington teacher Lizabeth B. Romspert, told the board, "We are not interested in salary and fringe benefits until we get a fair contract."

A district offer of a 7.2 per cent salary increase, accompanied by a $300 per employe increase in fringe benefits (bringing that to $1,200 a year) has been rejected by APT.

Board President Mary Montes, shouted down by Child Care Center teacher Shirley Phillips in her first attempt, finally returned the board's attention to the agenda a little after 9 p.m.

Colorful shoreline sites selected for conservation

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Thirty-eight miles of shoreline have been recommended for purchase with funds from a parkland bond measure on the Nov. 2 ballot.

The $280-million measure, part of a legislative package designed to save California's coast from overdevelopment, includes $110 million for state park coastal acquisitions. It is Prop. 2 on the ballot.

State Parks and Recreation Director Herbert Rhodes suggested Tuesday the $110 million be used to buy 27 coastal sites with a total of 16,000 acres. Most of the sites picked by his department were also recommended by the state Coastal Commission, he added.

The bond measure would also provide $85 million for local parks, $34 million for various state park projects, $26 million for state water project recreation facilities, $15 million for development of wildlife areas and $10 million to fund a state coastal conservancy.

The conservancy would be involved in a variety of programs designed to preserve the coast, including buying coastal farm land to save it from development, officials say.

Larry Paynter, a department spokesman, said if the bond measure passes the sites would have to be approved by the legislature and the state Public Works Board before purchases could be made.

He also said there was no guarantee that the coastal sites could be purchased for $110 million. "It's somebody's estimate," he said.

Here are the locations of sites proposed for purchase with the $110 million and reasons for the purchases:

—Point Dume, Los Angeles County: To buy headland with views of Santa Monica Bay and moutains and access property to several beaches.

—Paradise Cove, Los Angeles County: To provide beach, parking sites and beach frontage.

—Malibu Bluffs, Los Angeles County: To provide park, vista point, possible camping area and shuttle bus terminus.

—Lower Topanga Canyon, Los Angeles County: To provide parking and camping space for adjacent beach and a trail head for Topanga State Park.

—Irvine Coast, Orange County: To provide beach access and day use facilities.

—Dana Point Headlands, Orange County: To provide blufftop park and recreation areas.

—Torrey Pines State Reserve, San Diego County: To provide additions to the reserve and Penasquitos Lagoon wetlands.

—Ormond Beach, Ventura County: to provide beachlands and supporting upland recreational facilities. The site would connect two public beaches.

—Carpenteria State Beach, Santa Barbara County: To provide additional shoreline facilities and supporting upland property down the coast from the existing state beach.

—Gaviota State Park, Santa Barbara County: To provide more beach access and recreational trails.

—El Capitan State Beach, Santa Barbara County: To provide coastline trail easement.

—Half Moon Bay State Beach, San Mateo County: To provide additional beach frontage and upland support area at Miramar Beach.

—Purisima Creek, San Mateo County: To provide beach access and limited upland supporting facilities.

—Lighthouse Field, Santa Cruz County: To provide an urban park in Santa Cruz.

—Manresa State Beach, Santa Cruz County: To provide an upland support area for a two-mile strip of state-owned beach on Monterey Bay.

—South Monterey Beaches, Monterey County: To protect scenic and historic area and to provide dune restoration and an urban beach recreation area.

—El Castillo, Monterey County: To buy the site of Spanish and American coastal fortifications at the Presidio of Monterey.

—Garrapata Beach, Monterey County: To preserve Big Sur views and beach area.

—Point Sur, Monterey County: To protect views along Highway 1.

—San Simeon Point, San Luis Obispo County: To preserve scenic shoreline and expand recreational facilities.

—Morro Bay, San Luis Obispo County: To complete purchase of estuary and its setting.

—Lake Earl-Lake Talawa, Del Norte County: To provide wetland habitat and beaches.

—Dry Lagoon State Park, Humboldt County: To preserve scenic setting of Humboldt lagoons.

—MacKerricher State Beach, Mendocino County: To preserve wetlands, dunes and shoreline at Ten Mile River.

—Jug Handle Creek, Mendocino County: To complete preservation of Jug Handle Creek ecological staircase.

—Fort Ross, Sonoma County: To protect historic setting of Fort Ross and provide additional scenic shoreline for recreation.

—Tom's Point, Marin County: To protect habitat at Tomales Bay and to provide shoreline recreational access.

Pomona accepts million dollar HUD grant settlement

A battle between Pomona officials and the Washington, D.C. bureaucracy has ended in a million dollar victory for Pomona.

By unanimous vote Monday night the City Council voted to accept a negotiated settlement between the city and the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) over a subsidized housing requirement attached to the Community Development Block Grant program.

The housing requirement, known as Section 8, had led the council last March to reject the federal grant, which totals over a million dollars for the first two years.

HUD at that time was requiring the city to accept 140 subsidized housing units in the city. The council felt that was far too many — that the city had enough poor people already without inviting a continuing influx through a new federal aid program.

Inder an arrangement worked out between the city officials and HUD, however, the 140 units has been reduced by the city receiving credit for the 110 units already built and occupied at Drake Manor in north Pomona.

The Drake Manor complex was built by Los Angeles County for senior citizens, who pay subsidized rent rates based on their income.

That leaves the city needing only 30 units to achieve the HUD requirement.

City Administrator Jerrold Gonce said the final 30 units will be split, with 15 taking the form of low interest home improvement loans to families already living in Pomona, and 15 to rehabilitate homes that are presently vacant.

The arrangement means that at most only 15 families might come into Pomona under the program.

Total entitlement to the city for the entire six-year program may be as high as $7 million, although only the first two years would be immediately receivable — about $300,000 for the first year and about $887,000 for the second year.

Monies under the program may be used for such things as parks, street lights, beautification, demolition of old buildings and a variety of the other purposes.

Specific used for the funds have not yet been designated by the council, however.

Complaints filed against 7 Pomona massage parlors

Civil complaints that could close down seven of the eight massage parlors operating in Pomona were filed by the city Tuesday in Pomona Superior Court.

The complaints, filed under the city's "red light abatement" ordinance, are the result of a secret four-month investigation of all eight massage parlors, according to acting Police Chief Richard Slaght.

Mayor Ray Lepire characterized the investigation and court action as the "beginning of the end" for massage parlors in Pomona.

The council feels this is the beginning of a crackdown on all illicit affairs in Pomona. They will be constantly pursued," said Lepire.

The seven massage parlors named in the complaint are Athenas, 560 E. Mission Blvd.; Cover Girl Modeling Studio, 360 E. Holt Ave.; Sultan's Adult Talk Center, 705 N. Garey Ave.; Cleo's Health Salon No. 1, 400 N. Gibbs St.; Cleo's Health Salon No. 2, 956 N. Garey Ave.; Swedish Massage Parlor, 1273 N. Garey Ave.; and Pomona Valley Health Spa, 1567 N. Orange Grove Ave.

Slaght said the investigation, directed by Lt. Jack Blair and Detective Kurt Longfellow, consisted of 43 separate investigations at the seven massage parlors beginning last April.

Tape recordings and other evidence gathered during the investigation show the massage parlors are places of prostitution, said Slaght.

Under the civil process, explained City Atty. Patrick Sampson, the massage parlor operators will be ordered by the court to show cause why their buildings should not be padlocked pending trial.

If the operators fail to refute the city's case and the court issues a temporary injunction against the massage parlors the businesses could be closed down within a month, said Sampson.

Trials could begin within weeks or take several months, the attorney added.

The city's end of the case will be handled by the Glendale law firm of Clancy, Clancy and Myles. The firm has handled similar prosecutions for the city of Whittier.

Ken Myles of the firm would not characterize the weight of the evidence gathered by the city, saying only it was sufficient to file.

Slaght, however, was more outspoken.

"We definitely feel we have a very good case," said Slaght. He commended Longfellow and Blair for what he called a thorough investigation.

About a dozen undercover operatives were used during the investigation, said Slaght, most of them from outside the city.

Until the court action was announced Tuesday, only Slaght, Blair and Longfellow within the Police Department, and City Administrator Jerrold Gonce and Lepire were aware of the investigation.

Arrest reopens child star overdose probe

TORRANCE (AP) — Police have reopened their investigation of the drug overdose death of child star Mary Anissa Jones after arresting a physician who had treated her on charges of dispensing drugs without prescriptions.

Police Lt. Robert Armstrong said Tuesday that Dr. Don Carlos Moshos, 65, of Torrance, was arrested on a district attorney's complaint charging him with 11 counts of illegally dispensing drugs. He was freed on $5,000 bond.

Miss Jones, 18, appeared as Buffy in the television series "Family Affair," which starred Brian Keith. She was found dead of an apparent drug overdose Aug. 28 in the bedroom of a friend's oceanside apartment.

Armstrong said the department's homicide division has begun a new investigation into the death.

"Evidence we have gathered indicates that Miss Jones may have gotten drugs from this doctor," Armstrong said. "We don't know whether they are the same ones she overdosed on or in what amounts she got them. That's why both the police department and district attorney's office are unwilling to commit themselves on the matter."

Armstrong said the State Department of Consumer Affairs and police officers conducted an undercover investigation into Moshos' practice earlier this summer and reportedly purchased a number of drugs, including codeine and stimulants.

Meanwhile, Coroner Robert Creason said in San Diego that Miss Jones' death was the accidental result of "the largest combination of drugs in any case I've ever encountered. The barbituates alone would have killed her."

The coroner said toxological tests revealed large amounts of cocaine, phenicyclidine, quaalude and barbituates in the former actress' system. He added that the autopsy showed nothing to indicate Miss Jones suffered depression prior to her death, but added that "the amount of drugs in her system made it obvious that drug ingestion took place over a long period."

Quaalude is a sedative and phenicyclidine is primarily used by veterinarians in treating animals.

Several bottles of seconal with obliterated prescription labels were found in Miss Jones' purse after her death.

Egg carton labeling changed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A crackdown on the descriptive labeling of egg cartons will go into effect Oct. 7, says the California Bureau of Egg and Poultry Quality Control.

Bureau chief John Miller said Tuesday eggs will be tested to determine if their contents match the descriptions on the cartons.

"A consumer buying eggs in cartons marked 'polyunsaturated,' 'higher in iodine,' or other such descriptive terminology usually expects those eggs to contain a different quality or ingredient than a normal egg," Miller said.

He said normal eggs contain about 1.42 grams of polyunsaturated fatty acids per 100 grams of edible portion. But eggs marked "higher in polyunsaturates" will have to contain at least 2 grams.

The polyunsaturates can be changed with supplements to the chickens' feed, Miller said.

Park restrooms now open morning, dusk

The La Verne City Council has decided that convenience is more important than the possibility of minor vandalism, and so the rest rooms at Kuns Park will stay open from early morning to dusk from now on.

The rest rooms, completed only recently, were kept closed during the early and late hours because the city was concerned about graffiti and vandalism, particularly in the evening.

But councilmen said they had received complains from residents who wanted to use the facilities at other hours. They asked the city staff to keep the rest rooms open longer and to scrutinize the facilities more closely against vandals.

Hunt pressed for last YTS escapee at large

Youth Training School authorities and state law enforcement agencies this morning continued their search for the one YTS inmate still at large after a mass escape from the youth facility and a riot that left two staff members injured.

According to Chino police, only inmate William Winter, of the 14 inmates who made good their escape about 2 a.m. Tuesday, had yet to be located.

In the mass escape and rioting Tuesday that caused an estimated $7,000 damage to two YTS living units, a staff floor supervisor, Gary Cauble, 32, was seriously injured after he was overcome by one inmate who managed to get out of his holding cell.

Cauble this morning remains in serious condition at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland where he was admitted with skull fractures and facial lacerations.

Another staff member, Tapiri Tabasuri, 34, was also injured in the incident, but did not require hospitalization.

At dawn Tuesday nearly 100 staff members from YTS and the California Institution for men, aided by a San Bernardino County sheriff's helicopter and a corn harvester moved into a 50-acre cornfield to flush a number of the escapes believed hidden there.

Within an hour of the assault on the cornfield, Jordon Flagg, 21, the alleged ringleader of the mass escape, and inmates Graig McConnell, Maurice MacGee, and Michael Davis, were back in custody of YTS authorities.

Later Tuesday morning three others, identifed as Mario Richardo Gonzales, 20; Ronny Lee Taylor, 21, and Ralph James Bethune, 19; were recaptured in a trailer park in Ontario on Philadelphia Avenue about four miles from the facility.

Still another inmate who escaped from his living unit was found hiding on the YTS grounds. The escapees captured Tuesday were all transported to the California Institution for Men along with 10 others that were moved from the damaged living units.

Meanwhile, the president of the California Correctional Officers Association Arnold Thompson in a news release Tuesday blamed the YTS troubles on the policies of Alan Breed, lame-duck director of the Youth Authority.

Breed's term has expired, but Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has not named a successor.

Thompson's said, "Contrary to Breed's thinking, CYA facilities are not Boy Scout camps."

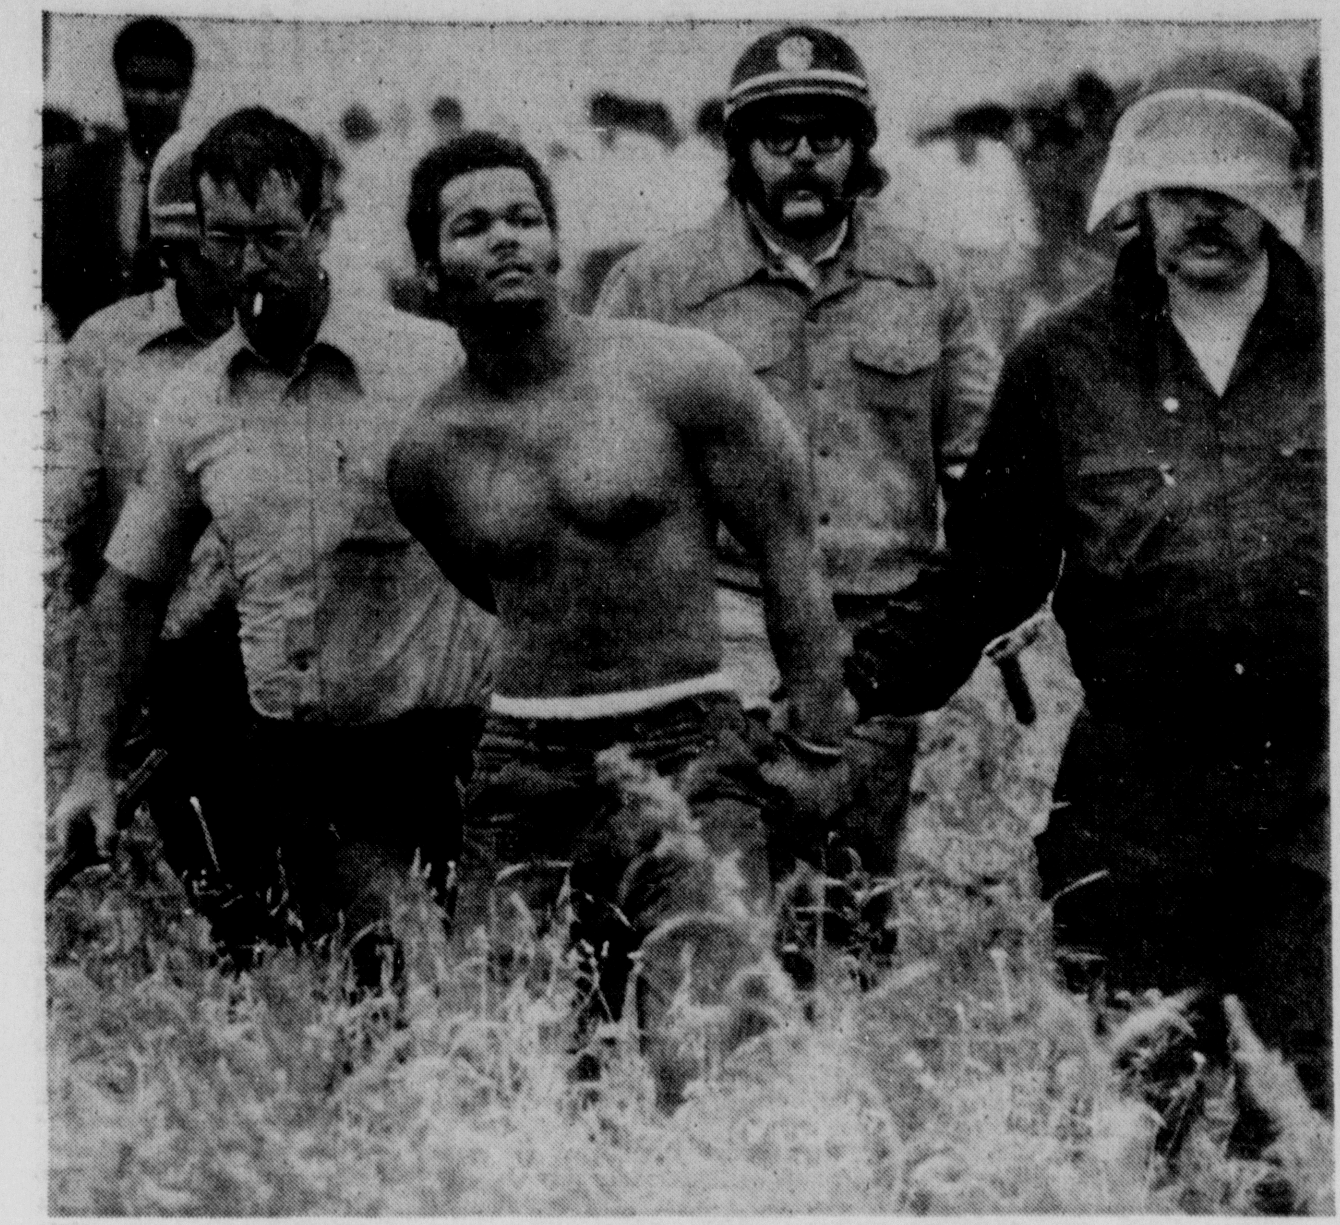
He called the Chino school "a prison facility where a substantial number of aggressive, violence-prone young adults are incarcerated, where custody and safety should — but is not — a matter of major concern."

He said a list of demands, including the arming of YTS guards, will be presented to CYA officials today.

A CYA spokesman, Art German, said Breed is to be replaced soon.

German said YTS escapees increased from 16 in 1974-75 to 54 in 1975-76, but in three years there has been a three-fold increase in the number of youths committed for crimes against persons instead of against property.

"To call it a Boy Scout camp — that's ridiculous. We know the potential there for violence. We're trying to create an atmosphere to make it as safe as possible for the inmates and the staff," German said.



EXCAPEE CAPTURED

YTS inmate Jordon Flagg, 21, the alleged ringleader of a group of inmates who escaped the youth facility early Tuesday morning after two guards were injured, is led out of a cornfield by YTS personnel after he was recaptured. Three other inmates were also found hiding in the cornfield located north of YTS about five hours after the mass escape.

Brown signs bills

Patients receive right to bar electric shocks

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The latest batch of bills signed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. includes one to give mental patients the right to refuse electroshock treatment, starting next year.

Signed Tuesday, the bill by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, resembles an earlier one that a court struck down after doctors brought suit.

While the first bill sought to require approval by three doctors before shock treatment could be given, the new bill gives a patient an absolute right to refuse the treatment — unless it is determined after a hearing that he is incapable of giving his informed consent.

Present law allows doctors to overrule a patient's refusal in many cases.

The use of electric current on the brain has become less common in recent years, but is still considered an effective treatment for depression by some medical experts.

The bill would also ban shock treatment for persons under 12 years of age, impose special restrictions for patients 12 to 16 years old, and strengthen "informed consent" requirements.

Another health-related measure signed by Brown will require the state to monitor and regulate the use of cancer-causing chemicals at worksites. The author is Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo.

Safety officials say 4,000 to 6,000 employers use chemicals that can cause cancer.

Other bills signed:

—By Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, outlawing the use of neck chains on prisoners. Sieroty said neckchaining is a "medieval" practice that has already been outlawed by a federal court.

—By Assemblyman Bill Lockyer, D-San Mateo, requiring that the state minimum wage be at least as high as the federal minimum. California's new minimum wage, effective next month, is $2.50 for most jobs. Federal minimums are $2.20 and $2.30 for varying jobs.

—By Assemblyman Bob Wilson, D-La Mesa, requiring the state's proliferating unaccredited law schools to tell prospective students about the school's finances, faculty qualifications, and bar exam passage rate.

—By Assemblyman Art Torres, D-Los Angeles, requiring the state Air Resources Board to tell the legislature about the economic impact of any ARB emissions standards it adopts.

—By Assemblyman John Miller, D-Oakland, preventing any state or local law enforcement agency from requiring personnel enforcing traffic laws to meet an arrest quota. The number of arrests or traffic tickets issued cannot be used as the sole criteria for promoting or dismissing an officer.

—A measure by Assemblyman Bill Lockyer, D-San Leandro, to authorize the state Health and Welfare Agency to hire non-profit law firms to represent recipients on federal law issues.

"We have enough lawyers on the state payroll without spending an additional $60,000 for a private attorney to bring suit against the federal government," Brown said in his veto message.

—A bill by Assemblyman Gene Chappie, R-Roseville, to appropriate $1 million from the state general fund to pay the counties for postage to mail ballot pamphlets because of a federal law.

"Enactment of this bill would burden the state with costs historically borne by local government," Brown said.

Speedup of Daylight Saving Time bill stalled in house

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speedup procedures to pass a bill extending Daylight Saving Time have been rejected by the House, virtually assuring that the measure will not be enacted this year.

The bill would have set the beginning date for DST as the third Sunday of March and the ending date as the third Sunday of October, beginning in 1977. Under existing law, the country is on DST from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

With few members on the floor, the House voted 11 to 10 for suspending the rules and passing the bill. But the suspension procedure requires two-thirds. No record vote was taken.

The measure theoretically could be revived under regular procedures, but this would be almost impossible because of impending adjournment.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation that would limit access to personal records kept by financial institutions, telephone and credit card companies has been introduced in Congress.

The bill submitted Tuesday by Rep. Edward I. Koch, D-N.Y., and Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., would require either an individual's written consent, an administrative subpoena that the individual could challenge, or a court subpoena with notice to the individual before records could be disseminated.

Koch and Goldwater said at a joint news conference that citizens "should be secure in their belief that no government agents (federal or local), representatives in the private sector or simply another private citizen can have access to the files of other citizens except under rigid restrictions and crime regulated procedures."

Ex-UC chemistry prof draws drug sentence

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A former chemistry professor at the University of California at Riverside has been sentenced to three months in jail for his role in a scheme to sell more than $85 million worth of an illegal drug, the U.S. Attorney's office says.

A spokesman said Tuesday that Dr. Phillip Radlick, 37, of Westfield, N.J., had been sentenced Monday by U.S. Dist. Judge Malcolm M. Lucas. Radlick also received a two-year suspended prison term and was placed on five years' probation.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Darrell W. MacIntyre, who prosecuted the case, said Radlick and two others conspired to manufacture the drug PCP, also known as "angel dust."

Kenneth Marvin Baker, 33, of Hollywood, pleaded guilty in March to conspiracy and possession of PCP with intent to distribute it. He was sentenced to four years and 11 months in prison.

George H. Willers, 27, of Los Angeles, was convicted on similar charges in August and received a sentence of six months in prison and five years probation.

Radlick was convicted in July of conspiracy to manufacture PCP.

MacIntyre said Radlick purchased $3,250 worth of chemicals to produce the substance, then sold them to Baker for $21,000. Baker allegedly was going to make the PCP at a desert laboratory.

Willers reportedly drove Baker to San Luis Obispo to pick up some of the chemicals.

MacIntyre said authorities recovered 1,120 pounds of the chemical used to manufacture PCP. He said that it was capable of producing 1,700 pounds or about 85 million doses of PCP.

A single dose of the drug costs $1 on the streets, the prosecutor said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal study says community-based adult day care centers to help care for millions of disabled and chronically ill Americans should be expanded.

The centers are needed for more than 5 million Americans 65 years or older who are not institutionalized but who are limited in the kinds of activities they can undertake, says the report prepared for the Senate Special Committee on Aging.

Community-based adult day care centers would be an alternative to institutional care, the cost for which has been rising steeply in recent years, the report said.

Taking all age groups into account, from the very young to the aged, the report said that in 1972 about one out of every eight Americans who were not in an institution were limited to some extent in the scope of their activities because of chronic disease or impairment. While it included the young and middle-aged, the report focused its attention on services for the elderly.

Carter proposes energy post

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter says the government responded to the energy crisis by creating a new bureaucracy of overlapping agencies and by turning over its responsibility for negotiating with oil-rich countries to giant oil companies.

As his first debate with President Ford approached, Carter called on Tuesday for abolishing four energy agencies altogether and replacing them with a new energy department in the president's Cabinet.

According to his staff, Carter is preparing for the debates mainly by catching up on his sleep, relaxing at home and reading issue papers from the "black books" prepared by his staff.

They say he is not practicing his lines or subjecting himself to questions and answers from staff members.

Republican critics have long accused Carter of not being specific about many of his proposed changes, including his promise to reorganize the federal bureaucracy.

And although Carter released his first detailed reorganization plan just two days before the first debate, Carter aides said the timing of the release and the approaching debate were unrelated.

In his proposal, Carter said he would abolish the Federal Energy Administration, the Federal Power Commission, the Energy Research and Development Administration and the Energy Resources Council and include their functions in the new department.

That action would require the consent of Congress. Former President Richard M. Nixon presented extensive plans to eliminate and consolidate federal agencies and Cabinet departments, but most of them were ignored by the Democratic-controlled Congress.

He said he would retain the energy functions of the departments of Interior, Transportation and Housing and Urban Development as well as the Environmental Protection Agency to assure that their major reasons for existence are preserved.

Jackson named for Senate race

By The Associated Press

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washngton, thwarted this spring in his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, won renomination Tuesday night, and Seattle Mayor Wes Uhlman led former Atomic Energy Commissioner Dixy Lee Ray in race for the party's gubernatorial nomination.

Jackson easily defeated two little-known opponents, Dennis Kelley and Paul Gumbel, in his quest for a fifth Senate term.

In another key Washington race, King County (Seattle) Executive John Spellman won the Republican nomination for governor.

With 16 per cent of the precincts reporting, Uhlman had 42 per cent of the vote to 33 per cent for Dr. Ray, who needed her party's nomination to further her ambitions of becoming Washington's first woman governor. Environmentalist attorney Marvin Durning, was running third with 25 per cent of the vote.

Elsewhere, Rep. Henry Helstoski, awaiting trial on bribery charges, won his race for renomination in a special Democratic runoff primary in New Jersey, but House Speaker Carl Albert's longtime aide lost his bid for Albert's seat in Oklahoma.

Helstoski, charged along with three aides with taking bribes from South American aliens, defeated state Assemblyman Byron Baer by about 3,500 votes in a primary called because of alleged irregularities in absentee voting in the June primary, when Helstoski won by 1,500 votes.

In the Oklahoma runoff for the Democratic nomination to Albert's seat, 37-year-old State Sen. Wes Watkins easily defeated Charles Ward, getting more than 63 per cent of the vote in the early count. Ward, 58, had been Albert's top aide and had the speaker's endorsement.

In another Oklahoma contest, Carol McCurley, a housewife from the Oklahoma City suburb of Yukon, defeated former American Civil Liberties Union lawyer Stephen Jones of Enid for a Republican House nomination. She will face Rep. Glenn English in November.

In the only other congressional runoff Tuesday — the Oklahoma City-area 5th District where Republican Rep. John Jarman is retiring after 26 years — former hospital administrator Tom Dunlap won the Democratic nomination over Tony Zahn, an attorney who resigned from the Oklahoma City Council to make the race.

In Washington congressional races, the only two congressmen with primary opposition, Democrats Brock Adams and Lloyd Meeds, won their party's nomination.

Spotlight on area crime

Baldwin Park man booked for rape

A Baldwin Park man was arrested early today and accused of raping a young woman hitchhiker, sheriff's deputies said.

They identified the suspect as William Breham Jr., who was arrested at home and booked at the sheriff's station in Industry.

Deputies said two Palm Springs women, whom they refused to identify, were hitchhiking along the San Bernardino Freeway at 1 a.m. when they were picked up and driven to the West Covina area. There the driver let one out, but sped off with the other. He took her to Baldwin Park where the alleged attack took place. The woman, 20 years old, was returned to the freeway and was released. She was contacted there by highway patrolmen who notified deputies.

Investigators said the woman was a former resident of Baldwin Park and was able to lead them to the neighborhood where she said she was attacked.

Labor head clamors for Carter to pay attention to California

By DOUG WILLIS

California's top labor leader says he supports Jimmy Carter for President — but he wants the Democratic nominee to pay more attention to California.

John Henning, executive secretary of the 1.7 million-member California Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, said Tuesday that the federation had been invited, and refused, to send a delegation to Portland, Ore., today to meet Carter and discuss California labor's problems.

"We aren't going. We want Jimmy Carter here," Henning told delegates to the federation's convention in Sacramento.

"This is California, the largest state in the country. We want the people in Atlanta (Carter headquarters) to know that," Henning said.

In other California political developments, Dr. S.I. Hayakawa criticized U.S. Sen. John Tunney as "Senator Flip-Flop," and President Ford's chief budget officer, James T. Lynn, said Carter could not keep his promise to balance the federal budget by 1980.

Hayakawa, the Republican nominee for Tunney's seat, listed nine issues on which he said the Democratic incumbent had switched sides.

Tunney denied switching on two of the items named by Hayakawa, and defended his stand on the others, saying he will change his mind any time new facts warrant new conclusions.

Henning's complaints about Carter were mild compared with his comments about the Republican president.

Ford has been "a bad congressman from the beginning, and a bad President" who is "bungling and inept," Henning told 690 delegates to the convention.

Carter campaign spokeswoman Michelle Willens said the campaign would attempt to find another time for Carter to meet with Henning and other California labor leaders. But she said there is no time for such a meeting during Carter's visit to California this weekend.

"We feel Carter and (vice presidential nominee Walter) Mondale reached out to labor leaders in California. We're sorry this particular time and place apparently was not acceptable to them," she said.

Lynn, director of the Office of Management and the Budget, appeared for the Ford campaign in Los Angeles. He said Carter "has promised everything to everybody" and would not be able to present a balanced budget by 1980 if elected.

Hayakawa told supporters in Antioch that Tunney has at various times taken both sides of these nine issues:

Oil drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel, extending the draft, the selective service lottery, deregulation of natural gas, closing so-called tax loopholes, financing the F14 fighter jet, the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill, congressional pay raises, and national health insurance.

"These are but a few examples of the incumbent's record of flip-flop positions on some major issues. There are many more," Hayakawa said.

Tunney replied that he has never wavered in support of the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill and extension of the draft.

On the others, Tunney conceded switches.

"In the past five years, I have voted on more than 3,000 measures, and sure, I have changed my mind on a few," he said.

SWAT men swamp 2 suspects

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It looked like a battle zone and when police lobbed tear gas bombs into the home on the quiet residential street, a simple burglary had turned into a full-scale four-hour operation that badly damaged the house.

The episode early yesterday morning which resulted in the capture of two men caused minor injuries to three firemen. There were no serious injuries and no shots fired as the Los Angeles Police Special Weapons and Tactics — SWAT — team showed its muscle.

It all began before dawn when a couple in the quiet Fairfax district of Los Angeles, who thought they had dreamed of odd noises, were awakened by burglars, police said.

Within the next four hours:

—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Clare would find themselves hostages, held at gunpoint by two men;

—They would manage to escape their captors separately;

—Police would hurl tear gas onto their home until it caught fire;

—Two 22-year-old men would finally give themselves up.

Police said two men identified as Pierre Fouche and Stephen Coats surrendered and were booked for investigation of robbery.

Police said a neighbor heard screams from the Clare house and reported what she thought was a family argument. When police arrived, Clare was sent to the door with instructions to tell police nothing was amiss.

But when he opened the door, Clare ran, leaving his wife and the burglars behind. Mrs. Clare then persuaded her captors to let her go so she could tell police nothing was wrong.

They approved, so Mrs. Clare also escaped, leaving the burglars alone inside, officers said.

Then came the SWAT team with the heavy artillery. Nearly 40 policemen including 20 SWAT team members surrounded the house and evacuated the neighborhood.

Officers said they used bullhorns and telephones to talk the burglars into giving up. There wasn't a sound inside the house.

So at 8:30 a.m., they fired the tear gas inside. That started a fire and forced Coats and Fouche out.

SUSPECT 'SWATTED' — Two members of the Los Angeles Police Department SWAT team arrest a man identified as Stephen Coats, 22, after tear gas flushed him from a Fairfax district house yesterday. The action took place after a caller reported an attempted burglary.

Prices rise in Southland

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Consumer prices nationally and in the Los Angeles area rose .5 per cent in August.

Figures released Tuesday showed, however, that while prices nationally are increasing by about six per cent annually, they are rising by almost seven per cent in Southern California from their levels one year ago.

Led by a two per cent rise in clothing and upkeep costs, prices in Southern California in August climbed to a record 169.7 on the federal government's Consumer Price Index.

The figures mean that the same goods and services which cost $100 in 1967 would cost $169.70 today.

A spokesman at the Bureau of Labor Statistics said prices in Los Angeles and Orange counties are rising at an annual rate of 6.9 per cent, almost a full point higher than the national average.

Prices here were 3.7 per cent higher last month than they had been at the beginning of the year. Prices in Southern California last month were 6.9 per cent higher than at the same time a year ago. Nationally prices last month were 5.6 per cent higher than the year before.

The only item which remained unchanged in Southern California in August was food.

Everest team's ailing woman fully recovered

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Climber Arlene Blum has recovered completely from the dysentery she suffered at 21,000-foot Camp 2 on Mt. Everest, a U.S. Embassy official said today.

"Arlene's problem seems to have gone away," the official said, adding that she went up to Camp 3 at 23,000 feet Tuesday and returned to Camp 2 in the afternoon.

The 31 - year - old biochemist from Menlo Park, Calif., was accompanied by the leader of the 12-member American Bicentennial Everest Expedition, Phil Trimble, 38, of Washington, D.C., on the trip to Camp 3.

Meanwhile, another woman member of the expedition, Mrs. Barbara Roach, 32, of Boulder, Colo., and her husband, Gerard, 33, were preparing to start the climb from base camp. Scheduled to leave them were Frank Morgan, 38, and Dr. Dee Crouch, 33.

CBS cameraman Peter White, 40, of Santa Monica, Calif., who was brought down to base camp Monday from Camp One at 19,400 feet suffering from altitude sickness, "looked good now," the base camp reported.

"Everybody was healthy and happy," Dan Emmett, 36, of Beverly Hills, Calif., said by radiotelephone.

The weather has improved on the 29,028-foot Everest and "we had the nicest day we ever had here" Tuesday, Emmett said.

Giant West Coast ship takes shape

SAN DIEGO (AP) - A ship twice as big as any ever built on the West Coast is starting to take shape for Shell Oil Co.

The tanker will weigh 188,500 tons when fully loaded. Previously, the biggest West Coast-built ships were 90,000 tons. It will be 951 feet long, 58 feet longer than the record, but much wider and deeper.

In a ceremony National Steel & Shipbuilding Co. lifted a 77-ton sheet of steel to symbolize the start of work Tuesday.

Spokesmen said it will carry oil from Alaska to West Coast refineries by early 1978.

The price tag of the Shell ship is $67 million. A second costing the same also will be built.

Smog — Would have allowed a private party to bring an action to enjoin the violation of a pollution law, order, rule or regulation without first establishing the lack of a legal remedy or showing irreparable injury; SB 2139; Robbins, D-Van Nuys.

Good drainage is important

Perfect drainage is often the difference between bloom and no bloom on annuals that grow during the rainy season. If drainage is poor in a planting bed, it's relatively easy to improve it by slightly raising the level of the soil.

Selection of jury for Sinnott case begins

Jury selection has begun in Los Angeles in the murder-robbery trial of 18-year-old Richard Sinnott who is accused of beating to death Cal Poly Pomona professor William C. Warner almost a year ago.

The trial was transferred into Los Angeles because it could not be accommodated in Pomona Superior Court due to a crowded calendar and the case's expected three-week duration.

Sinnott, of Tempe, Ariz., was arrested at his home several days after the body of the 53-year-old professor of urban planning's nude body was discovered in the victim's Diamond Bar apartment Oct. 20. The youth, 17 years old when arrested, later was ordered tried as an adult after being ruled unfit for consideration as a juvenile at a hearing in Juvenile Court.

Sheriff's homicide investigators reported that Sinnott and another young Arizonan accompanied Warner to the Warner apartment that night after meeting him in a Pomona tavern. The pair were in Pomona after having transported horses from Arizona to the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds for an auction.

Sinnott's trial is underway in the courtroom of Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Billy G. Mills. Sinnott has been in jail in lieu of $50,000 bail since his arrest.

Police dept. probe tabled by council

A proposal to spend $22,000 for an in-depth study and evaluation of the Pomona Police Department operations has been tabled by the Pomona City Council.

The move to hold over the proposal indefinitely was approved unanimously by the council Monday night.

Council member Georgia Grove initiated the move, although she gave no specific reasons for wanting to put off the decision.

The council apparently wants to proceed with the selection of a new police chief before making a final decision on whether to approve a study of the department.

Mayor Ray Lepire said that all seven prospective candidates for the job had been asked their openion of having such a study and none opposed the idea.

If approved by the council, the study would be undertaken by the International Association of Chiefs of Police, which is headquartered in Gaithersburg, Md.

The organization would consider such matters as manpower needs and deployment, operating policies and procedures, administrative and clerical needs, and equipment requirements.

Three area residents win at fair

Three valley residents are among winners in the nature slide competition at the Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona.

Elsie Mead, of 972 N. Towne Ave., Pomona, received a silver medal for "Zion Canyon."

Hugh D. Barnett, 4215 La Junta Drive, Claremont, won honorable mention for "Lioness of Kenya."

Larry Quay, 3967 Topaz Lane, La Verne, received honorable mention for "Mauna Ulu Eroption."

Their slides are among the hundreds of display at the International Exhibition of Photography at the Fairgrounds.

The solar corona, the white-hot halo of luminous gas that is most visible when the moon blocks the sun's dazzling face during an eclipse, thrusts streamers more than 5 million miles into space.

What's going on around here

AIRPORT PROJECTS — Construction projects costing $69,000 have been approved for Ontario International Airport by the Los Angeles Board of Airport Commissioners.

The largest project will be a 600-square-foot gift shop to be incorporated onto the main terminal building. Cost will be $46,000.

The second project, costing $23,000 will be the purchase and installation of jet blast deflectors behid aircraft parking positions.

CATALINA TRIP — The Ontario Recreation Department will sponsor an overnight trip Oct. 5 and 6 for senior citizens.

The trip includes a steamship cruise from Long Beach to the Catalina Island, lodging in a beach-front hotel and tours.

Persons may make reservations at the recreation building, 217 S. Lemon St., Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. The telephone number is 986-1151.

INSURANCE SEMINAR — Administrative law judges of the California Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board will conduct a conference Oct. 19 in San Bernardino on unemployment insurance problems.

The conference, lasting from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., will be held in the State Building, 303 W. Third St.

Topics will include how to file claims, how to file an appeal, where to find the law, how to obtain witnesses and interpreters if needed, how to obtain subpoenas and records needed to support a case, claim records of the Employment Development Department, what to expect in a hearing and how to reopen a record.

The program has been designed primarily to inform attorneys, para legals and other representatives in the practice and procedures of the Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board. But the attendance is open to everyone, said officials.

FOREST IS OPEN — The recent rains have caused the fire closure at San Bernardino National Forest to be temporarily lifted.

But should weather conditions change and cause a rapid drying, this will force the fire closure on short notice, said Doug MacWilliams, forest supervisor.

The recent rainstorms caused extensive road damage in the fire closure areas and some roads haven't been repaired. These roads will thus remaina closed, making the areas inaccessible by automobile and other motorized equipment.

YMCA CLASSES — The West End YMCA has started "movement education" classes for pre-school children.

The course teaches children to use their own creativity and imagination through movement by stimulating them both mentally and physically.

Classes will be held for three age groups: four months to 1 year; 1 to 3 years; and 3 to 5 years.

All classes will meet Tuesday and Thursday mornings for five weeks. Persons wanting more information may phone the YMCA at 986-5847.

Traffic accident death rate remains low

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California highway deaths increased in 1975, but the death rate remained for the second straight year at its historic low of 3.2 per 100 million miles, says the highway patrol.

The annual California Highway Patrol accident report, issued this week, also said there's a worsening problem of young drivers who drink.

On the fatality rate, CHP Commissioner G.B. Craig said it compares favorably with the nationwide average of 3.5 per 100 million miles traveled.

California's rate was 5.0 in 1966.

The report said 3,751 persons died in highway accidents last year, 5.7 per cent more than in 1974.

The report also included a projection, for the first time, indicating that the number of fatalities in 1985 will be 4,454, an increase of 18.7 per cent over 1975.

It said alcohol use is increasing rapidly in the 12-20 year age group, with the greatest increase in arrests for driving while intoxicated from 1972 through 1974 being in the 22-29 year age group.

In 1975, drivers under the age of 21 had been drinking in 33.3 per cent of the fatal accidents in which they were involved.

The report said drivers under the age of 18 had been drinking in 21.5 per cent of the fatal accidents in which they were involved.

It said evidence from a Michigan study indicates "that California might have an increase in accidents if the minimum drinking age is lowered."

Drivers 20 to 24 years old "continue to be the largest age group involved in fatal and injury accidents — 19.4 per cent of the total — with male drivers in this age group accounting for over two-thirds of the involvement," the report said.

Drivers between 15 and 24 years of age were the largest category of victims killed or injured — 22.3 per cent.

Persons 65 and over accounted for the largest portion of pedestrians killed, and children aged 5 to 14 were the largest group of pedestrians injured.

There was a 24.8 per cent drop in the number of bicyclists killed last year — 79. But it was projected that in 1985, 115 bicyclists will be killed.

The worst year for bicyclists was 1972 when 128 were killed.

Motorcycle deaths dropped to 502 in 1975 from 532 in 1974. The CHP said the peak in motorcycle deaths was in 1972 when 584 died. It projected that 646 would die in 1985.

The CHP, in its first statistical breakdown on trucks, found that over 36 per cent of the fatal and injury accidents involving trucks were rear-end collisions.

The report on trucks, excluding pickups and panel trucks, said excessive speed was the leading cause of accidents in which there were fatalities and injuries.

It said most severe truck accidents happen on weekdays rather than weekends, a pattern opposite of that of passenger vehicles.

Political arena

LOUIS BRUTOCAO, Republican nominee in the 35th Congressional District, said government intervention has squashed initiatives in the oil and gas industry and encouraged continued energy waste.

"Only in a free market environment can we solve our energy problems," he noted in a position paper on energy.

As a solution, he proposed deregulating gas and oil prices as an immediate means of relieving the U.S. dependence on foreign oil producers.

"An additional bonus of deregulation would be accelerated efforts to develop cleaner, more efficient and more abundant energy sources," he declared.

"The oil and gas fields are under our feet but they can't fuel our cars or factories until we provide the oil industry with incentives to explore the vast resources. This means we must de-control the prices of gas and oil to allow free market forces to determine price levels to encourage exploration and to create a competitive market which will keep prices at a reasonable level."

REP. JIM LLOYD, D-35th Dist., will host a seminar Friday for small businessmen in the district who seek government contracts.

The program, lasting from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., will be held at the Ontario Motor Speedway. The fee is $10 which includes lunch.

Also attending will be officials from the Department of Defense, General Services Administration, Department of Commerce and Small Business Administration.

They will speak on procurement and business development.

ASSEMBLYMAN WILLIAM CAMPBELL, R-64th Dist., said California must improve its fire loss rate and should create a fireman's training academy.

In a report, "California's Fire Services: Potential for Disaster," he said California and Nevada are the only states not providing funds to train firemen.

His report calls for legislation requiring smoke detectors in all homes sold in the state, for a coordinated effort to develop flammability standards for clothing and for allocation of funds to develop standards for firemen's protective clothing.

Campbell said the United States has the world's poorest fire loss record. More than 12,000 persons die in fires each year, and 200 to 300 of those are firemen.

CLYDE STEPHENS, Republican nominee in the 65th Assembly District, has appointed James L. Brulte of Ontario as his campaign manager.

Brulte graduated from Chaffey High School in 1974 where he served as student body president. He is now a student at Azusa Pacific College.

Stephens will host a campaign dinner Friday at the Islander's Terrace, 4620 E. Holt Blvd., Montclair. The cost is $15 per person or $25 a couple. Tickets may be obtained at the Stephens headquarters, 1584 Village Lane, Pomona. For reservations, persons may phone 623-7618.

JAMES GONSALVES, Democratic nominee in the 64th Assembly District, believes that if California's small business climate isn't improved in the near future, this vital link in the state's economic chain will be headed for extinction.

"One of the more pressing problems of small businesses is the inventory tax bite they face each year," he said in urging continued examination of acceptable ways to ease that burden.

"Exempting business inventories below $16,000 in full market value would assist the smaller two-thirds of California's businesses and cost only $9 million of the $825 million in local revenues generated by the tax.

"This would be most timely tax relief for the small firms most in need of economic recovery assistance," he said.

BETTY WILSON, Democratic candidate in the 33rd Senatorial District, is supporting a measure on the Nov. 2 ballot that would provide 10,000 low-cost housing units for senior citizens in Los Angeles County.

Measure approval would result in construction of 2,000 units in the county's unincorporated areas. These would be built at no cost to the county but with state and federal funds.

"Although this is one of the largest senior citizen housing programs ever proposed, it is only a start at meeting the needs of our many elderly poor who are unable to find decent, economical housing," she said.

A Family Fiesta will be held Sunday from 2 to 6 p.m. at the Santa Fe Springs Neighborhood Center for TED SNYDER, Democratic nominee in the 33rd Congressional District.

Guests will include Carmen Zapata, an actress who stars in the role of "Mama" on the television series, "Viva Valdez." Campaign and dinner donations are asked.

Bouquet garni

When a recipe calls for a bouquet garni (herbs in cheesecloth) substitute western iceberg lettuce for the cheesecloth. Wilt a lettuce leaf in hot water, then tie parsley, thyme and bay leaf in it. The iceberg lettuce adds flavor to a stew, just as herbs do — especially to veal. Discard the bouquet before serving.

Fashion seminar slated for Oct. 1

The accounting faculty at Cal Poly Pomona and the Student Certified Public Accountants Club are sponsoring a one-day fashion seminar, "The Professional Women's Image," on Oct. 1 at Kellogg West Center.

Sponsors said the seminar, given especially for women accountants, arose from an opinion expressed by their male coworkers that the women are not dressing to present the proper professional image of a public accountant.

The 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. program will be coordinated by fashion expert JoAnn Fitzgibbons. Also staffing the seminar sessions will be Cyndi Coiner, accountant, and Helen Sheppard, office manager.

Models for a 4 p.m. fashion show will be representatives from CPA firms and Cal Poly accounting students.

The seminar will close with a champagne reception for students who will graduate this academic year and representatives from 20 major accounting firms in Southern California.

The dress problem for women accountants is relatively recent, according to Keith Ehrenreich, Cal Poly's accounting department chairman.

Ten years ago, the accounting profession was virtually closed to women. Today, however, the picture is changing, and the department's enrollment reflects this change. Out of a total of 600 majors, 180 are women.

Registration is limited to 100 women for the seminar and to 250 total for the fashion show and reception. The seminar fee is $10 and the fee for the show and reception is $1.

Reservations may be made by calling 598-4201 or writing the accounting department at Cal Poly Pomona.

Alhambra man's trial scheduled

A 37-year-old Alhambra man accused of the execution-style slaying of a La Puente man on Aug. 13 in a vineyard near Ontario International Airport faces trial on a murder charge Nov. 1 in West Valley Superior Court.

Roger Eugene Thayer, 37, of Alhambra is accused of shooting George Michael Chavez, 23, of La Puente to death. Chavez's body was found on a dirt road off of Milliken Avenue south of the San Bernardino Freeway on Aug. 13. He had been shot once in the head.

Thayer was arrested three days later after a man contacted the Los Angeles Police Department claiming that the suspect told him he had shot and killed Chavez. Police indicated that the slaying may have been committed to avenge the prison conviction of an inmate at the California Men's Colony in San Luis Obispo. The prison inmate served time with Thayer.

Thayer was held to answer on the murder charge following a closed preliminary hearing before West Valley Municipal Court Judge Dyson Cox earlier this month. The news media and all members of the gallery were not permitted in courtroom during the hearing.

The District Attorney's Office requested the closed hearing in order to protect the identity of the witness.

Newport Beach firm wins bid

A new vocational education building on the Chaffey College campus will be designed by a Newport Beach firm.

The board of trustees selected Hill, Danielson and Associates from seven firms under consideration for the job.

Earmarked in Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s current budget is $1,650,392 for the construction of the building, with the state's share set at $946,500 and the district's ante at $703,892.

Completion is slated for early in 1978.

The Office of the Community Colleges Chancellor notified the State Department of Finance that the cost of equipping the new Chaffey facility would amount to $296,221.

Walnut city council holds public hearing on zone revisions

A public hearing on revisions of the city's single family residential zone ordinance will be held by the Walnut City Council tonight at 8.

Revisions affect wall, fence and hedge regulations, yard requirements, temporary real estate offices and billboards, temporary construction buildings, noncomforming agricultural use of land and additional uses of the conditional use permit.

Various aspects of the revisions have been discussed during the past months. Vern Lawson, city manager, referred to the item on tonight's agenda as "clean-up work."

The council will study the Public Works Employment Act with an eye on the possibility of applying for $120,000 for a four-acre park site on La Puente Road.

The act is federal legislation administered by the state.

Councilmen will be asked by Lawson to approve an agreement with Barrios and Son sof Azusa for maintenance of median strips.

They'll also be asked to make effective immediately a previously approved moratorium affecting residential construction.

The moratorium, a four-month emergency ordinance which may be increased to 15 months, originally included final tract maps, parcel maps, zone changes, variances and conditional use permits.

Councilmen may now alter the ordinance to exempt developers who already have obtained tentative tract map or parcel map approval.

Also on the agenda are procedures for landscape and open space maintenance districts. The procedures include references to a planting plan including ground cover, shrubs and trees.

Classes for 1,325 POMONA COLLEGE students will resume Thursday when the founding member of the Claremont Colleges begins its 89th academic year.

Approximately 345 freshmen and 60 transfer students are participating in the annual new students days at the college. The freshman class has 175 men and 170 women representing 29 states and 19 foreign countries.

The opening convocation will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday in Bridges Hall of Music with David Alexander, president, and Robert T. Voelkel, vice president and dean of the college, as keynote speakers.

Three CITRUS COLLEGE instructors have received recognition from professional organizations in their individual fields.

They are Glenn A. Gorelick, instructor in biology and entomology, Helen Diamond, business administration instructor and Win D. Kelley, speech instructor.

Gorelick presented a paper dealing with butterfly classification at the 15th International Congress of Entemology in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Diamond, who serves as advisor to Women in Management, will be a workshop leader at the organization's Power in Leadership Seminar on Oct. 2 in Los Angeles.

Kelley has been appointed to the editorial board of "Community Junior College Research Quarterly," a new journal sponsored by the adult education program at Virginia Commonwealth University.

Dennis Gray, dean of students at CLAREMONT MEN'S COLLEGE, will serve a three-month appointment as a staff member for a special commission formed by Secretary of the Army Martin Hoffman in response to a cheating episode last year at West Point.

Gray will assist the commission chairman, Frank Borman, president of Eastern Airlines, and five panel members who will study the West Point honor system and recommend reform.

AZUSA PACIFIC COLLEGE will share in $1,700 in unrestricted gifts under the Connecticut General Insurance Corp.'s aid to education program this year. The amount represents a combination of employes' gifts and the corporation's matching contribution.

Robert B. Lewis, owner and president of the Foothill Beverage Co., Pomona, and the K and L Transportation Co., has been elected a trustee of CLAREMONT MEN'S COLLEGE.

The announcement was made by Donald R. Wheeler, board chairman.

Sen Ruben S. Ayala, D-32nd Dist., announced that STATE GRADUATE FELLOWSHIP APPLICATIONS are now available for the 1977-78 competition and can be obtained by contacting his offices at 486 W. Fifth St., San Bernardino, or at 1063 W. Sixth St., Ontario.

There are approximately 350 new state fellowships available for the 1977-78 academic year and recipients will be selected on the basis of test scores, undergraduate grades, personal characteristics and financial need.

State fellowships are available only to those students who will have completed not more than four quarters or three semesters of graduate or professional school prior to Oct. 1, 1977.

The deadline for application is Dec. 13, 1976. Applicants must reside in California and submit scores from appropriate examinations.

How did S.D. Bay get so clean?

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Less than 15 years ago a murky cesspool of garbage and death, San Diego Bay today is shimmering clear, a haven for wildlife and fish of all types.

"It is the cleanest bay in a metropolitan area in the world," claims Dr. J. B. Askew, a retired public health official who helped clean it up.

How did it happen?

The Navy, with its warships controlling the waters, and wastes from industrial plants were identified as the big offenders. Halting the flow of raw sewage from the big ships has also been the toughest job, but with city pressure the Navy has installed self-contained sewage treatment plants now on more than half its ships.

In other ships are holding tanks, and in almost all the naval installations bordering the bay are ship-to-shore sewage connections.

The city's metropolitan sewage system has strictly controlled dumping into the bay since the system was formed in 1963. Tough regulations were enforced by the harbor district.

The two major tuna canneries take into the sewage system today the water that is poured over frozen fish to thaw them for unloading. Tuna boats stay in port only briefly, and their crews stay on shore. A degree of pollution still is blamed on foreign cargo ships and freighters, as well as private fishing boats, but not much.

Getting all the people off anchored boats remains a headache but "the amount of sewage that comes from them is not a big problem" for the entire bay, says Ladin Delaney, supervising engineer for the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

"I tried to get the people off the boats, but I never succeeded," said Askew, who was the board's first chairman.

The improvement in water conditions has been spectacular. The eel grass that provides food for water creatures has made a comeback. Among the fish ready for a boy's hook and line from shore are spotted bass, halibut and perch.

The water now "serves as a reproductive area for things like scallops and lobsters," says marine biologist John Duffy.

No longer is the water brown and smelly.

And ships leave wakes gleaming like whipped cream.

Select group being formed for Expo 81

A select committee of 81 members who will each pay $81 in charter fees is being formed to support the Expo 81 world's fair at the Ontario Motor Speedway.

Organized by the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, the committee has 53 members enlisted so far from Southern California. These include businessmen, professional people, chamber officials and elected city and county officials.

The members will work with Richard Pittenger, president of the Expo 81 Corp., which is seeking to stage the fair in 1981 to celebrate Los Angeles' 200th anniversary.

The committee will serve as a liaison between the fair group and city and county governments, greet and host dignitaries, and assist in solving problems associated with the fair such as finding lodging for the visitors.

The members will meet monthly with Pittenger or other fair officials to receive progress reports and assignments, said Berger Nielsen, manager of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

Those members thus enlisted are from Claremont, Fontana, Colton, San Bernardino, Riverside, Pico Rivera and Ontario.

"But we are seeking representatives from all of Southern California," he added. This includes Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange, Ventura and Santa Barbara counties.

The committee will hold its first meeting within 10 days to organize and select a chairman.

Persons interested in joining may contact Jay Holmes, chamber president, Ontario Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 31, Ontario, Calif. 91761.

The Expo 81 Corp. is seeking international approval to host the fair between May 2 and Nov. 2, 1981. This will be the first world's fair to be held in the United States since 1939.

In addition to forming the committee, the Ontario chamber has pledged to raise $100,000 in loans to show area support.

Thus far, $34,000 has been raised, said Nielsen. The goal is expected to be reached within the next several weeks.

Canyon road resurfaced

Brea Canyon Cut-off Road has been resurfaced from Colima Road to a point south of Oakleaf Canyon Road in Diamond Bar, the Los Angeles County Road Department reports.

The work was done by Industrial Asphalt of Van Nuys under a $19,957 contract awarded last July by the Board of Supervisors.

The project was completed under the county's federal program, using both county and federal funds, Supervisor Peter Schabarum said.

Voter registration drive is underway

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's top election official says the state's new register-by-mail system takes the state as far as it can go in helping to increase the number of eligible voters.

"The rest is up to you," Secretary of State March Fong Eu told prospective voters this week as she launched a statewide "Voter Registration Week."

Ms. Eu and actor Warren Beatty appeared before reporters and the public at the Farmer's Market in western Los Angeles to promote a registration drive aimed at signing up at least one million Californians by Oct. 4.

That's the registration deadline to be eligible to vote on Nov. 2.

Registration by mail went into effect July 1, and Ms. Eu said this means "the state has gone as far as it can to ease the burden of registering."

Ms. Eu said 22 million cards for mail registration are available through county election officials.

About 8.7 million Californians of the 15 million eligible are now registered to vote out.

She said in the 1972 presidential election only 10.4 million persons registered to vote and only 8.59 million actually went to the polls.

In last June's primary, 8.7 million persons were registered, and only 4.1 million voted.

'Outa sight' mushrooms

EBEY ISLAND, Wash. (AP) — Farmer Brown's fields are filled with thousands of tiny mushrooms — and with hundreds of trespassers who think they'll get psychedelic highs by eating them.

Murph Brown estimates that 500 or more young persons, ignoring the "Keep Out" signs posted on his fences, have trampled his fields the past month in search of "Psilocybe pelliculosa" mushrooms, a variety that thrives in late summer.

"I talked to 40 or 50 of them," Brown said. "There were 28 cars last Sunday and they had a bus at the other place.

Fans of the mushroom say it causes a reaction similar to that of LSD, including a temporary loss of awareness of time and space.

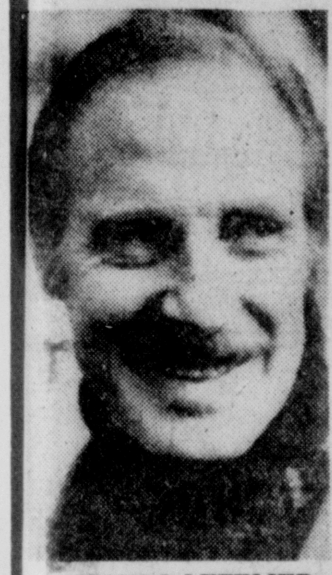
ASSASSINATION — Rescue workers remove the bodies of former Chilean ambassador Orlando Letelier and a woman passenger after their car exploded in Washington Tuesday. The woman's husband was injured in the explosion.



ORLANDO LETELIER

Ex-Chilean envoy dies in car blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The former Chilean ambassador to the United States and a woman colleague were killed Tuesday when a bomb exploded in their car as it passed near the Chilean Embassy, hospital officials said.

Another person was seriously injured in the blast.

The two persons killed were identified as Orlando Letelier, 44, ambassador during the regime of the late Marxist President Salvador Allende, and Ronnie Karpen Moffitt, who worked with Letelier at a research institute. Mrs. Moffitt's husband was injured in the blast.

Officials at George Washington Hospital said a bomb caused the explosion.

Police said the blast ripped the metal siding off the drivers' door and twisted the hood and roof of the car.

Letelier was director of the Trans National Institute, a division of the Washington-based research organization Institute for Policy Studies. He also taught at American University. Mrs. Moffitt, 25, was a staff member of the institute.

Her husband, Michael, 44, a research associate of the institute, was in serious condition at the hospital.

The pavement beneath the car was blackened by the blast, and metal parts were scattered across Sheridan Circle, where the Chilean and other embassies are located along Embassy Row.

After the blast, the car continued moving for approximately 40 feet before ramming into another auto in front of the Romanian Embassy.

WH wants end to 'fairness doctrine'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The White House intends to propose that broadcasting's "fairness doctrine" be dropped on a trial basis in the nation's 10 largest cities, it has been disclosed.

Joseph Ryan, special assistant to Thomas J. Houser, director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy, revealed the proposal Monday at a meeting of the National Radio Broadcasters Association.

Houser withdrew as the scheduled speaker at the session because of a death in his family. Ryan read Houser's speech.

Ryan said the government's original purpose of requiring broadcasters to provide response time to air all sides of a controversy may no longer be valid in big cities because of the "astounding growth in radio in the last several years."

Ryan suggested that a radio station owner or manager who "is unresponsive to his audience is shut off or tuned out and finds his revenues dwindling.

"And as he tunes his dial, the large market listener is likely to reap the benefits of a variety of differing viewpoints," Ryan said.

Under legislation Ryan said the White House would propose, the Federal Communications Commission would cease enforcing the fairness doctrine in the 10 largest radio markets.

Poverty, living costs cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — A world-wide public opinion poll of non-Communist nations shows that poverty and the high cost of living are considered the most pervasive problems, and the notion that one can be poor but happy is a myth.

The global survey revealed that "nearly half the people of the world are engaged in an unending struggle for survival," said pollster Dr. George Gallup, who summarized the findings of the 16-volume report Monday before the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

Unemployment ranked as the No. 2 problem in a 2½-year survey conducted by Gallup International Research Institutes and funded by the Charles F. Kettering Foundation.

The survy polled 10,000 individuals in some 70 nations comprising nearly two-thirds of the world's population. Communist nations and others with restrictions on public opinion surveys were excluded.

"In the planning stages of this global survey it was hoped that somewhere in the world a nation would be found whose people are poor but happy," Gallup said. "We didn't find such a place.

"The one finding from the survey that had great impact on those of us who directed it is the appalling amount of poverty in the world today. It is difficullt for people in the industrial nations to realize how many persons in the world face a daily struggle to get enough to eat. And most of what they earn, which is pitifully small, has to be spent for food."

The report prompted Sen Dick E. Clark, D-Iowa, to criticize U.S. arms sales policies. Clark said the survey showed that the nation is distributing less than one-third as much food abroad this year, 5 million tons, as it did 10 years ago. But at the same time arms sales will be over $10 billion this year, up $1.6 billion over 1975.

Clark said the emphasis on arms sales was as much the fault of the countries which buy the weapons. He said the Gallup survey "indicated an enormous gap between people's need and the needs that governments, theirs and our own, see."

"In South America and in Africa people are relatively more optimistic about the future than in advanced industrial nations," Gallup reported.

$78 million spent by president candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Candidates seeking presidential nominations spent $77.9 million, the Federal Election Commission reported Tuesday in a massive study of primary financing.

The three biggest spenders were unsuccessful Republican challenger Ronald Reagan at $16.1 million, President Ford at $13.8 million and Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter at $12.8 million.

Eight other candidates, all Democrats, spent more than $1 million each.

The report showed that $42.8 million was spent by Democrats as a group and $30.0 million by Republicans. Various independent and minor party candidates accounted for the remaining $5 million in expenditures.

The report cautioned, however, that some financing practices such as repeated renewal of short-term bank deposits could inflate the spending totals. It said the figures should be regarded as indicators of the total flow of money in a campaign, not necessarily as a net campaign cost.

Of Reagan's $16.1 million, for example, $9.6 million was subject to the federal law limiting primary campaign spending. The other $5.5 million included such items as fund raising, legal fees, accounting services and some repeat deposits of the same money. Breakdowns on these figures were not summarized in the SEC's 126-page computer printout.

The study also showed that candidates received $75.2 million, including $24.1 million in federal matching funds, or just under one-third of all campaign receipts.

Most receipts other than the federal matching money consisted of campaign contributions, but an unspecified amount arose from transfers and other bookkeeping practices.

Reagan led the receipts list at $18 million, Ford took in $14.4 million and Carter $13.8 million. All the figures represent campaign activity from January 1975 through August 1976, the end of the nomination.

No general election figures for Carter or Ford are included.

Here are the receipts and expenditures, in that order, in millions of dollars for the other 12 candidates, all Democrats, who qualified for matching campaign funds:

Gov. George C. Wallace: $7.7, $7.6; Sen. Henry M. Jackson: $5.5, $6.3; Rep. Morris K. Udall: $4.4, $4.3; Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen: $1.7, $2.3; Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.: $2.2 $2.2; Fred Harris: $1.5, $1.4.

Also, Sen. Frank Church: $1.6, $1.6; Sen. Birch Bayh, $1.0, $1.1; Gov. Milton Shapp: $0.9, $0.9; Terry Sanford: $0.6, $0.6; R. Sargent Shriver: $0.6, $0.6; Ellen McCormack: $0.5, $0.5.

Pomona school board still takes no action on D.B.

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

Despite pleas by four speakers that they oppose it, Pomona school board Tuesday for a second time opted for no position on the proposal that North Diamond Bar schools be transferred from Pomona district into the Walnut district.

"If this board elects to do so, it will have plenty of time to take a position after the proposal has been considered by the Los Angeles County Board of Education on Oct. 26," said board member Don Donnelly.

"I'm sure that when all the facts are in this board will take a position."

Donnelly made the motion that the transfer consideration be tabled "to give us time to gather additional information." The motion was seconded by Ken Pine. The vote was unanimous.

First to oppose the transfer was Bernard V. Ousley, vice president of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce.

"The chamber feels at this time that it is not in the best interests of the North Diamond Bar schools to be made a part of Walnut," he said.

"We would like to study the pros and cons and be able to consider the long-term effects of such a move."

Pomona teacher Shirley Phillips, a 14-year Diamond Bar resident, said she had fought transfer in the past but said, "I cannot in good conscience fight it any longer. I see no evidence the district is fully interested in the children."

She cited large class size and amid loud applause from the teachers said, "We are not ready to recommend you professionally until you are willing to fight for all the children of this district."

Community leader Don Barnes said the alternatives for Ganesha High School, should the transfer be approved, were disturbing.

"The alternatives say to me, be careful, the school may be shut down. You may find yourself in a busing routine."

Wenefrett Bailey, speaking for the Ganesha Parent Teacher Student Association, said the board had voted unanimously to oppose the transfer and "we urge you to take a stand against it."

Initiated by the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association, the transfer will go to a vote of the people only if Pomona and Walnut school boards file protests with the county.

Walnut school board said this week it may protest at its Oct. 18 meeting in order to allow Walnut voters a voice in the decision.

If neither board opposes the transfer, it would be approved by the county School Board, then the Board of Supervisers and become effective next July 1.

It won't be long now

Chino tentatively approves bingo

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

It won't be long before Chino residents can get out their bingo cards.

On a 3-2 vote, city councilmen Tuesday night gave tentative approval to an ordinance that would allow bingo games conducted by charitable organizations.

Opposing first reading of the ordinance were Council members Eileen Carter and Pete Garcia, both of whom expressed disapproval of "gambling." Mayor Bob McLeod, Leonard Frketich and Angel Martinez favored the new law.

Approval of the law came after several months of controversy and efforts by those opposing it to stop bingo from coming to Chino.

Councilmen faced a packed audience Tuesday, made up mostly of persons in favor of bingo — including members of St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church and the American Legion.

The ordinance, if given final approval on Oct. 5, will put into effect the city's option under a new state law approved by voters last june.

Garcia spoke out strongly against bingo following a public hearing. He referred to gambling in the city before incorporation in 1910 and said "That's why Chino became a city — to get rid of gambling."

"I have a duty to my forefathers. I can't go against what they stood for now."

Mrs. Carter noted that a decision was not being made on church financing or senior citizen recreation. "We're deciding on bingo. Some will be disappointed but there are alternate methods of financing."

The church and American Legion had asked for the games to finance their operations. And senior citizens pleaded for bingo to provide recreation.

"Let's give seniors a chance to stay in town, and not go to Pomona," said Frketich in favoring bingo.

McLeod stated that bingo would have "minor impact" on the city. "I don't wish to see sides taken here on something that has no major significance."

He pleaded for unity and "love of God" among church people and others concerned over bingo.

The mayor said he concurred with voters who approved bingo statewide on the June ballot.

Jack Vanderhorst, a Chino resident, said he had obtained 100 signatures of persons opposing bingo.

Paul Askier, speaking for St. Margaret's, told the council he had 2,000 families or "8,000 persons" behind him in approving of the games.

The ordinance was approved with a number of revisions which councilmen had called for at the Sept. 7 meeting. The law would provide that members of groups sponsoring bingo be from Chino. Also, city costs of licensing would be handled by the groups and appeal of permit denials would be possible.

Chino board

Seek solution to school overcrowding

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Correspondent

Overcrowded schools, a problem Chino school administrators have been plagued with since the start of the city's current housing boom, is apparently worse than expected.

First-week enrollment reports, presented to the board of education by Supt. Royce Lapp Tuesday night, show that 547 more students showed up for class than had been estimated.

The district's enrollment now stands at 11,452 students.

Although no action was taken by the board to alleviate the overcrowded situation, they did receive for consideration a list of possible solutions to the problem.

These include an adjustment of boundaries to lessen the burden of particularly overcrowded schools, spot busing from newly developed areas to schools where space is available, the dropping of intersession, use of multi-purpose space for classrooms and double sessions if necessary.

Two other alternatives listed if added money could be found suggested the rental of space suitable for classroom instruction or portable buildings used on school sites.

"Of these I think the least desirable would be the use of double session," commented Lapp.

He then told the board that most school administrators believed that double session would lead to a decline in the quality of education.

Pressed on the issue by board member Lyle Briggs, a frequent critic of the district's year-round school policy, Lapp listed three reasons he felt there would be a decline in quality.

They were the loss of instruction time due to a shorter school day for chilren, the disadvantage children, especially younger ones, would face who were scheduled for afternoon session, and the confusion to home life that would be caused by possible conflicting schedules.

Briggs' response to Lapp's list was, "There is a possibility of going to it (double session). I don't think we should play up this loss of quality thing."

Lapp retorted: "I'm not trying to play it up. I'm trying to tell it like it is."

Board member Pete Vander Poel suggested that solutions to the overcrowding problem should be left up to local administrators. Members Augustine Tapia and Lyle Briggs agreed.

In other business the board presented an initial response to the California School Employes Association Chapter 102 master contract proposal. The response offers a 4 per cent salary increase to classified employes. CSEA had asked for a 13.5 per cent boost or $100 across the board.

Riverside woman wins crochet title

One of the largest fields of entrants needled through competition Tuesday at the Los Angeles County Fair to prove that age was no deterrent to nimble fingers.

When the contest was over Mary Brose of Riverside won the senior citizen crocheting contest with 15 plus scallops while Mrs. Dorothy Heisler of Fullerton took first place in the knitting contest with 10¾ puffs.

More than 50 entrants competed in the contest, a highlight of Tuesday's activities.

It was a good day at the fair, with attendance beating last year's figure 33,968 to 33,302. Total attendance now stands at 303,120 compared with 314,730 for the first five days.

Some new fare starts tonight. In the wak of the rodeo that ended Tuesday night, a group of 90 youths will present "Up With People," a song and dance show at 8 p.m. in front of the grandstands. Aerialist Dave Merrifield also is expected to perform for the first time tonight, hanging from a trapeze suspended from a helicopter over the grandstand.

Thursday's highlights include the mother-daughter look alike contest at 5 p.m. in the Amphitheater, a microwave cookery contest at 10 a.m. in the Home Arts Building, and the Bustlers and Bows Stakes with a $1500 added purse on the horseracing card.

$3.4 million sought

Ontario to ask for city hall funds

By L.T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

Should federal funding be approved, construction on a new Ontario city hall could start next April.

The City Council Tuesday night approved a request for city officials to submit a request for $3.4 million from a public works measure recently enacted to create employment.

The federal money should be spent to prepare a site, construct the building and purchase the needed equipment and furnishings.

The city proposes to construct a two-story building in a city-county complex being developed on seven acres in the downtown sector.

The city hall is to be located in an area bounded between Cherry and Plum avenues and B and C streets.

City Manager Roger Hughbanks said the city's application will be filed within the next several weeks. "And our target date for construction would be next April," he added. The structure would take about one year to complete.

The county has started construction of a $1.6 million two-story structure to house various county agencies. Completion is expected early next year.

Should the city application for federal funding be denied, there is no immediate program for construction. "We just don't have the money to build it outright," said Hughbanks. "We do have the bonding capacity but we must see our way clear to come up with $200,000 a year to pay off the debt."

In connection with the federal application, the City Council approved a $177,500 contract with the Warnecke-Dworsky architectural firm for site development and designing the city hall. These are needed for the city to submit its application.

The council also denied a request by the city'sLibrary Board to apply for funding under the same federal program to expand the library building.

Council members indicated a concern that a second major application could jeopardize the city hall request.

In addition, Hughbanks said the city's second priority item should be a new city yard. He proposed this be a backup project to the city hall in a federal application.

2 motorists hurt slightly

Two motorists were injured slightly in Pomona traffic accidents Tuesday.

Just before 4 p.m. Thomas P. Freer, 78, of Walnut, suffered an elbow injury when his car ran into the rear of a car driven by Duane L. Day, 46, of Glendora. The mishap was at Ganesha Boulevard north of the San Bernardino Freeway where Day had stopped to turn into a restaurant driveway, police reported.

Freer was released after treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Day was unhurt.

A hour earlier, Betty R. Davis, 37, of Pomona, was hurt when her car hit a car parked in County Road east of Ann Arbor Street. Police said the accident occurred when she attempted to pick up a pencil as she drove. She also was released after treatment at the hospital.

Cucamonga board okays 6 per cent pay increase

By DAVID READER
PB Correspondent

A six per cent retroactive pay increase from July 1976 for management and confidential employes of Cucamonga's Central School District was approved Tuesday evening by the school.

Certificated and classified employes are not included in the salary advance, however. Patton Lewis, board president, said that to grant the increase to the certificated and classified employes would be inappropriate because they are still in the process of negotiating a salary package with the district.

In another salary matter, Supt. Don Sperry said that due to a clerical error summer school teachers were overpaid and each must reimburse the district $40.83.

The board approved his recommendation that the teachers be allowed to pay the money back in one sum or in 10 monthly installments of $4.08.

Approved by the board was the installation of five additional microphones as part of the district's school alarm system. The microphones are to cost $50 per mike and will be located at needed areas of protection at district schools.

Also adopted was a plan whereby student body expenditures for game officials at Central Junior High be reimbursed by the district out of their community services fund.

Upland teachers, trustees to iron out ground rules

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

Trustee and Upland teacher union members will begin Thursday to lay ground rules for collective bargaining sessions.

Teacher pay hike requests are 250 per cent higher than a counter proposal offered Tuesday night by trustees 50 days after Upland Teachers Association asked for a 10 per cent raise and an equal hike in fringe benefits.

Board members came up with a four per cent counter proposal.

Next step is to iron out ground rules for bargaining sessions before such meetings begin possibly as early as next week.

Acting Supt. Glenn W. Hardy said he did not know how long such sessions will last before agreement is reached. UTA President Rick Minnis said there has been no discussion about a strike and such a possibility is remote.

Minnis said each one per cent hike in pay for the district's 240 teachers serving 6,000 pupils would cost the district $38,000. If the entire 10 per cent were granted, Minnis said, it would amount to $380,000 well within limits of the district's $630,000 in reserves.

Trustees' counter proposals to the teacher union came after an hour long closed door session after which the 25-page document was distributed to teacher representatives at the meeting.

In other action, Hardy reported that the federal Environmental Protection Agency Tuesday requested permission to erect a temporary air monitoring station of about 20 by 40 feet on Sycamore School property. The station packed with sophisticated electronic gear, would analyze air and its pollutants in western San Bernardino County.

Hardy said if trustees approve the plan at next Tuesday's 5:30 p.m. meeting, EPA would move the mobile unit in almost immediately. There is a possibility that EPA might want to install a permanent monitoring facility on the site after a three month trial period with the mobile unit, Hardy said.

Trustees William Rugg and William Hutson voiced some skepticism stating alternative sites might be available elsewhere in Upland and questioning liability and pupil safety.

But board President Barry Brandt said he is in favor of the plan to aid in any manner research to clean up the air.

Pomonan apparently slays self

A 62-year-old Pomona man, found shot in the head late Tuesday afternoon, died two hours later at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The victim, Raymond Eldridge Schumaker, of 800 Wilson St., apparently shot himself, police reported.

Schumaker's wife, Irene, 58, and his brother-in-law, Edward F. Grishow, 52, of Upland, said they were in the living room when Schumaker left them, went into the bedroom and they heard a shot. The victim was found lying on the floor with a pistol on the bed.

Claremont woman hurt in cycle accident

A Claremont woman was injured Tuesday on Carbon Canyon Road near Chino when her motorcycle ran off the roadway and crashed through a barbed wire fence.

Julie Stern, 19, of Pitzer College, was treated at Chino General Hospital and later released.

She was driving east on Carbon Canyon Road east of Gensing Lane when she lost control on a curve, said highway patrolmen.

The motorcycle went across the roadway and down an embankment before crashing through the fence, they added.

Chino deserves vote on YRS

The rhetoric over Chino's controversial year-round school program has reached epic proportions.

And in the aftermath of School Board President Al McCombs' attack on three other board members last week, it is uncertain whether the issue ever will be settled — without a public vote.

Since the school board is split down the middle, we suggest that an election to decide whether voters want year-round school or not is necessary.

The balloting obviously should give the voters a real choice: whether to continue YRS or drop it and revert the Chino schools back to the traditional nine-month program.

All the surveys taken on year-round school suggest that residents would give it a healthy vote of confidence in any election. Thus, board members who may be afraid of the yes-no question on the ballot shouldn't be concerned.

The school board definitely has flip-flopped on the YRS issue, to coin a popular phrase. But why not end the flip-flopping and settle the controversy once and for all?

It will take new state legislation to allow a strict yes or no vote on YRS, so we support that legislation.

The Chino school board should quit the rhetoric over year-round school and move boldly toward settling the issue.

Publicizing our corrupt officials

In his recent go-around with President Ford over the question of whether FBI director Clarence Kelley should have been fired because he accepted gifts from subordinates and let bureau agents perform certain interior decorating services in his apartment, Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter made a good point.

People have a right to ask, he said, "if the big shots in Washington get by with it, why can't I? . . . What sort of inducement is that to young people not to break the law?"

Now it may be impossible to prove that misconduct by public officials encourages the same on the part of the ordinary citizen, and in Kelley's case there were, at least in the President's estimation, a number of extenuating circumstances.

But certainly, the belief that elected and appointed officials are "getting by with it" on a grand scale is one cause of Americans' widespread disgust with government and politics.

The fact is, however, that since 1970 something like 1,000 federal, state and local government officials have been convicted on federal corruption charges involving extortion, bribery, kickbacks and other abuses.

This was revealed last month by Assistant Attorney General Richard L. Thornburgh. In light of the Kelley affair, and Mr. Carter's attempt to make a little political hay out of it, what Thornburgh said before bears repeating.

The cases he cited were not minor ones by any means.

At the federal level, for example, and excluding the Watergate offenders, convictions were obtained during this period against a sitting vice president, a half-dozen members of Congress, a number of congressional aides and a judge of the court of appeals. Also on the federal list were high-ranking officials of such agencies as the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Small Business Administration.

At the state level, high-ranking officials included a governor, state judges, cabinet members and legislators.

And at the local level, scores of mayors, councilmen, county executives, law enforcement officials and political leaders were convicted of crimes involving the betrayal of their public trust.

All of which presents something of a dilemma: Should this startling number of convictions be publicized, or should it not?

On the one hand, it makes it appear as if corruption truly is rampant in government — although Thornburgh took pains to emphasize that this was not necessarily so, but rather was the result of more energetic prosecution by the Justice Department.

On the other hand, to ignore it or downplay it would be to permit the public to go on believing that everybody in government is "getting by with it."

We just hope that the Justice Department continues its vigorous activities, regardless of which presidential candidate wins the election.

Thought

"May the Lord give strength to his people! May the Lord bless his people with peace — Psalm 29.11.

"The search for peace has its high hopes and its deep frustrations. But after the frustration, there is always renewed hope. On behalf of the United States I would say in my closing words that we believe that international peace is an attainable goal." — John Foster Dulles, former Secretary of State, addressing the United Nations.

Little steps to reform

Dear Editor:

The purpose of this letter is to comment regarding your editorials on political reform in the September 12th and 13th issues of your paper.

Criticism of current efforts by Congress to reform the political process aids and abets those who are fighting such reform every step of the way. Most politicians must be dragged kicking and screaming into reform by their constituents. Because of this the public must be willing to accept "half a loaf" or end up with nothing. Yet, if relentless pressure is constantly applied by the voter, little steps are taken over the years until adequate reform is attained.

Common Cause members are not fooled by weaknesses or loopholes in political reform laws, but we recognize that the American political system thrives on compromise. The all or nothing approach advocated by your editorials usually ends up amounting to nothing.

Excellent examples of good but not perfect steps in the right direction are Propositions A and B on the upcoming November ballot. These propositions will provide Los Angeles County with the balance of powers necessary to curb runaway tax increases to support bureaucratic squandering of public funds. The inability of the present system to cope with the current property tax crisis, and the nine hundred per cent rise in the cost of county government in the last twenty-five years is proof of the inadequacy of the current way things are done. Passage of Propositions A and B will result in immediate tangible savings of $300,000 a year in overhead staffing and approximately one hundred million dollars a year savings as a result of better management.

In its short life of six years, Common Cause has been instrumental in attaining many significant political reforms by being satisfied with small realistic gains. We believe that this is the American way and we hope that your readers will agree with us.

Ford aborts drug crackdown

Publicly, President Ford has called for a crackdown on the kingpins of the narcotics trade. But behind the scenes, he and Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald Alexander aborted a tough drug enforcement program.

Ford's failure to back the program comes at the very time when the heroin flow from Mexico, Europe and the Far East is at a peak and the nation appears headed for a new addiction crisis.

Top narcotics dealers rarely handle the drugs. Instead, they rake in lucrative profits from street sales and hide their illegal spoils in foreign banks. Clearly, IRS is an essential agency in making strong cases against the money men.

Thus, last April, the President ordered Treasury Secretary William Simon and Alexander to plan an IRS drug crackdown. The "merchants of death, who profit from the misery and suffering of others, deserve the full measure of national revulsion," Ford said in a major speech.

Treasury officials thought Ford meant business. They asked the White House for $20.6 million for intelligence operations, much of it to be used in the fight against narcotics.

Ford's own budget office turned down the request.

Meanwhile, Simon established a Treasury Anti-Drug Enforcement Committee. The panel, headed by Treasury Under Secretary Jerry Thomas, was supposed to develop a plan to combat the drug peddlers. Other members included David Macdonald, Assistant Treasury Secretary for enforcement activities; Vernon Acree, commissioner of the U.S. Customs Service; and Alexander.

Thomas, according to a confidential memorandum, submitted a dynamic 14-point plan developed by Macdonald that called for a strong IRS role in fighting drug traffickers. Under the proposal, which the committee supported, the IRS would annually investigate at least 600 of the biggest drug dealers in the country.

The Macdonald plan never saw the light of day. Alexander refused to set up an anti-drug program within the IRS and dispatched a weaker proposal to Simon's office. His memorandum called for a simple exchange of information between the IRS and Drug Enforcement Administration. The document falsely indicated that the Alexander plan had Thomas' approval.

Indeed, Thomas was not even invited to a secret meeting between Alexander and top Treasury aides where the final agreement between IRS and DEA was drawn up.

Shortly afterward, Thomas wrote another confidential memo imploring his committee members to accept at least a portion of the stronger Macdonald plan. "Without these components," the document states, "it is unlikely that a new program will be . . . successful . . . As a matter of fact, it does not appear that the IRS agreement (with DEA) provides for a separate, identifiable program as contemplated by the President."

Thomas' attempt to save the Macdonald proposal failed, and the woefully inadequate agreement between the IRS and DEA was adopted.

To silence internal opposition to the weak program, the White House quietly moved Macdonald from Treasury to a Navy Department job that has nothing to do with drug enforcement.

Rep. Charles Vanik, D.-Ohio, will expose the lackluster efforts of the IRS and the White House to fight drug abuse in testimony before the new Select Committee on Narcotics and Drug Abuse.

Footnote: White House spokesmen have consistently said that the Administration is doing all it can to fight narcotics traffic.

UNLOVED DIPLOMAT: Secretary of State Henry Kissinger summarily dismissed James Akins from his job as ambassador to Saudi Arabia last year without telling the diplomat the reason why.

However, the story is told in secret memos and letters Akins sent to friends in the United States.

Akins first learned he had been fired when he read it in the newspapers of Aug. 19, 1975. "I checked with the (State) Department early that morning," he wrote to Sen. Charles Percy, R.-Ill., "and found no one — not even Assistant Secretary (Alfred) Atherton or Under Secretary (Charles) Robinson — who knew anything. By late that afternoon Atherton confirmed that the story was true."

Akins had been sending back reports that the Saudis were dissatisfied with the way the U.S. has been bolstering the Shah of Iran. Kissinger, Akins knew, strongly supported the Shah. The ambassador thus felt it was his anti-Iranian reporting that had upset Kissinger.

"I've pressed for reasons" Akins wrote to Percy, "and have been told only that Kissinger dislikes me and that certain aspects of my reporting have 'annoyed' him. There has been no suggestion that anything I have written is wrong or that any analysis is faulty — just that my reporting doesn't fit in with what the Secretary wants to hear."

At the time, Kissinger and his diplomatic entourage was flitting through the middle East in an effort to work out the Sinai accord between Egypt and Israel. "The Kissinger party (but not the Great Man himself) confirmed that I will be leaving soon," Akins wrote to Treasury Secretary William Simon.

OSHA booklet scrapped

By TERRY Wade
PB Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — In keeping with standard government policy the Occupational Safety and Health Administration has provided, excuse, has printed a pamphlet on farm safety entitled "Safety With Beef Cattle."

The pamphlets, some 100,000 of them, are now sequestered and not for public consumption, ergo the switch above from provided to printed. Even congressmen were denied copies.

The pamphlet's original purpose in being was to enlighten those of us who must work around the farm to the dangers that lurk about us. In other words the government, in keeping with standard government policy, wanted to help those who obviously need help.

The withdrawal doesn't signal the end of government helpfulness, alas, it is more like a coverup while they try again.

The OSHA pamphlet was first reported by Texas Senator John Tower. The Republican was upset by the language in the booklet.

When Tower operatives tried to get 100 copies of the pamphlet, after giggling about its absurdity, OSHA let them know it wasn't available in any quantity.

Tower immediately issued a press release (that's standard political policy) declaring the brochure would be "grossly insulting to farmers if it weren't so hilariously funny."

(i.e. don't climb a broken ladder).

What the public missed when OSHA hustled the pamphlet off the shelf is a masterpiece in literature Tower claims could have been "written for morons or by morons or both."

Tower's wrath was no doubt prompted more by the expenditure of some $10,000 in tax monies than by the silly nature of the book, but calling it simplistic is an understatement.

One paragraph warns, "Hazards are one of the main causes of accidents . . ." That's a little obvious, but still a reasonably sane expression, but the pamphlet adds, ". . . A hazard is anything that is dangerous."

Other tidbits no farmer worth his salt should miss include a suggestion you should "Put away tools, equipment and feed when not using them." That's a good idea. The book continues, "If they (the tools) are lying around, you could fall on them and get cut or bruised." No joke!

Farm boys are lucky the booklet never became widely distributed or their days of skinny-dipping in the farm might come to an abrupt end.

We all know that it is probably illegal to do that nude swimming anyway, but OSHA's little jewel of a pamphlet in a "HOW TO STAY WELL" paragraph declares, "Never swim in streams or ponds that your cattle use."

In all honesty there are interesting and probably worthwhile notes in the pamphlet, but even OSHA must have realized that the American farmer isn't a moron.

It's a good thing they decided to try again and too bad they wasted their time and our money the first time.

Just in jest

The difference between business success or business failure is very often little more than the magic of an original idea. — There was this orchardist in Central California. Faced with a surplus peach crop, he tacked some cardboard signs to grape stakes and posted them along the road leading past his property. The signs read, RENT A PEACH TREE. In a couple of days he had signed contracts on 150 trees at $25 each. Through the magic of an original idea, which involved no work, no sweat, no worry on his part, he found himself almost overnight $3,750 better off than the fellow who owned the adjoining orchard and just let his surplus peach crop drop to the ground and rot.

And speaking of the magic of an original idea, one of the most successful examples of that sort of business acumen was displayed by the young daughter of Presidential candidate Carter. Instead of following in her father's footsteps and concentrating on the sale of peanuts, she set up a lemonade stand in front of her home and sold cooling drinks to newspaper and TV reporters at 50 cents a glass.

Brown mute on education

Just what a mess the Legislature and the lack of leadership on the part of Governor Jerry Brown has allowed the public educational system to drift into becomes apparent in the rift which has developed between Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles and the governor.

Brown incensed Riles by vetoing his major school reform effort. Known as RISE, standing for Reform of Intermediate School Education, the bill proposed state grants for councils of parents, teachers and students; development of personalized learning programs; increase of counseling and off-campus learning; and statewide competency standards in math and reading.

What probably sizzles Riles more than anything about the veto is that the program had been in the legislative hopper for two years and as Riles says, "exhaustively examined, debated and refined". Riles undoubtedly feels that the governor could have indicated all along the line provisions which would be acceptable and those which were not.

Mindful of Brown's lofty statements about the need for educational reform Riles cannot be blamed for feeling let down after his efforts.

Brown's objections were first to the money which he asserts would have amounted to $200 million annually after the program got fully under way, something scheduled for seven years hence. He added that he saw nothing in the proposal which reached the heart of the problems. He identified those as "violence, vandalism and declining achievements".

The governor's concern over the educational system of the state is understandable and shared by most citizens. Spending more than $13 billion a year for the public schools, the Legislature is confronted annually with pleas for more. And, yielding to these demands each year has not seemed to produce any improvement but rather only further declines in educational standards.

But the spat pointed significantly to the lack of leadership on the part of the governor for a way out of the educational muddle. Asked whether there was a basic conflict between his approach and the governor's, Riles asked, "What is his program? It hasn't been unveiled."

What Riles was saying is, that after two years in office, Brown has contributed nothing more than criticisms of education without offering any constructive programs.

The governor has been playing it by ear. He contends that he has pursued a program, citing his backing of collective bargaining for school employes, proficiency requirements for high school graduation, changes in summer sessions, early childhood education, early high school proficiency graduations, and optional physical education in high school along with an increase of $400 million this year for public schools. The trouble with that contention is none of those things were initiated by Brown. If they were part of his "program" he has maintained the best kept secret Sacramento has seen in years.

Brown resorted to some old ploys in justifying his veto declaring that it "isn't Christmas time every day around here and I'm not Santa Claus". Then he suggested that Riles reform hadn't considered a reevaluation of the junior high school concept and raised the question of whether it might not be more appropriate to return to the old grammar school grades one to 8 concept.

Of course it is admirable for a governor to get hard-nosed about appropriations. The public has been screaming for a halt in government spending. It is also desirable to review the educational system and question whether or not the programs shouldn't be changed.

But if Brown felt the system could be improved by abolishing junior high schools and returning to the grade school programs, why didn't he signal those views to Riles before now instead of letting him labor for two years attempting to bring about his version of reform?

Action Line

To ask help in solving problems with which you have been unsuccessful, write to Action Line, The Progress Bulletin, P.O. Box 2708, Pomona, Calif. 91766. Sign your full name, address and phone number and include copies (not the original) of receipts or other documentation possible. If your letter is published, only your initials will be used.

Application for credit rejected

I have made application for credit at least two times recently only to be rejected due to my TRW credit report.

It seems the credit reporting agency's records indicate that I have two bad references. I have paid off one and obtained a letter stating so.

The other bad report is from Redisco Inc., Newport Beach.

I contacted a representative of Redisco and tried to get her to give me credit for the payments that I have made and was informed that I would not get any recognition until the amount is paid in full.

TRW shows that I owe $1,700 plus interest. I feel that I am being discriminated against. I only owe $998.98.

Due to hard times we are all facing now cash is hard to come by. Credit is sometimes the only way out, especially for a family man such as myself.

I'm not complaining about TRW. The people there can only go by what their customers report. But Redisco should at least give some credit where credit is due.

Thank you in advance for any help you can give me. — O.L., Pomona.

Redisco answered our request by altering your record to show that you owed $998.98 plus interest from June 28, 1968, at the rate of seven per cent.

A. C. Miller, branch manager, gave other details of the credit report. He sent a copy to you.

I contacted a man I had heard was buying antiques. I wish I had never telephoned him.

He came to my place to look at the things I wanted to sell. He kept picking up articles and patting them.

I asked $50 for them. He said that he had to make some money too. He offered me $25 and I took it but I think it was a ripoff.

The next day I called him and said I wanted an itemized receipt. He said he couldn't be bothered going all the way to give me one.

I think I should get $25 more or my antiques returned. — G.S., Pomona.

You'll continue to have problems unless you ask for a receipt at the time you do business.

In this case you consented to take the amount offered you for articles you said were more than 40 years old.

We learned that the man you dealt with was one of the proprietors of the Rose Bowl Flea Market in Pasadena. We couldn't reach him but talked with another member of the firm who recalled your complaint.

She said that articles over 40 years old don't necessarily have much value as antiques. It was impossible to give you an itemized receipt when you asked for it, she said, because some of the articles already had been sold.

For Thursday, Sept. 23, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Alliances made at this time will prove to be mutually advantageous. This is true especially if you team up with high-caliber people.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An interesting development is in store for you careerwise. There could be a sudden shift of the status quo and this opportunity would present itself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be alert for a speculative venture that appears to be earmarked for you. It may even look like a poor gamble at first glance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A situation you've been concerned about will be successfully concluded. And it could pave the way for something of even greater promise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An unanticipated condition could eclipse your present plan. Don't fret, things could work out better than if you'd programmed them yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Dawn is breaking on your financial horizon today. Money could loosen up with the advent of an untapped source of income.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Something big is in the offing. Although others are involved, the mechanism for achieving success will lie largely in your hands.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Others are working for your benefit. Things could be going on that you may be left in the dark about, but you'll learn of them at the proper time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Several important allies will prove their worth over the next few weeks. Once again, you'll know the value of friendship.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There is a major change coming. It will have an advantageous effect on your career. Someone important will play a prominent role.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Ideas you conceive today should be pursued with vigor. Don't let them gather cobwebs. They could prove personally profitable.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Work in harmony towards the same goal as your mate. What you both want can be obtained in the near future.

Your Birthday, Sept. 23, 1976

A year of exceptional promise is in store, especially in areas where you can assert yourself creatively. Using your keen imagination can fatten your bank account.

Beaten wives can get help

Dear Ann Landers: Some time ago a woman asked you what to do about a husband who beat her up repeatedly. You said, "Leave him." You also said a woman who stays with a man who beats her is sick. Your advice proves you have no idea what a battered wife's life is like.

Well, I can tell you. It's hell. At least the woman who wrote got her husband to see a psychiatrist. Most men won't go. They see nothing wrong with what they are doing. You say, "LEAVE." How can she leave when there is no place to go?

You are probably thinking, "There is ALWAYS a place to go," but you're wrong. I read where London has 75 shelters for battered wives and their children, but in the United States there are very few.

People who've never had the experience can't imagine what it's like to be a battered wife. More has been done to help abused animals in this country than women. You call the police and the guy is arrested. Within hours he is out of jail — mad as hell. So he goes home and beats up his wife again.

I've been clobbered dozens of times in the ten years we've been married, often in front of the children, for no reason except I said hello to a man on the street, or cooked a dinner my husband didn't like.

I've resigned myself to more of the same because I'm trapped. I don't expect you to print this but I had to write. Sign me — Without Hope

Dear W.H.: A woman who says "I've resigned myself to more of the same" will surely get it. I do not agree that there are no alternatives. There may not be many, but there must be ONE, and it's up to you to find it.

Contact your clergyman, a good-hearted friend or relative, the Catholic Charities, the Family Service Assn., the Salvation Army, the Jewish Welfare, the Community Referral Service, or any feminist organization (especially N.O.W.). Call the doctor who delivered the children. These numbers are in the phone book.

Arrange with your oldest child to go to the neighbors and phone the police the next time your husband starts to beat you. Take him to Family Court and insist that he live elsewhere and support you and the kids.

Unless you have the determination to put an end to the brutality, you WILL be trapped forever.

Dear Ann: I find it hard to sympathize with "Crushed. In Cincinnati" and her small-busted sisters. My probelm is just the opposite and I'll trade with her.

Ever since I was 14, I've known that most boys are interested in one thing. Or should I say two?

When "Crushed" shops for a blouse or a dress she can wear any style. I must avoid low necklines, clingy fabrics and knits. The brassiere problem is simply awful. Mine have special padding on the straps and still they cut into my shoulders.

A woman can always make herself look larger, but to accomplish the reverse requires surgery which is painful and expensive. "Crushed" should count her blessings. — Too Much Is No Good

Dear T.M.: I've heard from many women who have had the surgery you speak of. They say it was worth the money and pain. Reconsider.

Are you, or is someone you care about messing around with drugs — or considering it? Are all drugs bad? What about pot — in moderation? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs," separates the facts from the fiction. Mint doesn't make cents

"A penny for your thoughts!"

This whimsical phrase from American folklore may soon go the way of "23 skidoo!" and "Oh you kid!" if the U.S. Mint accepts a suggestion to stop coining pennies. It makes good cents.

A government-sponsored study by an organization called, for reasons best known to itself, Research Triangle Institute of North Carolina, came up with the startling fact that the mint, currently stamping out $14.25 billion pennies annually, will be making 36.9 billion by 1990 if the coin remains in circulation. Imagine 36.9 billion pennies! Imagine 36.9 billion ANYTHING!

RTI (not to be confused with RTD, s-s-s-s) reported that the pennies would be worth $369 million — but would cost $540 million to make. Not what you might call money-making operation. More like penny-wise, pound-foolish.

Sentiment aside, we have no reason to hang on to the one-cent piece. If you need one for the parking meter, all the little coins in your pocket are dimes. (If you need a dime to make a phone call, all the little coins are pennies.) Pennies are only useful in accompaniment of 49 or 99 of their brothers, but if you had that many in your pocket you would list like a sinking freighter.

A penny saved is a penny earned. But who wants to earn a penny? Most of us are working for peanuts, anyway. (No political inuendo intended). A new house will cost "a pretty penny,' we say, but it takes a heap o' pennies to make a house a home.

Pennies are pretty useless on today's market unless you are a gum ball addict. Merchants sell everything for $1.99 or $4.99 or $69.99 but that doesn't mean you get a penny back. You still owe several pennies for Gov. Brown.

Another disadvantage of pennies is that they are so close in size to dimes that I frequently get them confused. In a darkened bar I can't tell a dime from a penny, but the bartenders can. They are equipped with radar.

Research Triangle Institute (lumme, what a name!) also proposed that Uncle Sam stop minting 50-cent pieces and issue a new, smaller dollar coin. Since a dollar will buy only half what it did a few years ago, the "smaller" is very apt. In fact, the whole study was a commentary on the economic Slough of Despond in which America now wallows. Get rid of pennies and half-dollars and issue new silver dollars. (I use the word "silver" in its broadest possible context.) It would cut down on bank robberies, I suppose. Anyone trying to lug off $5,000 silver in silver dollars while the television cameras whirred, would be under a distinct handicap. Anyone entering a bank with a shopping cart would be the instant focus of suspicion.

My advice to the U.S. Mint would be to forget a about coins entirely and issue money in the popular denominations — bills for 99 cents, $1.99, $4.99. These are handy, easy to carry, and in constant demand. Hand the clerk a $4.99-bill and wait for your change.

Today if a man is "sound as a dollar," he's on the edge of the grave.

Dr. Lamb

Many reasons for fatigue

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read an article on reasons for being tired. This article mentioned folic acid deficiency. That came the closest to being my problem. What is folic acid deficiency? I never had heard of it. What are its symptoms and causes? What can be done about it?

I am 53 and have seven children. I weigh 128 pounds and take Diupress, potassium chloride, Miltown and Enovid. Except for being weak at times and dizzy about a week at a time twice a year I seem to go great.

DEAR READER — Your letter amused me as it reminded me of the problem medical students have. Each time they read about a new disease they are sure they have it. By the time they finish medical schools they have had an infinite variety of strange diseases. I see you now have folic acid deficiency. It is human nature to read about something and wonder if you have it.

Fatigue is caused by many different things. It is a common symptom of problems ranging from emotional strain and depression, to tuberculosis, cancer and a host of diseases which I won't mention lest you develop these too.

I do hate that you take Diupress which is ordinarily used for people with high blood pressure. It tends to eliminate salt from the body. Excess elimination of salt often results in a sense of fatigue.

If you have high blood pressure it should be determined if it is related to birth control pills. I don't know what pill you will be taking by the time you receive my answer but it is true women develop high blood pressure in response to taking the pill.

Now to your question about folic acid. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-5, Vitamin B-12, Folic Acid, Pernicious Anemia, to give you more information than space allows here. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Folic acid has actions similar to vitamin B-12. It is essential in the formation of new cells. The nucleus of each new cell needs either folic acid or both it and vitamin B-12 to form vital new amounts of nucleic acids. Without this the 200 million new red blood cells you must form every minute cannot be formed. This failure in new cell production results in an anemia. The anemia from folic acid deficiency is much like pernicious anemia. In many respects they are hard to separate even using good clinical tools.

Other areas of the body that undergo constant regeneration also show failure in development. The lining of your intestinal tract is a good example. Did you know normally it is replaced every three days? When this function fails, diarrhea and other digestive complaints occur. The tongue is also sore.

You cannot substitute folic acid for B-12 because it does not protect the spinal cord from degeneration. Fatigue from folic acid deficiency is mostly related to the anemia. Folic acid is found in foliage foods, specifically spinach and other leafy vegetables. A small amount is found in many of the common daily vitamin preparations. It is not thought wise to take an excess amount because it may obscure a vitamin B-12 deficiency and result in serious complications.

Opening lead — Q♥

By Oswald & James Jacoby

In its basic form the Gerber convention, invented by John Gerber of Houston, uses all four club bids made in a strong bidding sequence to ask for aces. Today's expert uses it when four notrump does not ask for aces to take its place.

The simple way to play Gerber is to provide that any jump to four clubs directly over partner's bid of one or two notrump is a request for aces.

The response to a Gerber four clubs are:

Four diamonds — zero or four aces, four hearts — one ace, four spades — two aces, and four notrump — three aces.

Today's hand shows Gerber over notrump at its best. When South bids four diamonds to show four aces, North bids seven notrump with complete certainty of success.

Blackwood would also have worked with this hand, but suppose that South's opening notrump had included only two aces. Something like:

♠KQJx ♥QJ10x ♦Ax ♣Axx.

A Blackwood four notrump would have gotten North and South a trick too high while the Gerber four clubs would let them play either four notrump or five diamonds.

He died on his own invention

Nobody knows who invented the gallows, but the fellow who first put a trapdoor in the thing, thus to drop the victim to a merciful snapping death, has been identified as William Brodie of Edinburgh, Scotland. A carpenter was he by day, a bandit by night. As a well respected townsman, his trapdoor innovation was accepted immediately. Not until later when he was caught in muggings and murders did the irony emerge. A jury sentenced him to death on his own gallows, the first so to die.

SHAVING

Q. "How come all barbers shave the cheeks and sideburns first before getting around the upper lip and chin?"

A. Didn't realize all barbers did that, but those who do so probably want to give the thicker whiskers more time to soften up in the moisture.

The social issues in TV debates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford-Carter debates are unlikely to produce dramatic proposals from either candidate for expensive new social welfare programs, at least any that would call for new government spending in the immediate future.

The money isn't there, a political consensus hasn't formed in Congress on which way to go and the general public hasn't articulated great interest in new social policy directions.

President Ford and Jimmy Carter are publicly committed to welfare reform and national health insurance of some type, but both have in recent statements put those programs on the back burner until economic recovery is completed.

Instead, they can be expected to talk about the need for curbing the billions of dollars worth of fraud and waste that have been documented in the mammoth health, education and welfare programs already on the books and affecting virtually every American.

Carter, in his campaign travels, is accusing the Republicans of mismanagement of welfare spending during the last eight years in the White House.

The President has gathered information from the executive agencies under his control on what has been or will be done to clean up programs that were fathered by two earlier Democratic presidents: Franklin D. Roosevelt and Lyndon B. Johnson.

Roosevelt's New Deal ushered in Social Security, child welfare and unemployment compensation 40 years ago. Johnson's Great Society added Medicaid health for the poor and Medicare health care for the elderly, and compensatory education for slum children.

Now, many of those programs are in trouble. Social Security needs more income or it faces large deficits. Managers of the Aid to Families with Dependent Children estimate that ineligibility and overpayments cost $1 billion a year, and public support of the children of deserting parents another $1 billion annually.

Medicaid fraud and waste costs between $750 million and $1.5 billion a year, by the administration's own estimate, or between 25 and 50 per cent of the $15 billion total, according to Senate investigators.

The massive infusion of federal funds into the nation's health care system a decade ago, in turn, was a significant contributor to the 300 per cent increase in over-all health spending during the same period.

Runaway medical costs are the big problem now, says the U.S. Public Health Service in its new five-year plan, and they will have to be reined in before national health insurance can be a reality.

It's difficult to determine, from their recent pronouncements, how far apart Ford and Carter are on social issues. In Congress, for example, Democrats and Republicans agree on the need for major reforms, but there's no agreement on substance.

Carter said early in the campaign that he would have comprehensive welfare and health insurance legislation before Congress early next year, if elected.

Pomonan selected nutrition director

Mrs. Hermaine Utech of Pomona has been appointed director for a senior citizen nutrition program to be started soon in Pomona under a federal grant.

The $35,000 federal grant has been received by City of Pomona through Title VII funding, Order American Act, 1965. The grant will provide meals for 200 low-income people, 60 or over, and their spouses regardless of age.

Mrs. Utech said 75 hot meals will be served five days a week at three city locations which have not yet been determined.

The sites will be announced shortly. The program will operate from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. for a social period before and after the noon to 1 p.m. meal hour.

Speakers are planned at various times and entertainment will encourage socialization among the participants.

The program is expected to start in October. A small donation will be asked of each participant, but those unable to contribute will still be welcome, Mrs. Utech said.

Mayor Ray Lepire said the initial funding is for seven months but it is hoped that the city can continue the program.

Fontanan's trial date set Oct. 4

William Douglas Haley, 22, of Fontana, accused of giving a fatal dose of heroin to an Ontario man on March 13, is scheduled for trial on murder charges Oct. 4 in West Valley Superior Court.

Haley and William Ammons, 24, of Ontario were arrested by Ontario detectives after Grattus Cloud, 58, Ontario, was found dead of an overdose of heroin in a car parked in front of his trailer home.

With the victim at the time were Ammons and Haley, who said they brought Cloud home after he fell unconscious in an apartment complex restroom. Police learned that all three men had injected themselves with heroin in the restroom. Police said the two suspects were arrested because they allegedly injected Cloud with the heroin.

According to California law, anyone who either furnishes or administers hereoin that brings death to another person may be charged with second degree murder.

In earlier pretrail hearings, Ammons was found incompetant to stand trial on the charge by West Valley Superior Court Judge Richard Garner. Garner ordered Ammons to undergo psychiatric treatment at Patton State Hospital where he is a patient.

Tandycrafts sales, income show increase

Tandycrafts, Inc., Fort Worth, Tex., parent company of Color Tile Home Improvement Supermarts, had sales of $158 million and net income of $9 million for the year ended June 30.

Sales and income were up 23 per cent and 42 per cent respectively for the year.

Color Tile is a national retailer of do-it-yourself home decorating products. The chain has 231 stores.

President John A. Wilson said the do-it-yourself movement is providing excellent opportunity for Tandycrafts, Inc. products and added, "we will continue to pursue that market aggresively."

Property tax reform to be considered

The state Assembly's Revenue and Taxation Committee will consider property tax reform and relief when it convenes Oct. 1 in Ontario.

The program, lasting from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., will be held at the Ontario City Hall, Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., serves as the committee's vice chairman.

"Property tax reform and relief is one of the highest priorities for the 1977 legislative session. It is imperative we come up with a solution to alleviate the crushing property tax burden which is forcing many homeowners out of their homes," said the Upland legislator.

The Ontario program has been organized on a seminar basis with leading tax experts in the state invited to participate. The committee is conducting a series of special public hearings throughout California.

"By meeting in different areas of the state, we hope to create a forum in which the people in areas such as Ontario can share with us their concerns and ideas regarding property tax relief," said McVittie.

Obedience classes for dogs offered

Dog obedience classes will be offered by the recreation departments of La Verne and San Dimas next month.

The classes will run 11 weeks and will cost $12 for children and $20 for adults. Instructions will include novice obedience exercises as well as leash work and problems dealing with chewing and hole digging.

The San Dimas class starts at 8 p.m. Oct. 7 and will be on Thursday evenings in the recreation crafts room adjacent to the city hall.

The La Verne class will be at 6:30 on Wednesday nights in the conference room of the police station, starting Oct. 13.

Those who want more information may telephone 599-6113 in San Dimas and 593-4571 in La Verne.

Socialist on state ballot

SAN DIEGO (AP) - The Socialists Workers party doesn't expect to win the presidency this year, says Willie Mae Reid, its vice presidential candidate.

But socialism "will come to the United States," she predicted in an interview Monday.

Peter Camejo, the presidential candidate, will be on the ballot in at least 20 states in November, she said. It would be the first time the party is on the California ballot for president in 20 years, she added.

Carter 'best hope' for tax reform — Brown

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says there will be no major strides against unemployment until the country gets a Democratic president.

And he praised Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter as offering "the best hope possible" of reforming the federal tax law.

In a speech to a state AFL-CIO convention earlier this week, the Democratic governor admitted all problems would not be resolved quickly with a Democrat in the White House working with a Democratic Congress.

"It is very difficult for government to do anything. But it is even more difficult with respect to the invisible hand in the marketplace putting the nine per cent of the people who are out of work into jobs because it hasn't happened in the last few years.

"It will not happen until we get a Democratic president who will work with a Democratic Congress," Brown said, who ran unsucessfully against Jimmy Carter for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Brown commented on Carter's promised-but-unspecified tax reform plans in an earlier news conference.

"This is an individual who is beholden to no special interest, and if anyone in this country can make the tax system more equitable, I think he can," Brown said.

"He's intelligent. He's very determined. And he's not in anybody's pocket. If we can get him elected in November, we have the best hope possible of making the federal tax system more just, more equitable."

In his speech to the labor group, Brown also talked about the problem of an increasing work force in an era of environmental concern.

"We have a big, serious problem, and that is that more and more people want to work in an age of automation and in an era when we have these environmental questions that are very difficult," he said.

In his opening remarks, Brown announced he had signed two bills. One by state Sen. Alfred Alquist, D-San Jose, protects union contracts, which are not under the National Labor Relations Act, for up to three years after a business is sold.

The bill would affect small businesses primarily and only those cases in which there was a specific "successor" clause in the contract.

Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, authored the other bill, which boosts workmen's compensation benefits — the biggest increase in 63 years, according to Brown.

It would, among other things, hike from $40,000 to $50,000 the benefits for a surviving widow whose husband died in an industrial accident.

Before the 38-year-old governor spoke, he was introduced by the state AFL-CIO's top official, John Henning, who praised Brown but mentioned that sometimes labor and Brown had "differences."

However, he said Brown had become a figure of national prominence who had never denied labor the power to express criticisms of his programs.

In his speech, Brown also gave a work-harder message to the labor officials — similar to a speech he gave to business leaders two weeks earlier.

"I expect a period of struggle, a period of difficulty...When we build jobs, we have to make sure we don't destroy the very basis that makes jobs possible...the soil, air, water, minerals. Unless we use those wisely, then the whole economy tends to collapse," he said.

The workmen's compensation bill is AB 467. The contract bill is SB 1341.

How Ford, Carter stand on campaign issues

On inflation
Gerald Ford

"We decided we would give the free enterprise system a chance. And what has happened? First, inflation which was 12 per cent or more, is now 3 per cent or less for the first four months of 1976 . . . But we are going to do better. We are going to stay the course and . . . get the rate of inflation down to the kind of level where this country can grow and prosper, and people, whether they are on a fixed income or working in a factory or tilling the soil or teaching . . . will get a fair shake and not be robbed day after day by the kind of inflation we had in 1974."

—Speech at Bowling Green State University

Jimmy Carter

"There are more humane and economically sound solutions to inflation than the Republican program of forced recessions and high unemployment. We must battle inflation through:

—a steady flow of jobs and output

—a better matching of supply and demand

—reform of government regulations, such as the backhaul rule, which unnecessarily adds to consumer costs

—strict ant-trust and consumer protection enforcement —increased emphasis on productivity

—lower interest rates

—effective monitoring of inflationary trends

—standby wage and price controls which the president could apply selectively."

—Presentation to Democratic Platform Committee

Government spending
Gerald Ford

"Just about a year ago we hit the bottom of our worst recession in 40 years. Many in Congress and elsewhere were urging that we push the panic button . . . From the beginning, I forced the Congress to abandon or to severely cut back reckless federal spending programs. I vetoed 49 bills sent to me by the Congress and 42 of those vetoes have been sustained, saving the American taxpayer $13 billion."

—Speech to the Economic Club of Detroit 5/12/76

"I am very interested in reducing the expenditures of the federal government, and if the Congress would go along with my budget for 1977, we would cut roughly $28 billion out of the projected federal budget for that fiscal year . . ."

—Ford press conference

Jimmy Carter

"I favor balanced budgets over the business cycle. If the economy is managed progressively, we can attain a balanced budget with full employment . . . Putting people to work would enlarge the amount of taxes the government collects and reduce what it spends to fight unemployment."

—Interview with Carter, U.S. News & World Report

"To control inflation, Carter recommends:

"The federal government should be committed to zero-base budgeting by all agencies. Each program, other than income support programs such as Social Security, should be required to justify both their continued existence and their level of funding.

"We must commit ourselves to a greater reliance upon long-range planning and long-term budgets . . . Spending can be controlled if the planning system builds in more elad time."

—Presentation to Democratic Platform Committee.

Environment
Gerald Ford

"If accomplishing every worthy environmental abjective will slow down our effort to regain energy independence and a stronger economy, then of necessity I must weigh all factors involved."

—Speech at Environmental Resource Center, 7/3/75

"Our experience and our growing knowledge about the scientific, technical and economic aspects of environmental effects . . . has given us a basis for considering 'mid-course corrections' in environmental laws. The attention now being given in the Congress and the administration to a review of the Clean Air Act and the Water Pollution Control Act are important examples of this new level of awareness."

—Message to Congress

President Ford's 1977 budget would cut appropriations for the Environmental Protection Agency to $718 million — $53 million less than Congress appropriated for 1976 and $77 million less than be requested in the 1976 budget.

—Analysis in The Washington Post, 1/22/76

Jimmy Carter

"I do not believe that there is an incompatibility between economic progress and environmental quality. We should not be diverted from our cause by false claims that the protection of our ecology and wildlife means an end to growth and a decline in jobs."

—Presentation to Democratic Platform Committee, 6/76

"Whenever there is a conflict between development and environmental quality, if it can be resolved, I will be for the project; when it can't, I would go with the environment. I want to make it clear if there is ever a conflict, I will go for beauty, clean air, water and landscape."

—Interview in Orlando, Fla., Sentinel Star

"With proper national planning and determined execution of those plans, energy conservation can be completely compatible with environmental quality and economic wellbeing."

—Carter news release

Busing
Gerald Ford

"I have always believed that the constitutional right of equality must be protected by the courts of the land and by all other public officials. On the other hand, I do not believe that court-ordered, forced busing to achieve racial balance is the right way to get quality education.

"We have ample evidence that in those instances where it has been applied . . . there has not been an increase in quality education. It is my belief that there is a better way to improve educational opportunities and, at the same time, to improve the integration of our society."

—From a news conference in Milwaukee, Wisc.

"I believe that quality education can be enhanced by better school facilities, lower pupil-teacher ratios, the improvement of neighborhoods and possibly by other alternatives."

—Interview in Boston Herald American

Jimmy Carter

"I do not support mandatory busing. I do support voluntary transfers. I do see a need, which I would honor, for the President to support the federal courts. If the courts should rule differently from my own personal beliefs, of course I would support (them). I do not favor a constitutional amendment to prohibit busing.

"Ultimately I think the best solution is voluntary transfers for students who want them, and adequate representation of minority leaders in the administration of a school system."

—Interview in U.S. News & World Report

"Carter favors a four

Youth employment
Gerald Ford

"Approximately 1.8 to 2 point plan which was implemented during his administration in Atlanta and agreed upon by the NAACP and the SCLC: 1) Any child who wishes to be bused can be bused at public expense; 2) no child can be bused against the wishes of the child; 3) busing must contribute to increased integration; 4) black leaders must be represented at all levels in the decision making process of the school system.

—Jimmy Carter Presidential Campaign Issues Summary

million new job applicants come into the labor market every year and they primarily come from high schools and colleges. The youth unemployment rate is higher than the national average rate for everybody. We have got to expand the economy, to absorb that influx. I think the best place to do it is in the private sector where five out of six jobs in our society now exist.

"In the meantime, I think we have to fully fund what is called the Comprehensive Education Training Act, CETA, so that those who graduate, without a skill can be trained for a skill where there is a demand."

—Question and answer session, Northern Illinois Newspaper Assn'n.

Jimmy Carter

"As a last resort, public employment jobs need to be created similar to the CCC and the WPA during the depression years, particularly for young Americans who have an extremely high unemployment rate — in excess of 40 per cent for black young people."

—Congressional Quarterly, 3/6/76

Q. Would you lower the minimum wage for teen agers?

A: "No. Quite often they are not part of a family structure. There is no unemployment compensation for them; there is no welfare program when they reach the age of 18. They're forced out into the world (with) the same economic needs as a 45-year old."

—Interview with Business Week

On gun control
Gerald Ford

Ford favors prohibitions on the manufacture or sale of "Saturday Night" Specials.

—Press release

At the same time, Ford is "unalterably opposed to the registration of gun owners and the registration of guns."

—Christian Science Monitor

Ford proposes mandatory sentences for offenses involving use of a handgun, banning the import and sale of cheap handguns, strengthening current laws regarding the sale of handguns (no specific measures specified), and increasing the number of federal firearms investigators.

—State of the Union Fact Sheet, 1/19/76

Jimmy Carter

Carter favors registration of hand guns.

—New York Times

Carter also favors banning of "Saturday Night Specials" and prohibition of gun ownership by anyone convicted of a crime involving a gun and by those not mentally competent. He opposes other restrictions on manufacture and possession.

—Press release from National Council to Control Handguns

Carter reitereated that he favored registration of handguns; prohibition of the sale of cheap handguns; no confiscation of guns now owned by people; no registration of rifles.

Meter maid tickets boss

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Meter maid Judy Bittner doesn't play favorites. She recently slapped a ticket on city Parking Director Theodore Perez' municipal car.

Perez is not only her boss but a man who once nominated Miss Bittner for a contest to choose the prettiest meter maid in North America. Miss Bittner was chosen one of the dozen prettiest, and her picture was put on a calendar. Perez has the calendar on a wall in his office.

"I suspected it was his," Miss Bittner said. "If a car is in violation, we're supposed to ticket."

Perez paid the ticket, claiming it was worth $2 for its public relations value.

Growing older

Blank spaces foul up Medicare

By Harold Blumenfeld

Many of us grumble and gripe about the long delays in the processing of our Medicare claim forms and some of our complaints are justified because of ineffiency and bureaucracy. But most delays, according to Blue Shield of Florida, are caused by the lack of sufficient information on the forms.

In Florida, which is now my home state following retirement in New York, 3,000 claims are received each day that can't be processed because one or more items on the Medicare forms were omitted or incorrectly documented. And, undoubtedly, the batting average for this delay is the same in other states.

Seventeen per cent of Florida's population is 65 or older, and most are, generally speaking, as hep a group as in other states. Filling out forms, though, poses problems for anyone — no matter his age or educational background.

There are seven essential items of information you must provide if your doctor has given you an itemized bill to send in with your claim form. These are

Name: This should be the complete name of patient.

Health Insurance Claim Number. This appears on your red, white and blue Medicare card. It contains nine numbers and a letter suffix. Do not use your spouse's number because each person has an individual number.

Sex. Check male or female.

Address: Include your zip code number.

Phone number: If you have a phone, list the number.

Describe the illness or injury. Indicate what the diagnosis of the doctor showed. Sometimes more than one doctor will treat you. You must list the diagnosis made by each doctor.

Mark the box indicating whether your illness or injury was connected with employment.

If you have other health insurance besides Medicare, including Blue Cross and Blue Shield Complimentary coverage, include the name of the supplemental insurance.

Indicate the policy number of such extra insurance.

Signature of patient for whom the claim is being filed.

If all of Part 2 of the claim form (the bottom half, numbers 7, 8 and 9) is completed for you by your doctor or his office staff, a separate itemized bill is not necessary.

If Part 2 (the bottom half, numbers 7, 8 and 9) is not completed for you by the doctor's office, then you must attach itemized bills to your claim when you send it along. Make sure each claim contains all seven essential items.

In filing your own claim, attach your itemized bill and make sure the diagnosis is the same as the doctor's medical description of your illness or injury. If you had X rays, indicate the part of the body and the number of X rays taken: types of injections, if any; name of medication, and for laboratory tests, give specific description such as urinalysis, cholesterol, etc. You must list separate charge for each service received, as well as the date, location of service and name of specific doctor who treated you. Many doctors practice together. You must name the INDIVIDUAL doctor who took care of you, NOT the group or clinic name. In the case of other services such as ambulance and supplies, wheel chairs or crutches, you must give the name of the specific ambulance company or medical appliance supplier.

If any of this important information is omitted from the Medicare form requesting payment, this will delay processing of the claim, then telephone calls must be made or letters written to get the required information, since government regulations specify the claim cannot be paid unless all information is provided.

Parenthetically, my wife files our claims. She makes a carbon copy for our records, a valuable thing to do. Then we can ascertain if the claim has been paid. And when a check is received, (unfortunately, too small a reimbursement in most cases) we jot down on our carbon copy the amount of reimbursement, date and number of check, etc., should we have to refer to it at some future time.

In addition, most of us on Social Security should know about "direct deposit" service provided by both savings and commercial banks. Instead of the checks going directly to us, they can be mailed to the bank of our choice and deposited to our account. To arrange for this service, go to the bank and fill out Form 1199 and the bank does the rest. There are many advantages, not the least of which is not having to make the trip to the bank to deposit the Social Security checks. This also has cut down considerably on thefts of these checks.

But a word of caution is in order: After making such arrangements, if you change your bank, when filling out your new Form 1199, Social Security suggests that you write in large letters on the form "CHANGE TO A NEW BANK." That tells Social Security what you're doing and they'll reprogram the computer. If the computer change is made by the 20th of the month, your next Social Security check should go to the new bank account. But to avoid a snafu, they also suggest keeping the old account open until you're sure that the latest check has been deposited in your new bank.

Marine patrol cuts crime

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) — The Marine Corps cut down on crime in neighboring Oceanside by assigning a "courtesy patrol" to observe leathernecks in town.

The same tactic is being used to halt a growing number of thefts in Camp Pendleton itself. There were 1,434 thefts in the first eight months of 1976 compared with 1,824 in all of 1975.

The stolen goods were valued at $493,155 compared with $535,863 in loot for all of last year.

The crime is taking place almost entirely in barracks where modern, three-room rooms connected by an outside walk have replaced the old open squadbays with a common entry.

Thieves can often sneak into the private rooms without being noticed, escaping with wallets and other goods.

"If we have one theft in the barracks, that's too many," said Col. W. F. Sanders Jr., provost marshal who heads the 150-man police force at Camp Pendleton. He has organized noncommissioned officers to patrol trouble spots.

Sanders asked Marines of all ranks to report anything suspicious.

The "Pendleton Scout," the base newspaper, is now publishing the names of Marines caught and convicted of crimes. This, too, is believed reducing the crime on base, authorities said this week.

ONE OF THE LUCKY — Jay Webster Smith surveys the garden of his home in the exclusive residential area of Portuguese Bend. It is one of the few homes in the area that has escaped damage in the massive landslide that began in 1956 and claimed over 150 homes in the next two years as 245 acres of property slid into the ocean.

Exclusive homes slipping into sea

PORTUGUESE BEND (AP) — The clubhouse is gone. So are most of the houses. The hillside is still sliding relentlessly toward the sea.

Twenty years ago Portuguese Bend was an exclusive residential area on the Palos Verdes Peninsula overlooking the Pacific just south of Los Angeles. Then the earth began to move.

Doors and windows began to stick. Cracks appeared in concrete patios. Fence posts developed a sudden awkward tilt. On Aug. 20, 1956, a concrete drain fractured and nine days later a water line ruptured. By mid-September, the residents knew they were in for a battle.

In the next two years nearly 150 homes were destroyed or relocated as 245 acres slipped into the sea.

"At first, everyone just walked around wondering what was happening," said Carolyn Smith, whose home was destroyed.

"We thought it was only temporary, and kept filling the cracks with gravel. Some of us nearly had a nervous breakdown, while others just took it in stride."

The Portuguese Bend Clubhouse had been a center of peninsula social life since its founding in 1941. It had 500 members and as many as 50 yachts moored at the old wooden pier nearby.

The swimming pool was the first to go. A year after the slide began the members held a "Last Days of Pompeii Party" to mark the end.

In 1961 the residents pitched in to buy an old 40-foot Navy boat, haul it onto the beach and convert it to a clubhouse.

As the houses creaked and groaned and finally tumbled, the law suits piled up. Everybody — the homeowners, the builders, the insurance companies — were suing. Nine years later, Los Angeles County was ordered to pay the property owners $7.4 million when the courts found that an earthfill in Crenshaw Canyon had started the slide.

Only 40 of the original property owners had an opportunity to stay at Portuguese Bend. A drawing was held for 40 lots not affected by the slide, and those whose names were taken from a hat could buy lots for $5,000 to $10,000.

One of those was Richard Taube, 65, who spent two years fighting to save his house. Steel beams were threated through the house and jacks were used to keep it level, but it was hopeless. In 1958, Taube had the house split into sections and rebuilt on one of the 40 lots.

Earth movement still continues at the rate of 3.5 to 11 feet a year, said Arthur Keene, chief geologist for the county Engineering Department. Building permits are no longer issued for the area.

Late-night cafes reach Soviet capital

MOSCOW (AP) — Late-night cafes have finally come to the Soviet capital, where restaurants traditionally close anywhere between 7 and 11 p.m.

Citing "a new form of service to the population," the trade union newspaper Trud said 10 restaurants and cafes now stay open until 2 a.m. The service is designed primarily for those who work late.

A visitor to one of the diners at 1:30 a.m. found a jolly woman serving bowls of soup, beef with eggs and salmon and onions to a procession of policemen, ambulance crews and taxi drivers. A full meal cost a little less than a ruble, $1.32 at the official exchange rate.

A sign announced that the cafe was open until 2 a.m. "for workers of the municipal economy." There were no revelers topping off the evening or casual drop-ins looking for a late snack.

T.V. Seryeznova of the Moscow city executive committee said in a Trud interview that some of the cafes are attracting practically no customers after midnight. She said the public food service office will consult with the municipal services whose employes work late to determine better locations.

Miss Seryeznova said another problem is how to get the cafe staffs home after work. Most workers do not own cars, and the Moscow subway closes at 1 a.m.

"We are trying to have people who live nearby do the night-time work," she said. "And at certain food service institutions special rooms have been equipped where people can spend the night."

The Alaska Range extends generally northeastward from the base of the Alaska Peninsula to the frontier of Yukon Territory, Canada. The range averages about 50 miles in width.

Sapphire 'rush' sets off conflicts

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Armed police have stepped in to restore order to Australia's biggest sapphire fields after clashes involving hundreds of miners staking claims in newly opened gem land.

The Queensland state government has frozen new claims and is reconsidering its recent decision to open vast areas of potential sapphire fields for mining in an area 170 miles west of Rockhampton.

Queensland Minister of Mines Ronald Camm said the state government has suspended new regulations aimed at prolonging the life of the fields and would not allow new developments "until sanity returned."

Officials said the pegging of leases reached a climax last Thursday with conflicts over alleged claim jumping leading to fist fights, gunshots and cut telephone lines. The sapphire rush was reported to be as hectic as the stampede for gold leases during the last century.

About 50 machinery miners, who annually produce $6.3 million worth of sapphires, are currently restricted to a 6-acre area in fields covering nearly 100,000 acres.

Save your stroganoff.

When you're making a real beef stroganoff, don't give it a fake taste. Use real sour cream. Those imitators have a different texture. And artificial additives.

You see, we have a free booklet with a stroganoff recipe and 16 others, and we don't want you to make a poor imitation. So when you pick up our booklet "Do more with sour cream than simply smother another hot potato," pick up real sour cream. At your grocer. And save the taste.

TWA. It's the best businessman's airline in the business.

The airline passenger today usually has a choice of airlines to the same destination.

It's a fact of life for TWA, United or American.

But while we all face competition, TWA faces the most.

We're concentrated in large metropolitan airports where competition is keenest. United and American pick up much of their business in smaller airports where there's much less competition.

So, if you're going to choose TWA, we have to be better.

We think we are.

But, we're not asking you to take our word for it. Put us to the test, point for point. We think you'll come away convinced that to TWA being the best isn't everything, it's the only thing.

Best because TWA has the best on-time record.

TWA has beaten American, United and Continental's on-time record for the last 15 months through the latest reporting period, June 1976.

These statistics are shown in CAB records for flights actually flown and include the busiest city-to-city flight segments representing 55% of TWA's available seat miles and 70% since May. The record shows that TWA has the best on-time performance on more routes where we compete with American, United or Continental—based on percent of arrivals within 15 minutes of schedule.

And we're committed to doing even better. In fact, we're out to be on time every time we fly, everywhere we fly . . . to cities like . . .

NEW YORK ON TIME
CHICAGO ON TIME
ST. LOUIS ON TIME
BOSTON ON TIME
WASHINGTON ON TIME
PITTSBURGH ON TIME
PHILADELPHIA ON TIME

Best because TWA has more carry-on luggage compartments.

TWA is the airline that introduced carry-on luggage compartments.

And we still have more full-size carry-on compartments than American or United.

We have them on fully 99% of all our flights.

So if you like to take your luggage on the plane with you, the plane to take is TWA's.

Best because TWA has the best in-flight entertainment.

TWA introduced in-flight movies and we still have a greater variety of entertainment programs than our competitors. Right now on most non-stops to Chicago and the East Coast you can see profiles of O.J. Simpson, Terry Bradshaw, Franco Harris and Billy Kilmer in action on and off the field.*

And all this is in addition to a choice of first-rate movies on movie flights.

So, if you like to be entertained, take a seat on TWA. We give you a lot more for the price of admission.

Next time you're planning to fly, call your Travel Agent or TWA.

Mountaineer Nanda died doing what she loved

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — "I am going to die."

These were the last words of 22-year-old American mountaineer Nanda Devi Unsoeld before she died on the Himalayan peak for which she was named, her father said Monday.

"She was stricken suddenly, without warning," said William F. Unsoeld, himself a life-long mountaineer who conquered Mt. Everest, the world's tallest peak, with an American expedition in 1963.

Recalling his daughter's last moments 24,000 feet up Nanda Devi peak on the Indo-Tibetan border Sept. 8, Unsoeld said in an interview:

"In a matter of moments she became unconscious. We tried mouth to mouth resuscitation, other emergency methods. But there was no response.

"Within 15 minutes, her lips were cold and we knew life had departed. We made exhortations begging her not to leave. We continued resuscitation for 15 more minutes. But there was no response from her pupils, and we knew we had lost her."

Her death ended the Indo-American expedition which Miss Unsoeld had first conceived two years ago, and which her father had organized; just a few hours climb and less than 2,000 feet from the 25,645-foot summit.

With Unsoeld at the expedition's fourth high altitude camp when his daughter died were two other climbers, Andy Harvard of Hampden, Conn., and Peter Lev of Wilson, Wyoming.

The four had hoped to reach the summit through the treacherous north ridge route first conquered on Sept. 1 by three other members of the expedition, Louis Reichardt of Boston, Mass., and John Roskelley and Dr. James States, both of Spokane, Washington.

The expedition was to be the fulfillment of a life-long dream for Unsoeld, who first saw Nanda Devi peak while touring India in 1949.

"I was so struck by its beauty that I realized I needed to get married to have a daughter that I hoped would be beautiful enough to name after Nanda Devi," said Unsoeld, 50, now a member of the faculty at Evergreen State College in Olympia, Wash.

Unsoeld married in 1951, and Nanda Devi, the second of four children, was born in 1954.

She began mountain climbing when she was 14 and her dream, like that of her father, was to reach the summit of Nanda Devi peak.

Together with Harvard and Lev she reached the 24,000-foot last camp on Sept. 3 and her father joined the group Sept. 6, a day before the scheduled assault on the summit.

"She was enormously happy to see me, since we had counted on climbing together," Unsoeld said.

"We had prepared to go to the summit on Sept. 7 but the weather was bad and instead we spent the day trying to hydrate ourselves, adding cocoa and tea to snow that we melted on a small gas stove.

"Nanda Devi had been suffering from diarrhea and stomach pains for a few days but on this day the diarrhea had stopped and she was feeling stronger. However, we decided that if we were to go to the summit on Sept. 8 we would leave her at Camp 4 and pick her up later in the day on the waydown.

"She was happy with this decision because she didn't want to slow us down."

During the night of Sept. 7, Unsoeld said, his daughter took a turn for the worse and suffered from severe gas pains that kept her up.

"When dawn came, we were convinced we couldn't afford the time to go to the summit and back. We decided to forgo the summit and take Nanda Devi down to Camp 3."

Camp 3, at 20,000 feet, had the expedition's emergency medical supplies. The descent was expected to take about four hours.

"The weather was very bad in the morning and we planned to leave at noon for Camp 3," Unsoeld continued. "But at 11:45 a.m. she was suddenly stricken. She complained of an extreme pain in her stomach. Her only coherent statement was, "I am going to die."

When it was realized that there was no chance of reviving her, Unsoeld said, he and the other two climbers decided to bury her on the mountain.

"We took a page out of the books of the sea and committed her to the mountain and buried her beneath the snows," Unsoeld continued. "We had a brief memorial service at the camp, the three of us, with our hands clasped.

"Nanda Devi died doing the thing she loved best. She died fulfilling her dreams, out of her enormous love for the high Himalayas.

"She now lies an eternal part of her namesake."

Unsoeld and most other members of the expedition were to leave early Tuesday for the United States.

N.Y.'s new drug law backfired

WASHINGTON (AP) — A strict drug law in New York State has put fewer criminals behind bars than a milder statute it replaced, a federal study has found.

The tough law enacted in 1973 limited plea bargaining and provided for mandatory penalties, including life terms for the most serious drug offenses.

But the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration found that the law has failed to act as a deterrent. Also, although $55 million was spent to hire more judges and expand court resources to implement the law, the courts are not handling the cases faster, the LEAA said in a report released recently.

In 1973, under the old law, an estimated 1,560 defendants went to prison on drug convictions. In 1974, under the new law, the number sent to prison was less than 1,100 and in 1975 an estimated 1,433 were sentenced, the report said.

This year the New York State legislature, partly in response to the trends cited in the report, has weakened the law's restrictions on plea-bargaining and made it possible for most small-time heroin dealers to avoid life sentences.

The study said that New York City courts built up a backlog of cases under the new law that stopped growing only in the last quarter of 1975. At that time, the size of the backlog was equivalent to ten months worth of drug indictments.

The law required prison sentences for all drug felonies, except those involving marijuana. For many Class A felony convictions, most of which involve heroin, a life sentence was mandatory.

Restrictions were placed on the amount of plea bargaining that was permitted, and the amount of drugs required to qualify a crime as a felony was lowered.

In New York State, felonies are assigned five classifications, From A through E. The Class A felony is the most serious.

One reason for the backlog in the courts is that the restrictions on plea bargaining resulted in more drug cases going to trial, especially in New York City, where three-quarters of all drug indictments involve Class A felonies, the study said. Trials in the city doubled in 1974 over 1973 and were three times the 1973 rate last year.

The severity of sentences under the new law has increased, the LEAA said. "While in 1973 and 1974 old law cases, minimum sentences of over one year were rare ... a third of the new law offenders in 1974 received sentences with minimum of over one year.

"These sentences are for indeterminate periods and no reliable information is currently available regarding the length of time those sentenced to prison will actually serve."

KEEP DOGS OUT OF YARD

FEMALE CONSTABLE — Everyone but stray dogs are welcome at Kittie Bonner's home in Austin Nev. She is the local constable, barber and baker in this small central Nevada mining town.

Lady constable keeps self busy

AUSTIN, Nev. (AP) — Kittie Bonner packs a gun, badge, bullwhip, scissors and spatula. She's the barber, constable and baker in this central Nevada mining town. And she's 75 years old.

There was a time she broke mustangs for fun — got $12 apiece for the job. But she doesn't get around like she used to, though she's still able to roust drunks off the street and over to jail.

Kittie — as she's best known in Austin — was appointed constable 13 years ago, not long after her husband, then Austin's resident deputy sheriff, died. She's never had to use her .38, her bullwhip or blackjack, but says she knows how and wouldn't be afraid to wield them.

"Most people just do what I tell them and that's good enough," she said.

Though she's led armed posses, most of her work is in the Lander County Courthouse in Austin. She's the bailiff when court is in session.

Austin was once a booming town. It's sleepy now, cradled in a steep canyon, whose surrounding mountains coughed up about $50 million in silver before the mines played out.

Kittie lives on Highway 50, the town's main street. Her 89-year-old brick home is back from the road, hidden by an overgrowth of shrubs and trees. Inside is a wealth of antiques, mostly buried now by her painting equipment or by piles of secondhand garments.

"See, I've been on the Red Cross board for about 42 years now and it just seems like I keep accumulating all these clothes and don't have enough places to put them," she said.

Even with her court work, painting and the rest, she finds time to cut hair. There's an old barber's chair in her front room, sandwiched between stacks of old clothing.

"Oh, you know, there are a lot of fellows who can't get out of town so I cut their hair for them. They pay me what they want to, so that way I don't get in trouble with the state," she said.

When there's a wedding in Austin, the couple might come to Kittie for a professional job on a cake. Somehow, out of a cluttered kitchen, she manages to turn out wedding cakes of unique quality. She stores them in her bedroom so mice won't scurry down a chinked kitchen wall and nibble away her hard work.

Kittie says she likes people, but is having a hard time adjusting to the younger generation.

"You know, all these hippies are moving to Austin. They're real nice, but I can't get used to that long hair."

Panama studies release of trio

PANAMA CITY (AP) — The Panamian government is considering the release to American authorities of three residents of the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone who were arrested during student rioting last week, a source close to top government officials said today.

The three men are Pfc. Bernard Lowell Jameson and Hector Downs, both Americans, and Rogelio Garcia, a Costa Rican who works in an Air Force warehouse in the Canal Zone.

The rioting grew out of a student protest against increased food prices. The government accused the U.S. government of instigating the protests and said the three Canal Zone residents and a Panamanian member of the Canal Zone police force who was also arrested were intelligence agents.

"These people were agitating Panamanian students, but we don't feel any vindictiveness because they were from the Canal Zone," the source said. "The government is considering turning them over sooner or later — and most likely sooner — to the proper Canal Zone authorities."

He added that the Panamanian member of the Canal Zone police force would not be turned over to American authorities because he is a Panamanian national.

The U.S. Embassy denied that the U.S. government or any of its agencies were involved in the riots. A U.S. intellegence source in the Canal Zone said Sunday that Jameson, Downs and Garcia were not working for any U.S. intelligence agency.

Americans in the Canal Zone said the Panamanian government was trying to whip up anti-American sentiment to divert the discontent over the higher food prices. Panama City was calm, but the U.S. administration of the Canal Zone put Panamanian territory outside the zone off limits to American civilian and military personnel.

State school teachers fifth highest paid

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California school teachers are the fifth highest paid in the United States, but the state ranks 25th in spending per pupil, a new survey says.

The California School Boards Association, which released the National Education Association figures, said the state actually ranks third in salaries, for practical purposes, since the cost of living is much higher in the top two states, Alaska and Hawaii.

Of the remaining 48 states, only New York, at $15,950, and Michigan, at $15,540, rank higher than the California average of $15,200 per schoolteacher in 1975-76, the CSBA said.

In per-pupil spending, the survey said California's average of $1,324 per child in school operating costs, including salaries, was far down the list. The top figure was New York's $2,179.

The CSBA said a federal government survey showed that California has increased average per-pupil spending $306 in the last five years, compared to New York's $821.

California once ranked near the top of the nation in state support of schools, but its ranking has slipped in recent years, the group said. It also said local school finance measures suffered their highest failure rate ever this year.

"California has come to rely, to an excessive extent, for the financing of education on the local property tax," CSBA executive secretary Joseph Brooks said in a statement.

"The difficulty at the ballot box puts on added pressure for overall reform of our method of financing public schools and the equalization of school support and educational opportunity."

Correction

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Jose Reyes welcomed their seventh child, a daughter.

The following day, however, Reyes, a dishwasher at a restaurant, received an excited call from his wife at the hospital. Their new offspring wasn't a girl, but a boy. A nurse had apparently got her sexes mixed in making the initial report.

The Lapp people have a language, but no country of their own. Lapland stretches across much of the northernmost regions of Norway, Sweden, Finland and a tiny corner of the Soviet Union.

Reporter subpoena quashed

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge in Brooklyn has quashed a subpoena which would have required a Newsweek magazine reporter to divulge his sources for a story he wrote on a narcotics case.

U.S. District Court Judge Henry Bramwell said he would not allow Anthony Marro to be subpoenaed because the information sought was immaterial and irrelevent in the case and because the reporter's rights would have been violated under the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

However, Bramwell made it clear that he felt "There exists no absolute rule of privilege protecting newsmen from disclosure of confidential sources." He said that should be determined on a case by case basis.

The subpoena against Marro had been sought by Gino E. Gallina, attorney for Dominique Orsini, who sought the testimony of Marro to prove his client, a suspected drug dealer, had been beaten and tortured by American agents in Senegal before being placed aboard a flight to the United States.

Bramwell said the article in the Aug. 16 issue of Newsweek detailed the technique used by the Drug Enforcement Administration to bring another suspected narcotics dealer, Auguste Ricorde, here from Paraguay. On that basis, he said, the information sought would be irrelevant to Orsini's case.

Orsini is scheduled to go on trial next week on charges of conspiring to smuggle more than 500 pounds of heroin and cocaine into the United States between 1968 and 1971 from France.

Business briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — With its president, James Hastings, now under indictment, the board of directors of the New York-based Associated Industries will consider this week whether or not to continue him in his $52,500-a-year position.

Hastings, a former upstate New York congressman, was indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of mail fraud and false statements in connection with a payroll kickback scheme involving three of his employes.

Hastings, a Republican, resigned from Congress last Jan. 20 to become president of Associated Industries, a 2,800-member business lobby with headquarters in Albany, N.Y.

The Associated Industries board of directors meets Thursday at the start of the group's annual meeting in Lake Placid, N.Y.

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — The American Yarn Spinners Association has demanded a "full review" of the nation's foreign-aid program because of a State Department loan to an Egyptian textile mill.

The Gastonia-based association, in a resolution released Tuesday, denounced the $96 million loan as "a dangerous and unwarranted precedent" that will create new worldwide competition for the U.S. textile industry.

"We find no justification for our government providing assistance to any foreign textile producer to modernize and expand capacity," the resolution states, "particularly where such capacity will ultimately be directed into world textile markets, including the U.S. market, in competition with U.S. taxpaying industry."

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — Thomson Newspapers Inc., one of the world's largest groups of publications, has purchased The Carthage Press and will take control of the paper immediately, it was announced Tuesday.

The Press had been owned and edited for 80 years by two prominent Carthage families.

Robert S. Dale, who has been president, publisher and editor of The Press since the death of his father in 1969, will be retained as a consultant.

Raymond Peoples, who started with the paper as a carrier in 1940 and has been business manager since 1966, was promoted to general manager. He will be the paper's chief operating officer.

No changes in personnel or policies are planned, according to St. Clair McCabe, executive vice president of the Thomson group.

"We make it a point of not interfering with local editorial policies," said K.R. Thomson, whose publishing empire includes newspapers in the U.S., Canada, the British Isles and the West Indies.

SOUTHINGTON, Conn. (AP) — Peck, Stow and Wilcox has notified its 120 employes it will close the company permanently Oct. 8.

The firm, which makes metal shears and bending machines, in business for 190 years, has sold its product line to Roper-Whitney Inc. of Rockford, Ill.

Company officials would not comment on the closing, but one executive said Connecticut's taxes on business were partly to blame.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Treasury said Friday it is preparing to revoke a 1972 dumping order against imports of heavy electrical transformers from Switzerland.

Brown Boveri and Co. Ltd., the Treasury said, is the only Swiss maker of such equipment and has provided assurances that it will not make any sales of the equipment to U.S. buyers at unfairly low prices.

The Treasury said another 1970 antidumping act order against imports of electronic tuners from Japan will be modified soon to exclude Sony Corp. from the ruling.

The ruling was modified earlier to exclude several other Japanese makers of the tuners used in television sets and other consumer electronic products.

Levitz wins top award

Levitz Furniture Corp., with a retail store at 633 W. Bonita Ave., San Dimas, won the top Distinguished Merchant Award in the 1975-76 Merchandiser-of-the-yar competition sponsored by Brand Names Foundation, New York.

Levitz Furniture Corp. was sponsored by Kroehler Manufacturing Co.

"To be named a Distinguished Merchant by the Brand Names Foundation is a major goal of every brand name merchandiser," said Robert M. Elliott, president and chief executive officer of Levitz. "We are indeed greatly honored to receive this award."

Levitz, with 60 warehouse-showrooms throughout the country, buys, warehouses, promotes, displays and sells only brand name furniture.

Mormons told U.S. decaying

SAN DIEGO (AP) - The days of the United States are numbered, says President Emeritus Ernest L. Wilkinson of Brigham Young University.

"We'll go the way Rome and 21 other nations did when the people become dependent on the government," Wilkinson said in a speech Monday to a Latter-day Saints church group.

"I'm not saying we will end as a nation next year, but the trend is in that way."

He said the crime rate, divorce and illegitimacy are symptoms of growing decadence.

Yugoslav, U.S. amity evaporating

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Relations between the United States and Yugoslavia have fallen to their lowest point in 30 years, causing concern to both Yugoslavia's and America's allies in Europe. They see the development working to the advantage of the Soviet Union at a possibly crucial period in Yugoslav history.

Belgrade's dissatisfaction with the handling of Croatian nationalists in an American airliner hijacking last weekend is only the latest disruptive issue between the two countries.

An earlier diplomatic hassle over a Yugoslav-U.S. citizen accused of spying here and Yugoslav support for Third World causes had already soured previously friendly relations.

The developments follow President Richard M. Nixon's exchange of visits with President Tito and a visit by President Ford last year that seemed to promise a spirit of cooperation between the two countries.

Yugoslav officials said American policies toward Yugoslavia have departed from the lines of the Tito-Nixon and Tito-Ford meetings and have changed the friendly atmosphere to one of tension and distrust.

West European governments attach high importance to American support for Yugoslav independence and sovereignty, especially after the death of the 84-year-old Tito, when the Soviets might try to force Yugoslavia back into the Soviet camp.

Yugoslav leaders, however, decline to buy American support by giving up their policies of non-alignment. They say relations with America should be built on the acknowledgment of Yugoslavia's non-aligned policies, even though they include positions irritating to the United States, such as support for Panama on the canal issue and promotion of Puerto Rican independence.

Last Friday's hijack of a Trans World Airlines 727 jetliner brought complaints from Belgrade that anti-Yugoslav terrorists enjoy the support of "influential and powerful reactionary elements in the United States." The hijackers, all U.S. residents, said they did it to dramatize their desire for Croatia's independence from Yugoslavia, which is made up of Croatia and five other republics.

Officials noted that the United States refused to extradite Andrija Artukovic, interior minister of wartime Croatia, who was wanted as a war criminal and charged with mass murder of Serbs and Jews.

In connection with the hijack, Yugoslavs complained that the United States, in spite of a policy of not giving in to hijackers and terrorists, yielded to the hijackers' demand that their anti-Yugoslav declaration be given top publicity.

Yugoslav officials were also rankled by American handling of the case of Laszlo Toth, a Yugoslav who became an American citizen without losing his Yugoslav citizenship. He was sentenced to seven years imprisonment in Yugoslavia after a court found him guilty of industrial spying last year.

Yugoslavia evenually pardoned and expelled Toth, but the case was complicated and delayed by the fact that Toth was still a Yugoslav citizen under Yugoslav law.

Belgrade sources said U.S. Ambassador Laurence Silberman was told as early as last May that Toth would be released. But in June he told a Yugosla-American business meeting that Americans risked being imprisoned in Yugoslavia, a statement which angered authorities here.

When Toth was finally released, Silberman went to the airport to see him off and made statements which Yugoslav authorities said were aimed at starting an anti-Yugoslav campaign in America.

Personal income increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans' personal income grew by the smallest margin in 13 months during August as the growth in public and private payrolls was cut in half, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said income of individuals from all sources after allowance for Social Security taxes grew at an annual rate of $6.1 billion in August compared to a $13 billion increase in July. It was the smallest expansion in personal income since the $1.7 billion drop in July, 1975.

The latest advance left total personal income for August at a seasonally-adjusted annual rate of $1.39 trillion. On a per capita basis, that worked out to $6,463 and compared with $6,434 in July and $5,907 a year ago.

A large measure of the slower growth was attributable to the cost of living increase for Social Security beneficiaries in July, which amounted to an annual rate of increase of $4.6 billion. But the absence of that one-time boost was not the sole reason for the sharp drop in the growth rate.

Wages and salaries in both private industry and government increased by $4.5 billion, or about half the $8.9 billion growth in July. Commerce said a decline in the average work week in manufacturing was a factor in that shift, contributing to payrolls in commodity-producing industries showing virtually no change from July. Payrolls in the commodity-producing industries had climbed $3.1 billion in June.

Personal income represents the pool of money available to individuals, and is a key indicator of basic demand in the economy, affecting the pace at which the economy expands and creates new job opportunities.

Vidal to bow on soaper

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What is Gore Vidal doing on the "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" show?

"Any excuse to get out of Rome," he explains offhandedly.

What's in Rome is "Gore Vidal's Caligula," an $8.5 million epic that appears to be creating the largest Roman circus since the filming of "Cleopatra." Maria Schneider has fled the cast (reportedly because she declined the sex scenes), Vidal has been barred from the set, and the on-camera orgies are the talk of the film world.

"They've been shooting a lot of hard porn," reported the film's author. "It will all have to be cut out of the picture, of course, but I suppose it gives pleasure to those involved.

"There will be a fortune in outtakes — enough to supply Penthouse magazine for years. Which may be why they're doing it."

The producer is Bob Guccione, publisher of Penthouse.

Meanwhile, back with "Mary Hartman." The author seemed his unflappable self as he sat out the lunch break in a dressing room at KTLA studios. His hair was smoothly waved, his collar protected from makeup marks by sheets of tissue.

"Nervous? Not a bit," he commented. "Nobody expects me to be a polished performer. If it's not your profession, then there's no sweat."

Unless ou count the thousands of talk shows he has appeared on, Vidal's acting experience has been limited to a role in "A Comedy of Errors" at 11 ("I blew my lines") and playing himself in Federico Fellini's "Roma" ("All I had to do was explain why I lived in Rome"). He explained the origin of his "Mary Hartman" role:

"I met Norman Lear at a party here earlier this year. I mentioned that a whole generation has grown up in America without seeing good television. I added, 'You have a vestigial memory of what spontaneity was like. If you ever open up your operation to the outside world, I would be interested in participating.'

"I forgot about it until July, when Norman called me in Rome and said, 'I've put you in 'Mary Hartman. I'll send you the script.' It seemed like the perfect excuse to escape from 'Caligula,' so I said, 'Don't send it; I'll come.' I arrived to find that I had miles of dialogue."

The plot has Mary (Louise Lasser) "going crackers on the David Susskind Show," then being sent to a state hospital for the mentally disturbed. Vidal reads about her and decides hers is the prototypal American story. He visits her with the intention of writing a book together.

Vidal said the writers had done a good job, but he gave his speeches a rewrite to put them in his own style. Then he and Lasser spent five hours rehearsing their scenes.

"It has been hard work, because I don't have time to memorize the lines," said the neophyte actor. "My first scene was with Dody Goodman, and she is so funny that I was afraid to look at her face. But after the second take I got the feel of it.

"I managed by playing off her face, wiping everything else out of my mind. Amazingly, the words came back to me. That is what acting consists of: working from the conscious to the unconscious. Good actors can do that with ease. It's like writing; you either do it very easily or not at all."

More acting for Gore Vidal? As usual, he responds with a quip: "I'm available to play anything that George Sanders did — except the Gabor family."

Upon reflection, he added another comment: "A star is stillborn."

GORE VIDAL! GORE VIDAL! — Louise Lasser and author Gore Vidal rehearse their lines for an upcoming episode of television's popular soap opera spoof, "Mary Hartman! Mary Hartman!" in which Vidal will make his acting debut. He says he is not at all nervous.

Identification

Every motor driven vessel should have an identification number painted on each side of the bow and the copy of the number should be aboard whenever the vessel is in operation.

Citrus to show 'Romeo'

The J. Arthur Rank award-winning color film, "Romeo and Juliet," will be screened in Lecture Hall 102 at Citrus College at 2 p.m. Oct. 4 and in the Auditorium at 7:30 that night. Admission is free.

Winner of the Grand Prix at the Venice Film Festival and judged Best Foreign Film of 1954, the picture tells the story of the two star-crossed lovers in a tightly-edited, action-packed drama filmed on locations in Venice, Verona and Siena.

The director, Renato Castellani, and his designers "left no lira unspent and no stone unturned in giving their pciture as handsome and authentic a production as could be," said Reviewer Bosley Crowther. Costumes and furnishings are copied from famous paintings of the Renaissance, and the settings are authentic, well-preserved medieval towns. The masked ball is staged in the sumptuous chamber of a Venetian palace; the turbulent street fights take place on genuine cobblestones.

MAKING HIS DEBUT — Cher and Gregg Allman introduce their 10-week-old son, Elijah Blue Allman, born July 10 at Cedars-Sinai Hospital in Los Angeles. Cher's television series, The Sonny and Cher Show, returns for its second season Sunday night.

On Broadway

Theaters turn to television

NEW YORK (AP) — When words fail, try pictures.

That's the logic behind Broadway's acute and growing interest in television as a spur to box-office activity.

Although the gambit is far from infallible, almost every production wants to flash a sample of its wares into the family living room.

One solid SRO hit, "A Chorus Line," employed television commercials, according to the producer, simply "to exploit the initial interest." Another musical that was about to close spent a bundle for a once-only ad as a kind of defiant farewell.

One manager says of the wide use of the new promotional method: "The difference between profit an loss for a production can be just a few hundred spectators per performance — and out there watching soap operas, news programs and quiz shows are thousands who never have been in a theater to see a live play or musical.

"If just a small percentage respond to your pitch — bingo, you've got a hit."

Fred Golden, executive vice president of Blaine Thompson, Inc., the agency handling most Broadway advertising, cautions that "none of us think this is a panacea for all shows. What it can do is significantly help a show that has strong audience appeal but didn't get rave reviews."

The trade generally credits TV commercials for the manner in which "The Wiz" and "Shenandoah" soared from penny ante struggle to blockbuster rank, and why "Grease" and "Pippin," which both opened in 1972, are still thriving.

The 50 or so shows that have jumped on the bandwagon since "Pippin" showed the way, have employed an assortment of visual techniques ranging from still pictures to excerpts photographed during an actual performance.

Costs of making a 10-second to one-minute pitch range from $1,500 to $15,000. After that comes the price of air time for each show. That has been averaging $10,000 weekly, but in one four-week saturation campaign, one producer spent $100,000.

The researchers find that sometimes an independent station generates more response than a network affiliate; and for certain productions a morning or afternoon spot is better than the late evening news telecasts.

The actual shooting is done in one day after sedulous planning, and the finished item can be on the air "in an emergency" — which means if a show needs quick revival — within a couple of days, though a month is more common, says Nancy Coyne, creative director for Blaine Thompson.

For researchers a thousand years hence into the methodology of late 20th century stagecraft, the Theater Collection of the Lincoln Center Public Library is trying to assemble a complete set of the TV commercials.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE — Members of the cast of "Guys and Dolls" perform in a New York film studio for a television commercial promoting the Broadway revival. The musical is the latest of a number of Broadway productions to turn to TV to help fill the theater.

Marilyn Horne to sing on UCLA Gold series

Mezzo-soprano Marilyn Horne will open the UCLA Great Artists Gold Series with a recital in Royce Hall at 8:30 p.m. Oct. 1.

Reared in Los Angeles, Miss Horne studied first at USC and later attended master classes conducted by Lotte Lehman, before embarking on a series of successful European appearances. In this country, her first Carnegie Hall appearance in Rossini's "Semiramide" put her firmly in the front ranking of American singers.

Miss Horne's program will feature Schubert songs including "Im Fruhling," "Der Tod und das Madchen," "Liebhaber in allen Gestalten," "Am Grabe Anselmos," and "Fischerweise"; Richard Strauss songs including "Allerseelen," "Schon sind, doch kalt," "Fur Funfzehn Pfennige," and "Befreit"; songs by Gustav Mahler, "Ich atmet' einen Duft," "Liebst du um Schonheit," "Blicke mir nicht in die Lieder," "Um Mitternacht," "Ich bin der Welt abhanden gekommen"; a fourth group of songs including "Sleep" (Warlock), "Faith" (Holst), "Orpheus with his Lute" (Williams), the Arnold Bax arrangement of "O Dear, What Can the Matter Be?" Herbert Hughes' arrangement of the traditional Irish song "The Stuttering Lovers," and an aria to be announced.

Students want humanities

Stir in Soviet schools

MOSCOW (AP) — While Soviet universities beef up their scientific and technical programs, more and more students are saying they want to study the humanities, according to the minister of higher education.

In a recent interview about trends in higher education, Vyacheslav Yelyutin attributed the changing preferences to a desire for easier courses of study and to a growing interest in "human questions," including philosophy and history.

The interview took place as the school year began for 5 million students in 859 institutions of higher education across the Soviet Union.

Without citing statistics, Yelyutin said he had observed over the past 10 years a growing proportion of college applicants who want to study the humanities.

But he said the students' desires aren't affecting Soviet curriculums or the numbers of students in different fields.

University curriculums are predetermined in each five-year plan according to the needs of Soviet society, and not according to student preferences, he said.

Thus, regardless of changing interests, the Soviet Union continues to graduate a little more than 20 per cent of its college students in the humanities, while 42 per cent graduated last year in the sciences, 9 per cent as agricultural specialists, 7 per cent as doctors and other health workers, and 20 per cent as teachers.

"There are many different reasons, as we see them" for the growing student interest in liberal arts, Yelyutin said. "One, the humanities are easier: look at the difference between studying mathematics and studying literature."

Yelyutin did not go so far as to say students are becoming lazier, but the notion is widespread among Soviets that the younger generation — increasingly far removed from the revolution and without the toughening experience of a world war — is losing some of its drive.

"The second reason is the expanding interest in human questions," he said. "Youngsters nowadays are more interested in learning about philosophy, history and so on."

This expanding interest comes despite the fact that the sciences and technical fields still provide the careers that lead to glory in the U.S.S.R., and despite the fact that the humanities are more subject to political changes today than are the sciences.

Yelyutin hinted at the existence of a new, more introspective, less ambitious generation of young Soviets, following a half century during which the nation hardly stopped to think as it struggled to become a world power.

Regardless of the growing numbers of college applicants who want to study the humanities, Yelyutin said, the technical and scientific courses of study are the ones being expanded, because they are the ones that are needed.

"Mathematical methods in economics and planning and the creation of automated systems of management have brought a need for new types of specialists," he said.

Among newly created college courses, he said, are economic cybernetics, physical electronics, automation of the production and distribution of electrical energy, construction and production of electronic computer energy, production of unwoven textiles, the use of economic cybernetics in agriculture, the excavation of ocean floors and geological surveys from outer space.

Yelyutin has been criticized in the Soviet press for turning out too many engineers, and he conceded that that is one of the most difficult fields to plan for.

SWEET LIPS

BEAUTY'S IN THE EYE OF THE BEHOLDER Drewry Little's pet pig "Sweet Lips" has run across a sour verdict: a Circuit Court jury in Virginia Beach, Va., ruled the pig is a farm animal, not a pet, and fined his master $10 for keeping the 240-pound porker in the resort area. The jury acted on an appeal made by the offended Little.

Uproar in blood program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Red Cross is about to sever its ties with the American Association of Blood Banks, and the AABB says the move will endanger the nation's program of volunatary blood supplies.

"We believe the Red Cross' action will create a crisis in blood supply which will have an impact on health care delivery," said AABB President Bernice Hemphill at a news briefing Monday.

The American Red Cross Blood Program says that on Oct. 19 it will end a 16-year association with a national blood clearinghouse sponsored by the AABB. The Red Cross says it disagrees with the philosophy of the program, as well as what it says is the red tape associated with it.

Since the decision was announced last spring, the AABB has campaigned to arouse public opinion against the Red Cross.

The AABB contends individuals are responsible for replacing blood they and their friends use, but the Red Cross maintains it is the responsibility of the entire community.

The AABB and the Red Cross together collect the major portion of the nation's blood supply.

The AABB, an organization that includes more than 2,000 hospitals and community blood banks, says its members collect 3.8 million units of blood annually, and 58 Red Cross blood centers collect 4.2 million units. An estimated 8.5 million to 9 million units are used each year.

With the AABB's blood bank approach, individuals or special groups get "credits" for donated blood. They then end up paying less for the blood when they or their friends or relatives elsewhere in the country need a transfusion.

Mrs. Hemphill said making individuals responsible for blood they use is an incentive for donations that helps cut costs and insure supplies.

The Red Cross says pooling blood 2nd distributing it at no cost, except for processing where needed, is the best approach.

Irving wins IRS suit

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Hoaxer Clifford Irving has won a case against the government acting as his own attorney.

Irving, 45, who gained fame — and a prison term — for selling a fake "autobiography" of the late billionaire Howard Hughes to McGraw Hill for $765,000, was accused in a civil suit of failing to report $44,000 in income when filing for bankrputcy last year.

Irving had cited liabilities of $110,000 and assets of $770, including an old typewriter, a 1967 car and an "inoperable sailboat."

The government charged him with failing to mention $44,000 he was said to have received in connection with a movie, "Reichenbach," based on his book "Fake," about an alleged art forger.

In a decision made public Monday in bankruptcy court, Judge William Rudin ruled that Irving did not omit the $44,000 intentionally.

Nuclear outlook gloomy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pessimistic report on the spread of nuclear power warns that there may be little the United States can do to head off disaster.

A committee of businessmen and educators said Wednesday that despite its grim prediction the United States must, as a matter of "life and death," develop policies for dealing with the worldwide spread of nuclear energy and nuclear weapons.

"Like the rest of the world, the United States will have to get used to living with new inescapable dangers ... By the year 2000, the total plutonium produced as a by-product of global nuclear power will be the equivalent of 1 million atomic bombs," said the Research and Policy Committee of the Committee for Economic Develpment (CED).

The organization, composed largely of corporation exectuives and university officials, said there may be no real solutions for coping with problems that are "enormous and disheartening."

"Nuclear energy almost certainly will be essential to meeting the world's future energy needs, but its weapon potential is a threat to the very existence of all nations," said the committee.

Its report offered several recommendations, urging the United States government to use its influence as a supplier of nuclear fuel and technology to reduce the threat of nuclear war or terrorism.

It also urged development of a unified domestic and foreign policy on nuclear power, from which the United States could negotiate for stronger international safeguards.

It said tentatively that the following suggestionss might be "some first steps" toward coping with this grim outlook:

—"Because the world's next fuel for electricity is also the fuel for the world's most terrifying weapons, hardly anything will determine the physical security of Americans citizens in future decades more than the way this country utilizes its economic, military, and diplomatic influence in shaping the worldwide development of nuclear energy."

—"Without strong international commitment to nonproliferation agreements, it could become almost irresistibly easy for a nonnuclear power to turn the corner and acquire its own nuclear arsenal."

—"When ... uranium fuel is consumed in a reactor, the plutonium that results ... can indeed be used to make bombs. Therefore, even before plutonium recycling (for fuel) becomes economic, the creation of plutonium will pose a severe threat to national security."

—"The theft or capture of nuclear materials (in storage or in transit) by revolutionaries, terrorists, criminals, or even armed forces during a civil war or a coup d'etat will be a frightening possibility. It may become an occasional reality."

Fish can be a buoy for your budget

If your household features a fishing enthusiast, you have already learned what a whopping savings this can mean to your food budget. Setting aside the price of rod, reel and boat rental, our finny friends are free — delightful eating when prepared soon after they are caught.

However, if you have a pressure cooker-canner, you can take an extra advantage of fisherman's fortunes. Cut the flesh into pieces, cook it up with some delicious basic flavorings — and then can it! You'll have flavorful fish by the jarful, ready to use in New England or Manhattan Fish Chowder, or to make into an interesting main dish, Sea Fare on Toast.

If your family likes soups, you'll enjoy corn-tomato chowder base. Put it up in July or August when both corn and tomatoes are plentiful — it's much like making homemade condensed soup. Next winter, enjoy pot luck chowder, a blend of the base with potatoes or mixed vegetables and milk. These recipes are good news for budgets, and for perfectly delicious family eating.

A reminder — you must use a pressure cooker-canner to preserve fish with safety. It's a low-acid food as are all vegetables, meat and poultry. And low-acid foods need the higher-than boiling temperature of 240 degree F. (at 10 lbs. pressure) to destroy harmful organisms such as botulinus.

FISH CHOWDER BASE

- 7 lbs. cleaned fish (haddock, whitefish, or any light, mild-flavored fish)
- 5 cups water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 6 peppercorns
- ½ lb. salt pork, diced
- 1½ cups chopped onion

Bone and skin fish; cut into 1 inch pieces. Refrigerate until ready to process. Put skins and bones in a kettle with water, salt and peppercorns. Simmer slowly 10 to 15 minutes. Strain and reserve stock. (Save any pieces of fish that can be easily removed from the bones; add to fish pieces when cooking.)

Fry salt pork in a large kettle until crisp. Remove drippings. Add onion and cook until tender, not browned. Stir in fish and 1 quart of fish stock. Bring to a boil and cook 10 minutes. Pack into clean hot pint jars, leaving ½-inch head space. Add additional hot fish stock or boiling water, if necessary. Work out air bubbles. Adjust lids. Process pints 1 hour 40 minutes at 10 pounds pressure. Yields 6 pints.

SERVING SUGGESTIONS

New England Fish Chowder: Combine 1 cup peeled and diced potatoes, 1 cup milk and 1 pint Fish Chowder Base. Boil gently 10 minutes. Garnish each bowl of chowder with butter or margarine. 4 servings.

Manhattan Fish Chowder: Combine 1 cup peeled and diced potatoes, 1 cup canned tomatoes, ½ teaspoon thyme, 1 pint Fish Chowder Base, salt and pepper. Boil gently 10 minutes. 4 servings.

Sea Fare on Toast: Drain liquid from 1 pint jar of Fish Chowder Base into measuring cup. Add milk to make 2 cups. Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in saucepan. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour with fish liquid. Stir in fish and 1 cup cooked peas; boil gently 10 minutes. Serve over toast points, garnish with 2 tablespoons chopped pimientos.

CORN-TOMATO CHOWDER BASE

- 1 cup diced slab bacon
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 7 cups fresh whole kernel corn
- 7 cups peeled and diced, fresh tomatoes
- 2 teaspoons crumbled basil
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 cup water

Fry bacon in a large kettle until crisp. Pour off drippings. Add onions and cook until tender, not browned. Add remaining ingredients. Boil 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Pack into clean hot pint jars, leaving 1-inch head space. Add boiling water, if more liquid is needed. Work out air bubbles. Adjust lids. Process pints 55 minutes at 10 pounds pressure. Yields 6 pints.

SERVING SUGGESTIONS

Pot Luck Chowder: Combine 1 cup any cooked or canned vegetables (or 1 cup peeled and diced potatoes), ½ cup milk and 1 pint Corn Tomato Chowder Base. Boil gently 10 minutes. 4 servings.

Election Day Cake

Election Day was an important holiday in Colonial New England. It had to be as voters travelled considerable distances to cast their votes. The day was a long one especially for persons serving at the polls. Substantial food that could be transported by horseback was required. Election Day Cake met the specifications.

This is a spicy yeast cake stuffed with raisins, candied citron and pecans. In Colonial Days it was undoubtedly served with apple cider which still makes a pleasing accompaniment. Even today it would be a welcome treat for volunteers and candidates, busy with campaign details, and it's natural refreshment to serve after a political meeting.

The recipe is simple to make. It's a yeast batter made by the Rapid-mix method where the active dry yeast is mixed with other dry ingredients. All the mixing can be done in the electric mixer. And since it does not have to be kneaded the batter goes from the mixing bowl into a greased 10-inch tube pan for rising.

This is a large cake. So it will take about 1½ hours rising time to double in bulk. Baking time is about 45 minutes. The cake will serve 20 persons.

ELECTION DAY CAKE

- 4 to 4½ cups unsifted flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons ground cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon ground cloves
- ¼ teaspoon ground mace
- 2 packages active dry yeast
- ¾ cup (1½ sticks) softened margarine
- 1½ cups very hot tap water
- 2 eggs (at room temperature)
- 1½ cups seedless raisins
- ¾ cup chopped pecans
- ¼ cup chopped citron

In a large bowl thoroughly mix 1¾ cups flour, sugar, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves, mace and undissolved active dry yeast. Add softened margarine.

VOTERS' CHOICE

Gradually add very hot tap water to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add eggs and ¾ cup flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Add raisins, pecans, citron and enough flour to make a stiff batter. Stir until well combined.

Turn into greased 10-inch pan. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) about 45 minutes, or until done. Remove from pan and cook on wire rack.

Makes 1 cake.

Snack sets up TV punt

It's kick, pass and punt time acorss the land as football players from the peewees to the pros turn out in full force. For those long weekends of football viewing, set aside some special recipes the male members of the group can make easily, and enjoy, such as sandwiches starting with Norway sardines, shredded cabbage and onions on dark bread or a Nordic omelet with cheese served on buns or English muffins. Lightly toss together sardines, cabbage, celery, chives and vinegar. Season to taste. Serve as sandwich filling on dark bread. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Melt butter in 9-inch skillet. Arrange tomato slices in butter. Season with salt, pepper and oregano. Pour eggs over tomatoes; cover pan and cook over medium-low heat 4 minutes. Uncover pan and arrange sardines wheel spoke-fashion on eggs and sprinkle cheese between sardines. Cover pan again and continue cooking 4 minutes longer, or until eggs are set in the center and cheese melts. Garnish with green onion. Spoon onto warm buns or toasted English muffins for open-face sandwich. Makes 4 servings.

Be well prepared with a versatile beef recipe

What's better for easy entertaining than an entree that goes directly from oven to table. Lean flavorful beef works beautifully baked with liquids, aromatic seasonings and other ingredients in covered casseroles. During the cooking the beef flavor becomes even richer while the meat gets tender and juicy. In addition, this type of dish is popular with all ages and it's economical.

Particularly well suited to California tastes and lifestyles are entrees combining high protein beef with an array of healthful, colorful vegetables. With this in mind food specialists at the California Beef Council have developed a hearty party version of ratatouille, the famed mediterranean vegetable stew.

Browned chunks of economical beef chuck mingle with sliced canned tomatoes, eggplant, carrot, onion and red wine — the zucchini goes in the last 15 minutes of cooking so it stays bright and crisp. The requisite seasonings of garlic, peppercorns and bay leaf perfume the kitchen with a heady aroma as the delicious melange simmers in the oven. Assembled well in advance in a handsome ovenproof casserole, this entree requires no more of the hostess' time than it takes to open and close the oven door. Add a crisp green salad and crusty bread to finish off the menu.

When the seasons change, so do cooking and eating habits. Meat cutters are aware of this — that's why you'll notice more steaks and cuts suitable for the barbecue on the meat counter in the summer. With cooler weather, larger cuts and roasts become more prominent. California meat managers are notable for making the most efficient use of a beef carcass to provide cuts which best satisfy the needs of the consumer.

BEEF RATATOUILLE

2 pounds beef chuck steak
3 tablespoons flour
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon rosemary
3 tablespoons cooking oil
½ eggplant, peeled
1 carrot, peeled
1 (1-pound) can sliced tomatoes
5 peppercorns
2 large cloves garlic, minced
1 onion, chopped
2 bay leaves, crumbled
2/3 cup red wine
¼ pound zucchini

Remove beef from bones and discard fat. Cut beef into 1½-inch cubes. Coat with flour mixed with salt, pepper and rosemary, shaking off excess. Brown in oil in large skillet. Cut eggplant into ½-inch cubes and carrot into ½-inch slices. Add to beef along with undrained tomatoes, peppercorns, garlic, onion and bay leaves. Add wine and bring to boil. Transfer to 2-quart oven dish. Cover. Bake in 350 degree oven 45 minutes. Cut zucchini into ½-inch slices. Add to beef and bake 15 minutes longer or until beef is tender. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Another nosh for dieters

Microcrystalline cellulose (MCC) may be the best news for dieters since the introduction of skim milk, low fat cottage cheese and diet soft drinks.

MCC is a metabolically inert bulking agent which can be substituted for flour to reduce calories of baked goods.

According to an article in the July issue of the Journal of the American Dietetic Association, inclusion of MCC in calorie-restricted diets of obese rats resulted in a greater weight loss than when obese rats were fed calorie-restricted diets without MCC.

The article, by Katherine D. Brys and Mary E. Zabik of the Department of Food Science and Human Nutrition, Michigan State University, cited a study in which a panel of tasters evaluated replacement of part of the flour in biscuits and cakes with MCC.

Biscuits which had 20 percent of the flour replaced with MCC scored high in taste and texture, as did cakes in which 40 percent of the flour was replaced with MCC.

Maximum calorie reduction for the biscuits with 20 percent of the flour replaced by MCC was 10 percent. Cakes with 40 percent of the flour replaced by MCC had a maximum calorie reduction of 12 percent.

Although the decrease in calories is relatively small, it is beneficial as it would allow occasional inclusion of such baked goods in calorie-restricted diets, thus making dieting more tolerable.

Biscuits and other baked products are part of the breads and cereals group of the Four Flood Group system. The other food groups are milk, meat and vegetables and fruits.

A problem with many diets, according to the authors, is that they lack volume which discourages people from sticking to a diet regimen.

Chicken dish has accent

Here's an easy, home-prepared "chef's special" using chicken breasts rolled with ham. To make it like the restaurant professionals, cook the chicken roulades in the Kahlua orange juice sauce.

Chef's Special Chicken Kahlua

4 large half breasts of chicken, boned (about ½ pound each before boning)
½ teaspoon onion salt
4 strips cooked ham
1 tablespoon butter
½ cup orange juice
1/3 cup Kahlua
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated orange peel
Baked tomato halves
Cooked peas

Place chicken skin-side down on board, and sprinkle with onion salt. Pound out lightly being careful not to break meat. Place a strip of ham on each. Roll up to enclose ham and fasten with skewers or string. Heat butter in 9-inch skillet and brown chicken slowly on all sides. Combine orange juice, Kahlua, lemon juice and orange peel. Pour over chicken and heat to boiling. Cover, turn heat low and simmer 30 minutes until tender. Remove chicken and keep warm. Boil liquid remaining rapidly, uncovered, until reduced to about ½ cup. Remove strings or skewers from chicken. Pour sauce over. Serve with baked tomato halves and peas, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

While plums are around, get cracking

Fresh California plums are a social life-saver in situations like this. Tart-sweet and juicy, they're refreshing before-meal snacks for the hungry swimmers. A colorful plum bowlful serves a dual purpose as table centerpiece and an elegant out-of-hand dessert with a wedge of cheese for spur-of-the-moment suppers.

In summer's fun-filled days, hospitality comes easy — and often suddenly. You share a late afternoon cool drink with friends and invite them to dinner. Or, the children come home from a swim bringing the neighborhood team with them. You're thankful then for all the quick food tricks

Fresh plums have a long reputation for enhancing quick desserts — just the kind you need to follow a meal of cold cuts and salad, for instance, or even a bucket of fried chicken hurriedly bought as the main course. They're so refreshingly tart and juicy they can be combined with convenient mixes for homey, satisfying desserts that cook as the main course is being served.

Consider: biscuit-mix dumplings, steaming atop a bubbly layer of the crimson plums; or an upside-down cake made with a cake mix and layer of green or yellow plum slices; or a version of an old French country dessert with sliced blue or purple plums covered with a ready-to-pour pancake batter, baked until puffed and browned.

For your favorite plum dessert as well as for out-of-hand snacking, be sure to choose firm, full-colored plums. A soft tip indicates full ripeness. While fully-ripened plums are best for cooking, those that aren't quite ready for out-of-hand eating can be used in an emergency situation, especially when it's important for them to hold their shape.

Baked Plum Top Hats are a case in point. Each fresh plum is topped with a circle of pastry, then baked until the plum is cooked but still retains its shape, and the pastry is golden brown. They're extra special when served with whipped cream or ice cream for a summer supper.

BAKED PLUM TOP HATS

6 fresh California plums (about 1 pound)
Sugar cubes
Cinnamon, nutmeg or allspice
Pastry for single 9-inch crust
1 egg, lightly beaten
Sugar
Whipped cream or ice cream

With apple corer, carefully remove pits from plums to form cavity. Arrange in baking pan, 3 inches apart. Put 1 or 2 sugar cubes and a dash of spice into each cavity. Roll out pastry ¼ inch thick. Cut six 3½-inch circles. Top each plum with a circle of pastry. Brush with beaten egg. Sprinkle with sugar. Pour water into pan, ⅛-inch deep. Bake in pre-heated 400 degree oven 30 to 35 minutes, or until pastry is golden brown but plum still holds its shape. Let cool 10 minutes. Serve warm, with cream or ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

SUPPER FOR FOUR

Ham Steak Acorn Squash
India Snap Beans
Apple Cobbler Beverage

FRANCINE BREVETTI'S INDIA SNAP BEANS

A spicy cross between a salad and a relish.

1 pound snap beans
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1½ teaspoons ground cumin
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
¼ cup plus 2 tablespoons corn oil
Freshly ground pepper to taste

Tip beans and scrub in cold water. If beans are young, steam only until tender-crisp; if old, until tender. Drain if necessary. In a small mixing bowl whisk together the salt, mustard, cumin, onion and vinegar; gradually whisk in the oil — mixture will be thin but homogenous. Pour over the warm beans and add pepper. Serve at room temperature. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Mini-beef loaf halts boredom

Does settling down into the fall routine of school and community activities also mean settling down into a routine of lackluster meals?

Often when the schedule becomes hectic, many homemakers find it easiest to rely on those tried and true family favorites time and time again. But even when following an established menu pattern, it's important to leave enough room for variation to keep mealtime enthusiasm high.

For instance, next time it's meat loaf night, break from tradition a bit and present this popular ground beef entree in a new fashion.

Instead of serving one loaf cut in slices, let each diner enjoy his own mini loaf, including a hidden surprise — a strip of melted cheese in the center. Minute-conscious cooks will be happy to note that, because the individual loaves are smaller, the baking time is less than for one large loaf.

To keep preparation time at a minimum, here's a neat trick for shaping the loaves and concealing the cheese. First divide the meat loaf mixture, and form into 12 rectangular patties; place a stick of Cheddar cheese on six of the patties and then place the other six patties on top. Shape into loaves, pressing the edges together to seal. Into the oven they go, and the only thing left to do is to top each loaf with a crown of catsup near the end of the baking period.

Mini Beef Loaves are just one example of hundreds of ways ground beef can be prepared for interesting and nutritious meals. You're doing the family a favor everytime you serve this economical beef cut because you are offering the high quality protein needed to build, maintain and repair body tissues and strengthen the defense mechanism against infection and disease.

There's also a good supply of B vitamins that are essential for good vision and clear eyes, appetite and healthy skin.

MINI BEEF LOAVES

2 pounds ground beef
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
½ cup crushed saltine crackers
1/3 cup chopped onion
1 egg
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
8 ounces Cheddar cheese
1/3 cup catsup

Add tomato sauce, crackers, onion, egg, salt and pepper to meat and combine. Divide into 12 equal parts and shape each into a 3½ in. x 2¾ in. rectangular patty. Cut cheese into 6 sticks approximately 3 in. x 2/3 in x 2/3 in. Place one cheese stick in center of each of 6 patties and top with remaining patties; press and shape into miniature loaves. Place loaves on rack in roasting pan; bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 minutes. Top loaves with catsup; continue baking 15 to 20 minutes. 6 individual meat loaves.

Since the oven will be in use for the meat loaves, it's an ideal time to make and bake a casserole of creamy scalloped potatoes. Buttered broccoli fills the vegetable slot nicely while grapefruit and orange sections, sweetened with coconut, are a cool salad choice. Dessert will be hard to resist when it's squares of chocolate cake topped with butter cream frosting.

Put some 'tastiness' into that brown bag

More children than ever are taking their lunch to school and it's a good idea to give them food that's nutritious and has taste incentive too! In the many school days to come, fill up those brown paper bags, colorful lunch boxes and shoulder strap bags with wholesome, easy-to-prepare foods that have the very special homemade goodness.

"Berry Bunwiches" are made with a crisp roll or bun and can be generously spread with a variety of flavorsome fillings. "Tunaberry Crunch" combines chopped onion, celery, tuna, cream cheese and cranberry orange-relish. "Cranberry Ham" is a mixture of chopped boiled ham, pickled relish, mustard and mayonnaise. After the mix is spread on the buns, it is topped with thin slices of jellied cranberry sauce.

Another tasty mixed filling is "Peanut Berry" prepared with cream cheese, crushed pineapple, chopped peanuts and whole berry cranberry sauce. Of course, to keep the sandwiches fresh till lunchtime enclose with foil or plastic wrap.

Kids just learning their ABC's and those into algebra will delight in home baked "Berry Bonny Bread." It combines butter, brown sugar, egg, buttermilk, flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, grated orange, raisins and whole berry cranberry sauce. Slice it thinly for sandwich making and spread with cream cheese, peanut butter, jams and jelly.

No brown bag or tin box would be complete without the additions of tantalizing and energizing thirst quenchers in a thermos. "Cranberry School Bell" is a refreshing drink combining jellied cranberry sauce, orange juice, water and honey. A real cool sipper if there ever was one! For brisk days, a hot drink is most welcome, such as "Cranberry Vegetable Soup" a hearty spicy mix of cranberry apple drink, vegetable soup and a dash of catsup or chili sauce.

For your tots off to school for the first time or in their early grades, a thoughtful touch in their lunch boxes would be "Cranberry Zoo Cookies." These are real charmers cut into the shape of animals. Make two of each and then spread half of the cookies with cranberry-orange relish and top with a second cookie in the same shape.

BERRY SANDWICHES

Use a crisp roll or bun to make a sandwich. Each one of these fillings makes enough for 4 sandwiches.

TUNABERRY CRUNCH FILLING

1 can (6½ ounces) tuna, drained
1/3 cup cranberry-orange relish
1 small onion, minced
½ cup minced celery
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, at room temperature

Combine all ingredients and mash until well blended. Refrigerate until needed.

CRANBERRY HAM FILLING

2 cups finely chopped smoked or boiled ham
½ cup well drained pickle relish
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1/3 cup mayonnaise
1 can (8 ounces) jellied cranberry sauce, cut into thin slices

In a bowl mix ham, relish, mustard and mayonnaise. Spread filling on buns and top each with cranberry slices. Refrigerate until needed.

PEANUT BERRY FILLING

1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, at room temperature
½ cup well drained crushed pineapple
1/3 cup chopped salted peanuts
½ cup whole berry cranberry sauce

Mash cream cheese until soft and fluffy. Stir in remaining ingredients. Stir until well blended. Refrigerate until needed.

Wrap all sandwiches in foil or plastic wrap.

BERRY BONNY BREAD
(Makes 1—9x5x3 inch loaf)

Use this bread to make really good tasting peanut butter and jelly sandwiches.

½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 egg
1¼ cups buttermilk
3½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg
Grated rind of 1 orange
½ cup raisins
1 can (8 ounces) whole berry cranberry sauce

In a bowl, cream butter until fluffy. Stir in brown sugar, egg and buttermilk. Beat in flour, baking soda, salt and spices. Fold in orange rind, raisins and cranberry sauce. Pour mixture into a greased and floured 9x5x3 inch loaf pan. Bake in a preheated moderate 350 degree oven for 1 hour and 20 minutes or until firm to the touch in the center. Unmold and cool thoroughly before cutting into thin slices.

CRANBERRY SCHOOL BELL
(Makes about 5 cups)

1 can (1 pound) jellied cranberry sauce
1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed and undiluted
2¼ cups water
¼ cup honey

In a large saucepan, combine all ingredients and stir constantly until melted and smooth. Cool and then chill. Pour into thermos.

CRANBERRY VEGETABLE SOUP
(Makes 2½ cups)

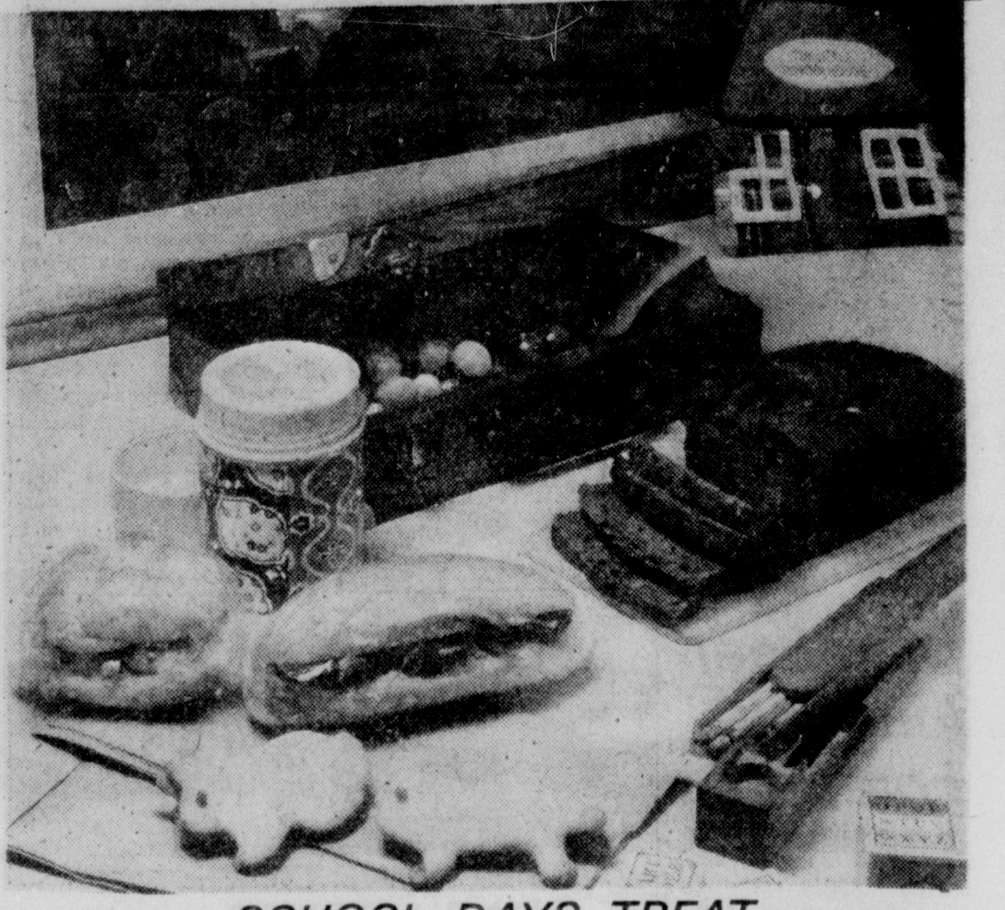
1¼ cups cranberry apple drink
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed vegetarian vegetable soup
2 tablespoons catsup or chili sauce

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan and heat until bubbly. Pour mixture into thermos bottle.

CRANBERRY ZOO COOKIES
(Makes 24 animal cookies depending on size and shape of cookies)

1 cup vegetable shortening
1½ cups firmly packed light brown sugar
1 egg
¼ cup light cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
3½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 jar (14 ounces) cranberry-orange relish

In a bowl, cream shortening until fluffy. Stir in sugar, egg and cream. Stir in vanilla. Beat in flour, baking powder and baking soda and salt. Knead dough a few times on a floured surface until smooth. Wrap dough and chill for 2 hours. Roll out dough on a floured surface into ¼ inch thickness, cut into desired shapes using animal cookie cutters. Place cookies on a greased large cookie sheet. Bake in a preheated moderate oven 375 degrees for 10 to 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool cookies on a rack. When ready to serve, spread half of the cookies with relish and top with remaining cookies. Spoon a tiny piece of relish on top of animal to resemble an eye, if desired.



SCHOOL DAYS TREAT

Food groups aid budgets

Gambling at the supermarket? Statistics show Californians spend about $1¼ billion a month chancing that their food budgets will meet family nutrition needs. As a guide for cutting food costs without eliminating essential nutrients, nutritionists suggest using USDA's Four Food Groups system.

Foods in the Four Food Groups — milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, breads and cereals — are categorized according to common nutrients supplied by foods within each group. In the meat group, eggs, hamburger and tuna fish all contain similar high quantities of protein, niacin, iron and thiamin. And vegetable-fruit group foods such as broccoli and watermelon are classified together because vegetables and fruits are principal sources of vitamins A and C.

Eating a variety of Four Food Group foods in the recommended amounts each day provides the foundation for balanced nutrition. Adults should have at least two servings from the milk group, two from the meat group, four from the vegetable-fruit group and four from the bread-cereal group. Children need at least three milk group servings per day; teenagers, four.

Food shoppers should compare the cost per serving of foods in the same food group, such as milk and yogurt or ground beef and beef roasts.

In this way, the Four Food Group system can aid consumers in choosing a more economical food while maintaining the nutritional value of the type food they intend to buy.

To determine whether a serving of flavored yogurt or whole milk is the better buy for family snacks, calculate the cost per serving of each. Whole milk figures out to about 9 cents per eight-ounce glass whereas yogurt costs 33 cents per eight-ounce carton.

And, assuming that ground beef and chuck roast are about $1.20 per pound, ground beef is more economical on a cost-per-serving basis. A pound of ground beef provides six servings of two ounces each, for about 20 cents a serving.

From a pound of bone-in chuck roast, expect four servings per pound, costing 30 cents a serving.

The Four Food Group system is based on the Recommended Dietary Allowances established by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences.

Save up to 20 per cent of your food bill by shopping more knowingly. Here are more suggestions from nutritionists for wise shopping:

1. Clip coupons. They can save you up to $3.00 per week.

2. Read and clip food ads from newspapers so you know what products are current best buys and what the specials are. Take the ads with you when shopping.

3. Plan menus around plentiful or in-season foods. When there's a good supply of a food, you'll find better prices.

4. Make a shopping list based on your weekly food plan and stick to it.

5. Don't shop when you're hungry. A growling stomach makes all foods sound good, even foods you don't normally buy.

6. Allow just enough shopping time for cost comparing but no extra minutes for slowing down to look at foods that aren't on your shopping list.

BEANS 'N WHAT!?

Beans! Beautiful beans! Nearly every region has had its favorite recipe, and now comes "Barbecue Beans Nectarine," inspired by culinary ideas from the Caribbean and California.

Aside from the fact that it's a delicious way to serve red kidney beans, this is further evidence of the versatility of fresh nectarines. Here, as in so many hot dishes, the nectarines are added near the end of the cooking period. As a rule, they simply heat through.

The use of molasses, rum, coffee, ginger, mustard, onion and other seasonings impart the full, rich, dark flavor we associate with slowly baked beans in this top-of-the-range recipe, with the nectarines adding their distinctive, piquant taste.

BARBECUE BEANS NECTARINE

3 cans (1 lb. each) red kidney beans
1 cup red table wine
¼ pound bacon, diced
1 cup chopped onion
1 small bay leaf
1 cup black coffee
2 large or 3 medium-size fresh California nectarines
1/3 cup molasses
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon thyme
¼ cup rum

In large kettle combine beans, wine, bacon, onion, bay leaf and coffee; bring to boil and simmer uncovered for 35 to 40 minutes. Meanwhile, slice nectarines to get a measure of 2 cups and add along with molasses, salt, mustard, ginger and thyme to beans; simmer 5 minutes longer. Stir in rum and serve.

Makes 1½ quarts.

SUE GELLMAN'S SPINACH-MUSHROOM RICE

A great dish from a great cook in Wyncote, Pa.

1 cup extra long grain rice
10 ounce package frozen chopped spinach
¾ cup butter
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
1/3 cup sour cream

Cook rice according to package directions; turn into a 1½-quart round casserole 7½ by 2½ inches or similar utensil. Cook spinach according to package directions; drain well and add to casserole. In a 10-inch skillet melt ¼ cup of the butter; add mushrooms and, stirring often, cook quickly to keep liquid from accumlating until wilted — 3 to 5 minutes; add to casserole. In the skillet melt remaining butter and add to casserole with the sour cream. Mix well. Bake, covered, in a preheated 350 degree oven until bubbling hot — about 20 to 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Tetrazzini formula combines cheese, butter

When it comes to satisfying main dishes, versatile cheese offers economy, wholesome food values and tantalizing flavor. During the Fall Cheese Festival an outstanding selection of cheeses are in great evidence in markets and stores everywhere. With so many tasts and textures to choose from, there's always a perfect cheese for every purpose.

When pasta is on the menu, cheese is sure to be there too. Featured here is a unique and deluxe version of tetrazzini. It's accented with smokey flavored provolone — one of the popular Italian type cheese. Instead of using typical dry pasta, this elegant entree is done with fresh chinese noodles. Look for pound packages of these delectable noodles in the fresh produce department of supermarkets. Chinese noodles are tender and cook very quickly so watch your timing carefully.

The smooth cheese sauce for the tetrazzini is made in the classic fashion with milk and chicken broth added to a butter and flour base. For easy melting, dice the provolone before it goes into the sauce. Thick sliced mushrooms and a little sherry add to the goodness of this very special tetrazzini. The final touch is a last sprinkling of cheese over all, then a golden browning under the broiler. A salad of greens, mandarin orange sections and avocado makes a cool refreshing accompaniment for the hot and creamy entree.

It's interesting to note that California produces many Italian cheese. Besides provolone, there's mozzarella of pizza fame and ricotta impressive in lasagne. Among the hard grating cheese are parmesan and romano. Monterey jack however, is the most popular of all the cheese. Highly versatile, this smooth mellow cheese is equally delicious for eating and cooking.

CHEESE MUSHROOM TETRAZZINI

- 1 (1-pound) package fresh chinese noodles
- 2 (6-ounce) packages sliced provolone cheese
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 medium clove garlic, minced
- ½ pound mushrooms, sliced thickly
- 6 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 chicken bouillon cubes, crumbled
- 1½ cups milk
- ¼ cup minced parsley
- ¼ cup dry sherry

Drop noodles into boiling water and cook as package directs. Drain. Rinse with cold water. Dice cheese. Saute onion, garlic, and mushrooms in butter in large skillet until tender. Remove from pan with slotted spoon, leaving juices and butter in pan. Stir in flour, salt, pepper and bouillon cubes. Add milk. Cook, stirring, until sauce thickens and boils. Add parsley, sherry and half the cheese, stirring until melted. Combine noodles with half of sauce. Turn onto ovenproof serving platter. Add mushroom mixture to remaining sauce. Spoon over noodles. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Run under broiler until hot and bubbly. Garnish as desired with sliced mushrooms, tomatoes and parsley. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

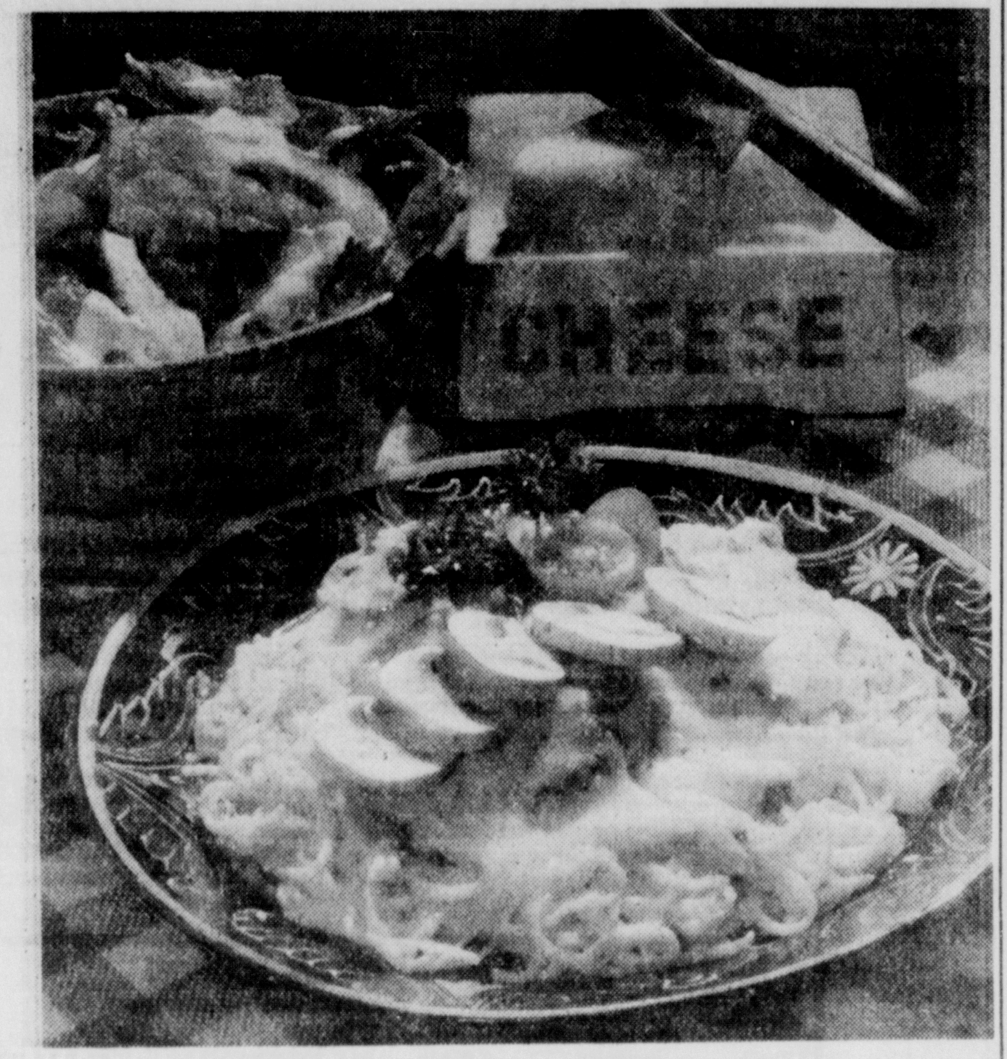
BEATRICE OJAKANGAS' CUCUMBER FISH SALAD

- 2 cups (about 12 ounces) skinned and boned smoked white-or other fish in chunks
- 2 cups thinly sliced peeled cucumbers (2 small)
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- Dash of salt

Layer fish and cucumber in shallow serving bowl. Blend remaining ingredients; spread over fish and cucumber. Makes 6 to 8 salad servings. This delightful recipe comes from a marvelous article, "When the Garden Delivers Its Bounty" in the current August issue of "Women's Day."



PASTA WITH PROTEIN

Hot cheese, bread tops for taste

Take a thin slice of this magnificent hot french bread and cheese creation and you have a hearty canape. Take a bigger slice and you'll have a sandwich. Add a glass of red wine to go with it and a lovely repast is ready to enjoy. The opulent filling is done with two cheese and some very interesting and colorful partners. Should part of the loaf be left, gather up the fragments, wrap and refrigerate. This bread and cheese loaf reheats beautifully.

HOT BREAD AND CHEESE

- 1 loaf french bread
- ½ pound grated monterey jack cheese
- 1 cup grated romano cheese
- 1 (4-ounce) can green chiles, diced
- 1 small onion, chopped (about ½ cup)
- 1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
- 1 cup pitted ripe olives, cut into wedges

Split french bread in half horizontally. Scoop out bread crumbs to make a hollow for filling. (Save crumbs for another use.) Be sure both halves sit evenly without tilting. Coarsely grate half the jack cheese. Cut remainder into thin 1-inch strips. Mix grated jack, romano, chiles, onion, tomato sauce and ripe olives. Spoon into hollows in bread. Place in large shallow pan. Bake uncovered in 400 degree oven 15 minutes. Top with cheese strips. Return to oven for 5 minutes. Cut crosswise. Makes about 30 (1-inch) strips.

Cut larger pieces to serve as sandwich. May be made ahead and refrigerated until ready to heat.

Tempura dish lets cook join party

A friendly way to entertain is to gather four or six people around a table set with platters of fish and vegetable tempura. Cook these crisp treats of mushrooms, broccoli, green beans, turnips and favorite fish at the table to serve at once. This is a good way for the cook to sit in on all-the party conversation. Prepare ingredients ahead of time and keep chilled until time to cook. Serve fluffy rice and a mandarin orange salad with your tempura.

In a bowl, mix flour, salt. Add eggs and 1 cup beer. Beat until smooth. Add more beer, if necessary, until batter is the consistency of thick cream. Dip fish or vegetables into batter and then drop each into preheated peanut oil. Fry about 5 to 6 minutes for fish and 3 to 4 minutes for vegetables. When pieces are richly browned, drain on absorbent paper. Serve with hot mustard, plum sauce or soy sauce as dip. Makes 8 servings.

Arrange cherries in every other groove of jel-a-ring mold and a ring of mandarin orange sections on bottom of mold. Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add fruit juice. To set arrangement, spoon a little gelatin mixture into mold and refrigerate until gelatin is hardened. Combine remaining gelatin with oranges, pineapple and marshmallows. Spoon into mold and refrigerate until firm. Serves 10 to 12.

'Tis the season' for cranberry delights

This autumn will be the most bountiful harvest ever for our native, crimson bright cranberries. That's good news for all who enjoy the culinary versatility of this piquant fruit.

Cranberries have been enthusiastically described as "rubies of the bogs," "nature's autumnal gems" and "red gold." They were treasure indeed to the Indians who used them for food, to dye ceremonial robes, for medicinal purposes, and perhaps most importantly as their symbol of peace and prosperity. The early colonists of New England considered the berries precious enough to send ten barrels as a gift to King Charles the Second in 1677. And, in many settlements a high fine was levied against anyone caught gathering the berries before mid-September.

Today the lustrous, tangy cranberries tastefully combine in recipes that cover the menu gamut from soups to souffles. You can hold on to a cache of fresh cranberries for months to come simply by storing the containers from the market in your freezer. The berries will keep their gem-like glow and tangy fresh flavor so that you'll be able to create a favorite recipe whenever you're inspired. Here is a treasure trove of new cranberry recipes that will bring tantalizing pleasures to your table.

"Cranberry Golden Glazed Pheasant" is a spectacular main course for a festive occasion. The birds are stuffed with a cranberry and corn bread dressing, and anointed with a glaze bombining fresh cranberries, red wine, cinnamon, cloves and lemon rind. The very same recipe can be used for chicken or game hens, as well. But of course, a brace of succulent pheasant would be truly the piece de resistance for a great dining experience.

Garnish your pheasant platter with sauerkraut and "Spiced Cranberries." The "Spiced Cranberries" can be prepared well in advance, and preserved in jars in your refrigerator. If you are lucky enough to have a gamesman in the family who brings you pheasant, do keep the feathers to decorate your birds au plumage.

Add zestful flavor to poultry or meats, or any occasion with "Cranberry Wine Sauce." It's a sweet 'n tart sauce combining fresh cranberries with red wine, orange and lemon rind, cinnamon, cloves, cornstarch and sugar. Made in a matter of minutes, it also will add that special cranberry color radiance to your table.

Another winning recipe made with fresh cranberries is charming "Mini Cranbanana Gem Loaves." These tiny, individual leaves are a marvelously unique idea to prepare for your own table, and to present as thoughtful gifts at holiday time. They are made with a fine batter into which is mixed bananas, cranberries and nuts. Once baked they are topped with a sugar glaze, and decorated with sparkling candied fruits.

Whatever the event, "Cranberry Jewel Cake" will be received with pleasure. A particularly rich looking delectation, it is covered with a shimmering golden frosting and elegantly garnished with ruby cranberries for a crown-like effect. Surely, a superb finale to any fine meal.

For an exquisite drink "Rumberry Toasters" can be served either individually as an aperitif, or in a punch bowl for a crowd. It combines fresh cranberries, rum, water, sugar, and brandy, into an enchanting elixir sure to entrance the taste buds of the most discriminating gourmet.

So as autumn comes, take advantage of the wondrous fresh cranberry bounty to create the many recipe treasures that will endow your menus with savory pleasures and brilliant color.

CRANBERRY GOLDEN GLAZED PHEASANT

(Makes 2 pheasant, or 2-3 pound chickens)

2 pheasant, thawed if frozen, giblets removed
Salt and pepper
½ pound bacon, chopped
1 large onion, chopped
1 package (8 ounces) corn bread stuffing mix
2 cups Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
1 cup chicken broth
1/3 cup chopped parsley
2 eggs

Glaze:
1 cup Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
½ cup dry red wine
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
Slivered rind of 1 lemon

Sprinkle pheasant inside and out with salt and pepper. In a skillet, fry bacon until crisp. Add onions and saute for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour bacon, onions and drippings into a bowl. Blend in stuffing mix, cranberries, chicken broth, parsley and eggs. Use mixture to stuff pheasant. Sew or skewer openings closed. Roast in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 hour. Combine all glaze ingredients in a saucepan and simmer for 10 minutes. Remove pheasant from oven and spoon glaze over them. Replace in oven and roast another 30 minutes. Remove from oven and place on serving platter. Serve with sauerkraut cooked with white wine, onion and juniper berries, if desired. Garnish with Spiced Cranberries.

SPICED CRANBERRIES

(Makes 4 pints)

2 cups sugar
1 tablespoon whole allspice
1½ teaspoons salt
3½ cups white vinegar
1½ cups water
2 cinnamon sticks
2 pounds Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained

In a saucepan, combine all ingredients except cranberries. Boil mixture for 15 minutes. Place cranberries into sterilized jars. Pour in hot syrup until cranberries are covered. Seal and cool. Refrigerate until needed.

CRANBERRY WINE SAUCE

(Makes about 2½ cups)

2 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup sugar
1½ cups Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
1½ cups red wine
Juice and slivered rind of 1 orange
Juice and slivered rind of 1 lemon
Dash cinnamon and cloves

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan and simmer stirring constantly for 10 minutes or until cranberries are tender. Serve sauce with Cranberry Glazed Pheasant.

MINI CRANBANANA GEM LOAVES

(Makes 12 loaves — 4-½x2-½x1-½ inches)

1 cup vegetable shortening
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
2 cups mashed ripe bananas (4 large)
1 cup chopped nuts
2 cups Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons salt

Glze:
3 cups confectioners' sugar
Orange juice
¾ cup chopped mixed candied fruits

In a bowl, cream shortening until fluffy. Beat in sugar and eggs. Stir in bananas, nuts and cranberries. Beat in flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Spoon dough into 12-greased and floured 4-½x2-½x1-½ inch loaf pans. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 40 to 45 minutes or until puffed and brown. Cool in pan 5 minutes and then unmold onto cake racks. Cool thoroughly. In a bowl, mix confectioners' sugar with enough orange juice to make glaze the consistency of heavy cream. Spoon glaze over loaves and sprinkle candied fruit on tops of loaves. If you do not have 12 pans, bake as many as you have and refrigerate the dough until pans are ready again.

CRANBERRY JEWEL CAKE

(Makes 1 — 1-½ quart mold)

1 cup butter or margarine
1½ cups sugar
6 eggs
2½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
1 cup mixed candied fruits
¼ cup chopped crystallized ginger
2 tablespoons sesame seeds

Frosting:
2 cups confectioners' sugar
¼ cup milk, about
Yellow food coloring
Ocean Spray fresh cranberries for garnish

In a bowl, cream butter until fluffy. Beat in sugar. Beat in eggs one at a time beating well after each addition. Stir in flour, baking soda and salt. Beat until smooth and well blended. Fold in cranberries, fruits and ginger. Grease 1-½ quart mold heavily and sprinkle inside of mold with sesame seeds. Turn dough into mold and spread evenly. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 hour and 15 minutes to 1 hour and 30 after the Jefferson County, Colo. tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 5 minutes, tap to loosen cake and invert onto serving plate. Cool. In a bowl, mix confectioners' sugar with enough milk to make the consistency of heavy cream. Tint frosting a rich yellow. Spoon frosting over cake coating entire cake. Place rries on top of cake for decoration.

RUMBERRY TOASTERS

(Serves 6)

2 cups Ocean Spray fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained
3 cups water
1 cup sugar
1 cup dark rum
¼ cup Grand Marnier

In a saucepan, mix cranberries, water and sugar. Simmer for 15 minutes. Press mixture through a strainer. Into strained mixture stir rum and Grand Marnier. Chill. To serve beat drink and pour into glasses filled with ice cubes.

The Ice Pick.* Cool and quick.

We've always known that Smirnoff and iced tea, or the Ice Pick as we call it, was a tempting drink combination. In fact on one occasion we recommended it.

But now that Lipton has made iced tea totally fuss-proof, with their tasty lemony brew ready to pour from the can, we'd say the Ice Pick's time has really come.

In our enthusiasm for this delicious drink let's remember that we're sipping Smirnoff along with iced tea. Even though an Ice Pick is quick to make, please... take it slowly.

*To make an Ice Pick pour an ounce or so of Smirnoff into a tall glass with ice and fill with Lipton iced tea from a can.

Smirnoff leaves you breathless.®

A vegetarian snack from Hindu experts

COOKING IS FUN

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press
Food Editor

For millions of people in India, vegetarianism is a way of life. Indians believe that the purity of mind and spirit which is a fundamental of the Hindu religion can be achieved only by adhering to a strict vegetarian diet. As a result of their deeply held traditions, Hindu cooks have produced one of the most varied and imaginative vegetarian cuisines in the world.

Indian vegetarian meals are hearty, satisfying and nutritionally well-balanced even though meat, fish, fowl and eggs are excluded. In the hands of imaginative Hindu cooks, vegetarian meals become as appetizing as meals with meat. Flavorful dishes can be made with lentils, potatoes, chickpeas, wheat, rice, coconut, nuts and yogurt.

Suggested here are Samosas, deep-fried Indian pastries which can be served as appetizers or snacks. These delicious pastry turnovers are filled with a seasoned potato mixture and deep-fried in peanut oil. Indian cooks prefer peanut oil because it can be heated to high temperatures without smoking or burning.

SAMOSAS
Makes about 4 dozen

- ½ cup finely chopped onion
- 2 teaspoons finely chopped ginger
- ¼ cup Planters Peanut Oil
- 1 teaspoon fennel seed
- ¾ tesaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon mustard
- ¼ teaspoon ground cumin seed
- ¼ teaspoon tumeric
- ½ cup water
- 2 cups finely diced cooked potatoes
- 2 packages (10-ounces each) pastry mix
- Planters Peanut Oil

In large skillet, saute onions and ginger in ¼ cup peanut oil until onion is tender, about 5 minutes. Stir in fennel, salt, mustard, cumin, turmeric, water and potatoes. Reduce the heat to low, cover the skillet tightly, and cook for 5 minutes. Transfer potato mixture to a bowl and cool to room temperature.

Prepare pastry dough according to package directions. On lightly floured board roll out half of dough into a 15-inch square. Cut each piece into 3-inch squares. Place a slightly rounded teaspoonful of potato mixture in center of each square. Moisten edges with water. Bring opposite corners together to form a triangle. Pinch seam together well, then press edge with tines of fork.

Fry several samosas at a time in deep hot (375 degrees) peanut oil until golden brown on each side, about 2 mintues. Drain on paper towels; serve warm.

HELEN JOSEPH'S CHEESE BREAD

It slices and toasts beautifully.

- 2 cups flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ pound sharp cheddar cheese, grated medium-fine
- 1½ cups not packed
- 1 tablespoon caraway seed
- 2 large eggs
- 1 cup sour cream

Stir together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt; stir in cheese and caraway. Beat eggs until thick and ivory color; beat in sour cream. Add flour-cheese mixture; stir until moistened but still lumpy. Turn into an 8½ by 4½ by 3½ inch loaf pan that has been lined with wax paper and the paper buttered. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 40 minutes. Turn out on wire rack; remove paper; turn right side up; cool completely.

COTTAGE CHEESE ROLLS

We've never made no-knead rolls that were better than these!

- 2 packages active dry yeast
- ½ cup lukewarm water
- 2 cups creamstyle cottage cheese
- ¼ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- 2 eggs
- 4½ cups (about) flour

Sprinkle yeast on lukewarm water; stir to dissolve. Heat cottage cheese until lukewarm. Combine cottage cheese, sugar, salt, baking soda, eggs, yeast and 1 cup flour in bowl. Beat with electric mixer at medium speed until smooth, about 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Or beat with spoon until batter is smooth. Gradually add enough flour to make a soft dough that leaves the sides of the bowl. Place dough in greased bowl; turn over to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1½ hours. Turn dough onto lightly floured surface. Divide dough into 24 equal pieces. Shape each piece into a ball. Place 24 balls in 2 greased 9-inch round baking pans. Let rise until doubled, about 45 minutes. Bake in 350-degree oven 20 minutes or until golden brown. Remove frompans; cool on racks. Makes 24 rolls. from Farm Fournal's "Country Flair Cookbook" edited by Elise W. Manning (Doubleday).

DINNER FOR FOUR Korean Turnip Pork Rice
Skewered Chicken
Spinach with Sesame Seeds
Peaches Almond Wafers

KOREAN TURNIP PORK

- ½ pound (3) boneless loin pork chops
- ½ pound white turnips
- 1 tablespoon oil
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon minced fresh ginger
- ¼ cup soy sauce
- ¼ cup dry sherry
- ¾ teaspoon beef boulion granules dissolved in ¾ cup hot water
- 1 teaspoon sugar

Trim any fat from around chops; cut each into 4 crosswise pieces. Pare turnips and cut into wedges about the size of the pork pieces; in a medium saucepan cover turnips with water and boil for about 10 minutes; drain off water; leave turnips in saucepan; set aside. In a 10-inch skillet heat the oil and quickly brown the pork in it; add to turnips; stir in remaining ingredients; bring to a boil; boil gently until all except about ¼ cup of the liquid has been absorbed. Serve this strongly flavored dish with lots of rice. Makes 4 small servings.

Room temperature

Soft cheese such as cottage and cream should be served cold from the refrigerator. Semi-soft cheese tastes best when served at room temperature.

Cow's future

Because of the dairy cow's unique digestive system that is able to convert by-products of wheat and rice, forage parts of food crops and other inedible (for humans) plant materials into milk and meat, her future role in feeding an expanding world population is assured. That's the opinion of a number of food scientists working on the problem of anticipated critical demands on the world's food production resources in the next 25 years. The scientists report that dairymen will be feeding more and more by-products from the processing and refining of food crops for human consumption.

Celery stalk

The next time you ask for a "stalk" of celery, you might get the entire plant. The proper name for a single stem is a "rib."

Angry Royals put A's seven back

By The Associated Press

Spies in the bullpen . . . brushback pitches from the mound . . . shouts of anger in the infield. It's nittygritty time in the American League West.

The Kansas City Royals and the Oakland A's got down to cases Tuesday night in their long-awaited confrontation that will ultimately settle the Western Division race.

Before the game was over, Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog charged the A's with stealing signs from the bullpen with binoculars, Kansas City batters were knocked down and out with pitches and players almost came to blows.

The Royals endured through it all, winning 3-1 to knock Oakland down a peg in the wild West.

"I'd love to beat them two more and put them nine back," snapped Herzog. "Then they would really be desperate."

The A's are desperate enough now. They are seven games behind the division-pacers, with 11 games to go.

It's nervous time.

"It hurts, but it does not mean the season's over," said a hopeful Chuck Tanner, Oakland's manager. "It's not over until you see it in the paper."

The pressure of the moment was evident right away Tuesday night when Oakland pitcher Stan Bahnsen hit Amos Otis with a pitch and brushed back Hal McRae. Otis was carried from the game on a stretcher, but X rays later indicated no serious injury.

After McRae was brushed back, he and on-deck batter John Mayberry stalked the mound, but were restrained by Herzog and umpires.

Later, Herzog led the entire umpiring crew out to the A's bullpen, where binoculars were uncovered under a towel. Herzog insisted they be removed but the umpires rejected that request.

"If that is the way they want to run the league, that is fine," said Herzog. "Maybe we'll start getting cutsie on them, too."

McRae and Mayberry lashed run-scoring singles for Kansas City. Bahnsen, 8-7, held the Royals hitless until the third inning, then yielded McRae's RBI single after walking Jim Wohlford and George Brett. Mayberry's single then scored Brett.

The A's tagged Kansas City starter Doug Bird, 12-9, for a run in the sixth on consecutive doubles by Campy Campaneris and Joe Rudi. A sacrifice fly by Mayberry off reliever Rollie Fingers in the eighth gave the Royals an insurance run.

Locals ranked in first grid poll

Three valley football teams have been voted into the first CIF grid poll of 1976.

Chaffey is ranked ninth in class 4A football while Bonita and San Dimas are both in the 2A top ten — the Bearcats seventh and the Saints ninth.

The Tigers earned their rating with a 20-12 win over Pasadena, a team that was highly regarded before the season began.

The Bearcats and Saints scored their votes by beating up on San Antonio League teams.

The victories were especially impressive for the two Hacienda League teams because their SAL victims are members of the 3A class, while the HL has a 2A rating.

But the scores of the games were perhaps even more influential in vote-getting than the fact that Bonita and San Dimas were both playing a step above their own divisions: The Bearcats completely dominated the Claremont Wolfpack, 31-7, while the Saints took the measure of Damien, the defending SAL co-champion, 27-14.

The SAL is, in fact, conspicuous by its absence in the 3A top ten poll. The league suffered through a 1-6-1 opening week.

League overrated?

One league that seems to have impressed Southland writers — probably a bit more so than is justified — is the Rio Hondo League. It's hard to believe that the Rio Hondo League has the four best teams in the 3A, as the first poll suggests. South Pasadena, San Marino, Temple City and Duarte are rated first through fourth in that order.

Speaking of polls, two valley schools are highly regarded in another sport, cross country. Upland, not surprisingly, is No. 2 in the 3A division while Walnut is No. 6 in the 2A. Bob Loney and Jim Polite figure to have their usual strong teams again this year.

Upland's Russell McCarthy seems to have another top notch water polo squad, but the CIF has no poll for the pool sport.

* * *

The State Federated Council of the CIF has passed by-laws which define situations under which it is permissible for high school girls to participate on boys' teams.

Whenever a school provides only one varsity team in a particular sport — a boys' team — girls are permitted to try out for the team. When the only varsity team offered in a particular sport is a girls' team, boys may NOT try out for that team unless the total sports program for boys in the school is limited in comparison to the school's program for girls. Permission for boys to try out for a girls' team must be secured through petition by the school principal to the State CIF Federated Council.

When a school provides two varsity teams in a sport — one for boys and one for girls — boys will not be permitted to try out for the girls' team nor will girls be allowed to try out for the boys' team.

That last ruling will do away with the possibility of another performance like Lea Antonoplis' last year. Antonoplis, who is now competing on the professional women's tennis circuit, was too good to be satisfied competing on Glendora High's girls' tennis team last year so she played on the boys' team and eventually won the Sierra League boys' singles title.

Wrong impression

I have to correct a false impression that might have been created when a word was dropped from my column of Monday. The review of rule changes for prep football read that there is now "a 15-yard penalty for blocking . . ." Now at first glance it would seem that such a rule would have quite a devastating effect upon the game of football, but fortunately a misprint is at fault.

It should have read that there is now a 15-yard penalty for "head blocking." According to a new rule formulated by the National Alliance Football Committee, which sets rules for high school football in 47 states including California, if a player makes "primary contact" with the top of the head, front of the head or face mask when blocking or tackling, it is a personal foul carrying a 15-yard penalty.

Incidentally, among former valley prep gridders now making good on the collegiate level is Wayne Moses, formerly of San Dimas High. Moses, a former running back who made his defensive debut at cornerback for the Washington Huskies in their opener against Virginia, was named the Huskies' defensive player of the game.

FAMILIAR FEELING

Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson tries to defend himself from a shower of champagne during the clubhouse celebration in Cincinnati Tuesday night after the Reds wrapped up their fifth division title in seven years.

Reds wrap up 'the easy part'

By Associated Press

It was champagne time in Cincinnati, a chance for the Reds to cavort in the locker-room and let loose after a long summer of hotel rooms and plane rides.

Rookie pitcher Pat Zachry, whose eight-hit, 9-1 victory over the San Diego Padres clinched the National League West title for the Reds, cavorted in a Groucho Marx rubber mask, flicking an imaginary cigar at anyone who wandered within range.

Veteran slugger Tony Perez, his head crowned by a towel turban, chanted "Here comes da judge." Catcher Johnny Bench chided club president Bob Howsam over the executive's inability to uncork a stubborn bottle of bubbly.

But Manager Sparky Anderson, standing aside from the celebration, kept matters in focus.

"We know this was the easy part," said the silver-haired Cincinnati skipper, whose troops have won five NL West crowns in the past seven years. "It's been 54 years since a National League team has won back-to-back world championships—and that's our goal."

"That would be a tremendous feather in our caps."

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, the Los Angeles Dodgers edged the San Francisco Giants 3-2; the Pittsburgh Pirates split a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs, winning the opener 4-3 and then losing 2-1 in 13 innings; the Philadelphia Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-1; the Montreal Expos shut out the New York Mets 4-0, and the Atlanta Braves topped the Houston Astros 6-2.

The Reds had a relatively easy road to the NL West title, staying within three games of first place through the early going and taking the lead to stay on May 29. They widened their lead over second-place Los Angeles to 13½ games in mid-August, watched calmly as the Dodgers closed to within seven games, then put things on ice by winning seven of nine games in early September.

"This season and last have been totally different years," observed Anderson. "There's a different air about us now. We're the world champions. This is a better overall team than last year."

Second baseman Joe Morgan said the easy 9-1 victory in the pennant clinching game was appropriate.

"This is what the Reds are all about—timely hitting, good defense, good pitching," he said.

The Reds got all of that against the Padres. Zachry raised his record to 14-5, best on the club, giving up a run in the first inning and shutting out San Diego the rest of the way.

The Reds tied it in the fourth when George Foster tripled and scored on a wild pitch. Cincinnati went ahead 3-1 in the fifth on a double by Foster and a run-scoring single by Dave Concepcion.

Carter goes to Jets

NEW YORK — Allen Carter, former high school all-America running back at Bonita High, was claimed by the New York Jets on waivers from the New England Patriots Tuesday.

Carter, a fourth-round draft choice out of USC in 1975, ran back 32 kicks for 879 yards for the Patriots as a rookie. He had not played in any regular season games this year.

Carter, 23, was born in Pomona and was named 3A player of the year at Bonita in 1970. His three-year rushing totals for the Bearcats were 406 carries for 4,388 yards and 70 touchdowns.

He played in three consecutive Rose Bowls at USC for Coach John McKay, who once called Carter "the best high school running back I've ever seen."

Carter's acquisition gives the Jets seven running backs.

Garey proves to be big surprise

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Before the San Antonio League football teams went into action over the weekend, it didn't really figure that Garey High would be the only one of the eight schools to emerge with a victory.

But that's exactly what happened, to the surprise of Viking coach Lawson Bush as much as anyone else.

Garey's 26-20 win came at the expense of Royal, a 4A team. "We watched them scrimmage the week before," said Bush, "and they scared the hell out of me.

"They looked big and fast and their running backs really looked strong in the scrimmage. But it was raining hard that day so it was pretty hard to tell just how good they were."

Garey's senior quarterback Al Clay passed for three touchdowns, including the one that won the game with 15 seconds to go.

With the score tied at 20, Clay scrambled until he could find tight end Robert Rice in the end zone. Clay finished with 185 yards passing on 8 completions in 10 tries.

But passing certainly wasn't Garey's only means of attack against Royal. Ralph Dixon led the Vikes on the ground with 110 yards on 10 rushes and 200-pounder Elijah Turner added 94 yards on eight carries while 190-pounder Doug Brissette chipped in with 60 yards.

"Royal was so big that we had to do a lot of running outside," said Bush. But our offensive line was just terrific."

That line consisted of Rice at tight end, Ken Gendreau and Frank Charles at tackle, Jim Stedronsky at one guard spot and Tino Gonzales and Eric Gutierrez alternating at the other.

"Reyes and Charles really looked good," Bush said. "Charles was picked as our player of the week on the offensive line."

But Bush wasn't all smiles after the victory.

'Liz sets record at Fair

RALPH E. and AURY TODD'S DANCING LIZ established a track record of 1.09 1/5 for the often run distance of six furlongs in Pomona's $17,015 Bangles and Beads Stakes Tuesday.

Leading from the outset, the three-year-old daughter of Northern Dancer — Crimson Queen posted fractional times of .21 for the first quarter, .44 after one half and .56 1/5 for five-eighths. Jockey Bobby Howard rode Dancing Liz who was purchased on behalf of the Todds by trainer David Bernstein last March from the Saron Stable for $30,000. With the win in Tuesday's County Fair headliner, Dancing Liz boosted her 1976 earnings to $26,225 and has now claimed victory in three of six starts this year.

Sadrullah came from well back to be beaten three lengths in second for jockey Raul Ramirez while favored Smokies Drill and Francisco Mena ran third, another half-length in arrears.

The winner paid off at $17.40, $7.60 and $4.00 Sadrullah returned $8.40 and $3.40 — Smokies Drill was good for a $3 show mutuel.

Coincidentally, it was in this same filly-mare added money event that the grand racemare Impressive Style established the previous track standard of 1.09 2/5 in 1974.

On a busy fourth day of this 14-day campaign, a three-horse spill occurred in the opening race at four and one-half furlongs for Apaloosas. Heavily favored Silky's Man O War clipped the heels of Almars Slewfoot on the final turn, fell and lost Jockey Gary Boag who was riding in California for the first time. In a chain reaction, Day Breeze (Eddie Butler up) and Silver Mile (With Ross Allardyce) stumbled and fell over the downed horse and/or rider. Allardyce was to his feet quickly and allowed to fulfill his remaining rider engagements.

Both Boag and Butler were transported to Pomona Valley Hospital where X-rays revealed that Boag, who originally appeared badly hurt on the track, had suffered no serious injuries. Butler suffered a broken upper left arm. Silky's Man O War, in contention from the start in the first division of the Pomona Appaloosa Futurity Trials, had to be humanely destroyed after suffering breaks in his left leg above the knee.

In the five-horse field, just two finished with spotted hope winning by three and one-half lengths over Alamars Slewfoot. After track officials refunded the $1,862 show pool, only win and place payoffs were made to members of a crowd of 8,768.

Uncle Fox, a two-year-old maiden by Red Fox, won Tuesday's seventh under newcomer Ron Belleville by a stunning 2 1/4 lengths. The gelding returned $182.20 to winning two dollar ticket holders which established an all-time Pomona Fair high in the win payoff department.

Shocking news

Chuck Knox likes to run

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "We like to run the football," admits coach Chuck Knox of the Los Angeles Rams, whose two running backs each have accounted for more rushing yardage this season than the entire output of next Sunday's foe.

"We like to control the football game," said the coach, but he added, "to do it we have to pass as well as run."

The New York Giants, winless in two outings, invade Los Angeles on Sunday for the Rams' home National Football League opener, and the Giants have rushed a net 178 yards, including 111 by Larry Csonka, late of the Miami Dolphins and the World Football League.

The Rams, 1-0-1, have John Cappelletti with 230 yards and Lawrence McCutcheon with 225 as an illustration of how they run with the football.

Cappelletti, who won the Heisman Trophy as the star back at Penn State, won a starting job this season. He and McCutcheon provide a one-two punch of big backs.

"He's running better now than he ever has run," the coach declared Tuesday at his weekly breakfast session with sports writers.

It appeared that Pat Haden, the rookie from Southern California, again would get the starting call at quarterback, although veteran James Harris will start if he's 100 per cent recovered from the fractured thumb he suffered in the preseason.

Haden was at the helm last Sunday when the Rams battled back for a 10-10 tie with Minnesota in a game that also saw a scoreless overtime period.

"Haden looked like a very poised quarterback," said Knox of the Rhodes Scholar who studies in England when not playing football. "He executed the things we wanted done extremely well."

Haden has completed 12 of 23 passes for 183 yards so it can't be said the Rams' offense works exclusively on the ground.

Knox will look at a couple of candidates for a wide receiver job left open when rookie Freeman Johns suffered torn knee ligaments.

Asked if erstwhile Ram Jack Snow would be one of those, Knox replied, "I don't think so."

Snow verbally attacked the Rams' management on his release just prior to the start of the regular season.

Knox said the club was looking for a player who could take part on the special teams as well as being a backup wide receiver.

In the quarterback situation, Harris has been throwing but still has some pain in his thumb.

"We'll watch him closely Wednesday and Thursday and then make the decision on who will start," Knox said.

The coach said his club actually was only .2 of a second from beating Minnesota. On the play when Nate Allen blocked Tom Dempsey's field goal try from the 30, it was a high snap from center that spoiled the attempt.

The holder had to reach up for the ball and put it down. Dempsey hit it squarely but Allen deflected it with a backhand.

"We were just .2 of a second late in getting it off," said Knox who sometimes clocks plays by the clicks of film going through his movie projector.

Hacienda teams enjoy big week

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

The Hacienda League's impressive showing against the San Antonio League in three football openers last week has raised questions in the minds of valley football fans.

Locals are wondering if (A) The Hacienda is that good a 2A league or (B) The SAL is that bad a 3A loop.

According to Bonita High coach Pete Lopez the answer is (C) — None of the above.

Lopez, whose Bearcat squad thrashed Claremont 31-7 last Saturday, has a different explanation for team's easy win over a 3A SAL squad, and equally easy wins by San Dimas and Alta Loma over two other SAL entries, Damien and Montclair.

"Those SAL teams are all good teams, don't kid yourself," claims the Bearcat mentor. "I think the reason that the Hacienda League did so well in those three games with the SAL is that SAL coaches bring their squads around much more slowly.

"The SAL teams have many more kids in the program and it takes more time for a coach to get them all adjusted to the system.

"I would hate to play Claremont or Pomona, who we scrimmaged a couple weeks back, four or five games into the season. I think they would handle us and any other Hacienda team fairly easily.

"I'm not saying the Hacienda League is a weak league, it isn't. But it's tough to play the 3A and 4A teams because they have far more depth and can afford a few injuries. We can't afford to lose anyone."

Explanations aside, Lopez and his players have to be delighted with their big win over the Wolfpack, a team which blanked them 14-0 last year. And it has to be a real feather in the cap of the H.L. schools when, in addition to the Bearcat's victory, San Dimas waxed Damien 27-14 and Alta Loma bounced Montclair 17-3.

"Yes, our kids are really happy with the win," Lopez said. "I played a lot of sophomores and juniors in the game and thought they did real well in their first varsity action."

The 'Cat attack was paced by senior quarterback Sanford Coggins. Coggins was criticized last year for his erratic passing but came through against Claremont with nine completions in 17 attempts for 197 yards.

Dodgers offer no excuses

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, mathematically eliminated from pennant contention, offer no excuses for the Cincinnati Reds' dominance of the National League's Western Division.

"I'm sending a congratulatory telegram to Sparky Anderson," said Dodgers Manager Walter Alston shortly after his club's 3-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants Tuesday.

Midway through the Candlestick Park contest, the Reds clinched the pennant with a victory over Houston. The Dodgers stayed 11½ games behind Cincinnati with 11 games remaining.

"I think this is the best team the Reds have had in recent years," noted Alston, whose Dodgers are 3-12 against Cincinnati with three games left in the season's series.

"George Foster and Ken Griffey came through and all their pitchers had good seasons," Alston added. "We played poorly against the Reds, Giants and Padres (14-32 combined) and that's what hurt us."

Bill Buckner, who stole home against the Giants, agreed. "It's the Reds' best team," he said. "The pitching came around and they made their bench solid by adding Bob Bailey and Mike Lum."

Steve Garvey, however, feels differently. "I don't think this year's Reds have played as well as they did in 1975," Garvey offered. "But they dominated us and that did it."

Jackson's home run gives Tanana 17th

ANAHEIM (AP) — Frank Tanana was wondering. So was Ron Jackson.

Tanana, the precocious California left-hander, was wondering Tuesday night if the Angels were ever going to score another run for him and whether he'd ever notch his 17th victory, which would be a career high.

Jackson, the rookie third baseman who has been residing on the bench in recent weeks, was wondering if and when he was going to connect for a home run at Anaheim Stadium.

Jackson drilled a pinch-hit ninth inning homer and moments later Dave Chalk singled across the winning run as the Angels rallied for two runs in the ninth and shocked the Texas Rangers, 2-1.

"The 17th win was important to me," Tanana said after watching his teammates break out of a slumber which had seen them go 17 scoreless innings with him on the mound.

"I've never reached that figure before. I want to improve each year and if I win more than I did the year before, I figure it's an improvement.

"I'm only disappointed now that I can't win 20. That hurts. But I guess I'll go out and try to get as many as I can."

Down 1-0 entering the ninth, the Angels' had Jackson bat for Bruce Bochte. Jackson ripped reliever and loser Joe Hoerner's offering off the foul pole in left field.

The shaken Hoerner then walked Mario Guerrero and Steve Foucault was summoned from the Ranger bullpen. After Andy Etchebarren sacrificed pinch-runner Mike Easler to second, Chalk delivered his game-winner.

The victory was the 12th for California in 16 games against Texas this year and their ninth in 10 games against the Rangers. The same two teams meet again tonight with Gary Ross, 8-15, of California dueling Gaylord Perry, 13-14.

Jackson's homer was his seventh of the year but his first at Anaheim Stadium.

"I was wondering if I was ever going to hit one here," he said. "But this is a tough park for home run hitters. I've tried to put the long ball out of my mind and just concentrate on base hits.

"I was surprised I got a good enough pitch to hit out."

Kings, Islanders have date at Forum

INGLEWOOD — Superstar Denis Potvin, who appeared to be heir apparent to Bobby Orr's "best defenseman" title, leads the New York Islanders against the Los Angeles Kings tonight at The Forum in the first of three pre-season home games for the locals.

The other two games are Saturday, Sept. 25 against Vancouver and Wednesday, Sept. 29, against Cleveland.

Kings Coach Bob Pulford was pleased with his team's intrasquad game Sunday night at El Cajon Ice Palace in San Diego.

"There was more hitting than we expected," said Pulford. "A good competitive spirit exists in camp this year because there is more competition among the veterans."

Ulford has indicated he wishes to carry only 19 players of the 25 remaining.

The Blues, consisting of the rookies, beat the Golds, consisting of veterans, 6-3 Sunday night behind the first period hat trick of first draft choice Steve Clippingdale. The 6-2 left winger has been impressive the first four days and will get more ice time during the Islander game.

Gary Sargent, whom Pulford considered the best player on Team U.S.A. during the Canada Cup, scored one goal and three assists.

St. Louis joins loop

FULLERTON — St. Louis has been admitted as the first expansion and 11th International Women's Professional Softball Assn. team, commissioner Dennis Murphy has announced.

We have awarded the new franchise to the Harrawood brothers, Gale, Tom and Ed. The Harrawood's are in business in the St. Louis area and we are extremely happy that they have decided to join our fast-growing association," said Murphy.

The Harrawood's are in the road construction business. Their application was given unanimous approval by the IWPSA board of directors.

Viking victory pleases coach

"The offense was great, but no way was I pleased with the defense," the Garey coach said. "It stunk."

But Bush expects the defense to be improved for Friday's game against La Sierra at Mt. San Antonio College. "Our defense is young and inexperienced and should improve quickly. The only returning starters are Gonzales and (Rich) Seville."

La Sierra won its opener against L.A. Lutheran last week, 14-8. "They have a couple good running backs," said Bush, "and their tight end (sophomore David Anderson) is exceptionally good."

While the Vikings were downing Royal, only one other SAL team — Chino — escaped without a loss last week. The Cowboys traveled all the way to Ridgecrest for a 6-6 tie with Burroughs of the Golden League.

Chino should find the going even tougher Friday against Santa Ana Valley in the Santa Ana Bowl. The Falcons, a perennially strong 3A team, were ranked eighth in the initial CIF football poll. Valley opened with a 16-10 win over Los Alamitos.

The other six SAL squads all lost by substantial margins.

Ganesha and Upland were soundly defeated by South Hills and West Covina, two 4A powers from the Sierra League. Pomona fell to Monrovia, defending champion of the Mission Valley League and the remaining SAL entries went down before local Hacienda League teams.

Bonita walloped Claremont, 31-7, San Dimas rolled over Damien, 27-14, and Alta Loma trounced Montclair, 19-3.

Montclair and Upland will get a chance to salvage some of the SAL's pride against the HL when the Cavaliers host Ontario and the Highlanders visit Alta Loma at Chaffey College Friday night.

Three other SAL squads will play Friday night, but only one of them will play in the local area. Damien will host San Gabriel, a 40-14 loser to Temple City last week.

Ganesha will visit Torrance, which played a scoreless tie with South Torrance Friday. Pomona will bus down to Oceanside to meet Vista, the fifth-ranked team in San Diego County, a 16-2 winner over Hoover last week.

Claremont will wait to play Friday against Glendora at Citrus College. Glendora lost to St. Francis last week, 33-27.

H.L. teams impress

He also racked up 84 yards rushing, and "looked like a completely different quarterback" from last year, according to Lopez.

"Sanford put in a lot of work this summer to sharpen up his passing and play-calling, he's improved tremendously. He's throwing the ball better than ever and is reading the defenses and picking out his secondary receivers this year, which was a problem area for him last season."

Lopez rotated three running backs, Jim Franks, Bob Vidaure and Ralph Ortega, behind Coggins against Claremont and plans to continue to do so in the Bearcats upcoming games.

"Franks played extremely well for us, I was especially impressed with his blocking. I also thought cornerback Danny Thompson, defensive end Larry Larrabee and linebackers Mark Shamblin and Greg Lopez did a good job.

"I was concerned with our defense before the season began but now I think we are in good shape there. Lopez is only a sophomore but played well at linebacker, even though Claremont tried to run at him the whole game."

Bonita will continue its non-league schedule on Thursday, squaring off against Azusa at Citrus College. Other H.L. teams will be in action Friday night, as Ontario will meet Montclair, Walnut will visit Rowland and San Dimas will be at Valencia.

Chino will show film

Chino High Sports Boosters will hold a film night Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Chino High multi-purpose room.

Films of last week's football game with Burroughs will be shown.

Golf tourney seeks entries

It's still not too late to enter the La Verne-San Dimas Pop Warner Golf Tournament at San Dimas Canyon golf course on Saturday.

Ed Paul, co-director for the event, said Tuesday that golfers wishing to play can contact him at 593-2454.

"As long as we know a person is coming, we'll make a real effort to include him or her in our tournament," Paul said.

The $20 entry fee can be paid at the golf course Saturday morning, according to Paul.

Proceeds from the tournament will be used to defray expenses for the La Verne-San Dimas youth football program.

Entry fee includes 18 holes of golf, a cart, a buffet immediately after the round at San Dimas Canyon, and a chance to win numerous awards.

Citrus runners debut

Citrus College will make its first official appearance as Mission Conference cross country champions as they open defense of their 1975 crown Friday, hosting Riverside and Southwestern.

Southwestern is one of a number of Mission Conference schools expected to give the Owls a run for the championship this year. The Indians finished 6th last Saturday in the small schools race of the Moorpark Invitational, while Citrus was eighth.

Coach Vince O'Boyle was not happy with the way his young Owls performed at Moorpark, particularly in light of the impressive way several of the conference schools ran in the meet.

O'Boyle learned something: just how strong the conference is this year. Palomar was fifth in the large schools race, while Chaffey was seventh, Southestern sixth, and Saddleback one point behind the Owls in ninth in the small schools race.

Freshman Tom McCann from Rosemead High again paced the team, finishing fifth overall in 21:08. However, he was the only runner for Citrus in the top 20.

Other Owls were Mike Caballero (22:21), Phil Steinberger (21:40), Dan Jones (23:05), Doug Moore (23:21), Rich Mathews (23:25), Gary Lund (23:58), Darrell Goodwin (24:05), Parry Kleinsasser (24:13), Mike Green (24:29), Gilbert Ayon (24:36), Glen Wright (25:01).

WHA sets ice series

TORONTO (AP) — Hockey teams from Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Union and the World Hockey Association will participate in an international series between Dec. 11 and Jan. 12, it was announced Thursday.

A Czech team will play six games against WHA teams in Canada and the United States Dec. 11-24. Following that series, a Soviet club will make an eight-game tour Dec. 27-Jan. 12.

At the same time, the WHA will send a team to play a minimum of four games in the Izvestia Tournament in Moscow Dec. 16-22.

The trip by one of the WHA member clubs will mark the first time a professional team from North America has interrupted its regular season to play a series of international games in Europe.

The series follows the Canada Cup competition.

Soccer loop has openings

Late sign-ups for Claremont AYSO (American Youth Soccer Organization) will be held Friday from 6 to 8 p.m. at Condit School.

Some openings are still available on some teams in each age grouping.

Placement will be on a first-come first-serve basis. Girls are particularly needed to fill open team slots.

It's a Racquet

ONE CITY TENNIS title is elusive enough for most players. Now comes Paul Kustel seeking his third of the year. He's one of 19 players entered in the B men's singles division of the Chino Recreation Department and Tennis Club tournament which starts this weekend and continues through the next.

Tournament officials say they took in enough entries to fill only five events, even though they were offering 21, and had to skip the A level altogether. So the B's will be the top echelon for this one. Besides the B men's singles, the other categories will be B men's doubles (10 teams), C men's singles (13 entries) and doubles (eight) and D men's singles (13).

Something missing? Indeed. Not one event for women made the list, not even mixed doubles. Officials said the entry totals were insufficient for each of the eight singles and doubles distaff events at four playing levels. They decided not to herd all entrants into one open classification because of the obvious disadvantage to these at the lower levels.

But the tournament will have the presence of the only player to have won two 1976 singles titles in city-sponsored comeptition in this area. Kustell picked up his first championship in Montclair in June, then won the Upland tournament for Upland-Ontario residents earlier this month.

Also in the B men's draw will be Hugh Graham, B singles runner-up in Ontario, and Wade Mayo, C division winner in Montclair. Action begins Saturday at Chino High and Ramona Junior High.

CHINO NOW BECOMES the valley's seventh city to get into the sponsorship of tennis tournaments this year. Already checked in with their championships have been the other three West End cities — Upland, Ontario and Montclair — plus La Verne and Glendora. Claremont didn't have a tournament per se, thus is absent from this list, but the city can hardly be faulted. Its busy year-round program of league competition and instruction has no equal in the valley.

THE NEIGHBORHOOD CITIES of Covina and West Covina shared the laurels in the Medical Service Society's doubles tournament for physicians, pharmacists and pharmaceutical representatives.

Dr. Gilbert Martin of Covina and Dr. Neil Sherman of West Covina won the C division championship and Dr. J. D. Thordarson of Covina and Ron Griffin, pharmaceutical representative from West Covina, snatched up the D title in finals matches last weekend at Mt. San Antonio College.

Martin and Sherman bested the Duarte two-some of Dr. Robert Tonemoto and pharmacist Ray Tamara, 6-3, 7-5. Thordarson and Griffin won an all-physicians final from Dr. Denis Kollar of Covina and Dr. Peter Macs of West Covina, 6-3, 6-4.

The tournament sent its proceeds to the building program at Covina's Inter-Community Hospital.

YOUNG ROB STAHL has earned the No. 1 position on the San Jose Hills Racquet Club's men's singles ladder, while Sue Reed is holding down the top women's spot.

Right below Stahl are Ted Kelly, Chuck Reyes, Peter Chavis and Mike Streck, in that order. Reed's pursuers include Ann Baker, Helen Wang, Jeannine Neuer and Kay Wood.

The club has scheduled its Straw Hat Mixed Doubles tourney for this Saturday and Sunday at the MSAC courts. A party will follow in Hacienda Heights for the trophy awards.

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S doubles winners in the Valley Racquet Club tournament last Saturday were treated to dinners at a fashionable restuarant, on top of their trophy awards.

The Upland team of Jim Benson and Bob Rickson won the men's competition, beating Lou Wright of Covina and Earl Morenzy of San Dimas in the finals. In the women's draw, Gail Klett of Upland and Gloria Wycoff of Chino were the winners and Cathy McNair and Evonne Hayes, both of Diamond Bar, were runnersup.

Meanwhile, the Indian Hill Boulevard club has beefed up its management and instructional staff with three new assistants.

Graham Wilson, 31, formerly from England, is serving as assistant manager and assistant instructor to head pro Mike Meissenberg. Other new assistant instructors are Bobby Cobb, member of the USC tennis team and former instructor at the Lark Ellen Tennis Club, and Bert Hafen, student at the University of Redlands.

THE PACIFIC SOUTHWEST is expected to draw big crowds to UCLA's Pauley Pavilion from now through Monday's finals but TV will make it easier for fans to stay at home. Channel 2 will show one of the two semi-finals matches live at 4 p.m. Sunday, then will present a tape of the other at 3:30 p.m. Monday. The finals will be on live at 6:30 p.m. Monday. Jack Kramer will assist announcer Ted Dawson with color commentary.

TENNIS BUFFS can check out another big event this weekend. The California Golf-Tennis and Leisure Time Exposition will display everything from Bobby Riggs to the latest line of equipment from major manufacturers. It's scheduled Friday from 5 to 10 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. at the Los Angeles Convention Center.

Riggs, it is said, will play 10-minute matches for charity throughout the show and also will take on an unbeatable machine called "The Beast."

Kings feature balanced slate

INGLEWOOD — The most balanced home schedule in the history of the Los Angeles Kings has been released by the National Hockey League. The Washington Capitals and the St. Louis Blues kick off the 40-game slate with a back-to-back doubleheader Saturday, October 16 and Sunday, October 17.

The Kings, in their 10th year, will switch to basically a week at home, week on the road type schedule rather than the long two-three week home stands so prevalent in recent years.

This year the Kings play two one-game, seven two-game, three three-game, one four-game, one five-game and one six-game home stands. This compares to eight one-game, one two-game, two four-game, three five-game, and one seven-game home stands last season.

Kings fans also get a chance to see the "cream" of the NHL as Stanley Cup Champion Montreal, semifinalist Boston and quarterfinalist Buffalo each visit the Fabulous Forum three times.

Norris Division opponents Pittsburgh, Detroit, and Washington also visit three times while all other teams travel to Los Angeles twice. Boston and Buffalo are "wild card" draws.

In terms of balance, there are six games in October, seven in November, six in December, five in January, eight in February, seven in March and one in April. The biggest shifting has come in February and March. Just four years ago, the Kings played five games in February and 11 in March.

This season's holiday vacationer gets a treat too. Montreal will be the opponent during Thanksgiving while Philadelphia and Boston bring in the New Year. The Kings are off Christmas.

There are some scheduling quirks too. The Cleveland Barons (formerly California Seals) come and go early playing here October 30 and November 16 while Pittsburgh and Minnesota don't make their first appearances till January 20 and 26 respectively.

The other transplanted team this season is the Kansas City Scouts who adopted the new name "Colorado Rockies" and will make their home in Denver, Colorado.

Saturday night continues to be "Hockey Night in Los Angeles" with 18 games scheduled. There'll be nine games on Thursday, six each on Tuesday and Wednesday, and one on Sunday.

Game time remains at 8 p.m. for weekdays and 7 p.m. for the Sunday St. Louis game. Ticket prices also remain the same for the third consecutive year.

Quotes

"A couple of guys fell in love and forgot how important football really is." — Coach Claude Gilbert explaining why 15 players left his San Diego State team.

Joe Morris wins race

Joe Morris of Claremont teamed with Karl Johnson of Rialto to win the 80 cc Novice motocross team race in the recent Corona Grand Prix.

In team racing only one motorcycle is entered. Each rider races one lap then rests while his teammate takes over.

The riders totaled 90 minutes on the grand prix course which utilized portions of the Corona Raceway motocross track, and adjacent hills, water-crossings and sandwashes for a total of six miles.

Morris is a Claremont High freshman.

Mounties to host water polo event

Mt. San Antonio College Coach Roy Wilks opens his 1976 water polo campaign Friday at 3 p.m. against last year's South Coast Conference champion Fullerton in one of the toughest tournaments in California, the fifth annual Mountie Invitational.

The two-day event winds up Saturday at 5 p.m. when the two remaining teams clash for the championship.

Three of the state's top-ranked teams from last year make this eight-team tournament an exciting one with Fullerton, Orange Coast and Golden West.

MSAC has two returning lettermen from a fourth-place conference team last year. Sophomore goalie Scott Schulze (Chaffey High) comes back with Bob McCormack (Los Altos High) as the Mounties begin the season with 18 newcomers.

One of the brightest freshmen to make the team is Herb Greenbeck, who led Los Altos to the CIF water polo playoffs last year.

Nine of the 18 freshmen battling for a starting spot have never played the game. "They're fine swimmers but we have to teach them the fundamentals of the game," noted Wilks, who begins his eighth year at the helm of the squad.

Admission is free to Mountie Student Services Card holders and children under 12 years old, and $1 to adults.

Connors feels no pressure

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jimmy Connors says he is playing tennis with "no pressure" these days and that feeling may send a chill through the other players in the $125,000 Pacific Southwest Open at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion this week.

Looking as relaxed on the court as he was after the match, the top-seeded Connors blew past Troy Waltke of St. Louis, 6-4, 6-2.

Connors, who twice won this championship and attended school at UCLA for one year, was content to sit back and power his groundstrokes past the overmatched Waltke. In the final game of the second set, two Connors' backhands set up a pair of easy putaway winners to bring the set to match point.

Waltke then hit a backhand into the net that put Connors into the second round against Australia's Geoff Masters Thursday.

The tournament's other top seeds, No. 2 Guillerno Vilas of Argentina, No. 3 Ilie Nastase of Rumania and No. 4 Arthur Ashe also advanced easily.

Vilas eliminted Mike Cahill, 6-4, 6-2; Nastase whipped Lito Alvarez of Argentina, 6-0, 4-6, 63; and Ashe toppled Mike Machette of Berkeley Calif. 6-3, 6-2.

Connors, who over a week ago won the U.S. Open, said he has "nothing else to prove. I keep playing on pride. I have a great deal of pride in my own game."

Asked if he thought he was the top player in the world today, Connors answered quickly: "Yes."

Connors' approach to a tournament, he explained, was to work up to the final few rounds. "I hope to get by the first few rounds, of course, but I expect to be playing better at the end of the tournament as opposed to the beginning of a tournament."

The only upset of the day was recorded by Fred McNair of Chevy Chase, Md., who ousted seventh-seeded Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md. 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Fifth-seeded Raul Ramirez of Mexico had to go three sets before disposing of Kjell Johansson of Sweden, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3. Brian Gottfried of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., seeded 10th, took care of Van Winitsky also of Ft. Lauderdale, 6-4, 6-4.

Dick Stockton of Dallas, the 11th seed, defeated Dick Crealy of Australia, 6-3, 7-6 while India's Vijay Amritraj, seeded 15th, rallied to down John Whitlinger of Neemah, Wis., 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Sandy Mayer of Ft. Wayne, N.J., the No. 16 seed, got a first round victory when Hans Pohmann of West Germany had to retire in the middle of the first set with a bad back.

In today's feature match, Ashe plays Billy Martin of Palos Verdes, Calif., at 7:30 p.m.

Jays name Hartsfield

TORONTO (AP) — Veteran minor league manager Roy Hartsfield was formally named manager of the expansion Toronto Blue Jays of baseball's American League today.

The appointment of Hartsfield, 51, was made by Peter Bavasi, general manager and chief executive officer of the Blue Jays, at a morning news conference.

Bavasi picked a man he knows well. Before joining the Jays, he held front office jobs with the Los Angeles Dodgers and San Diego Padres.

Angels lose

The Upland Angels lost to the Barstow Reds, 10-6, Sunday in the opening game of the season in the winter Sunset Baseball League.

Upland was held to seven hits. Bill Teague led the attack with a bases-loaded single. Losing pitcher Joe Hermorsillo scored three runs.

The Angels, sponsored by Futuruf Inc. of Upland, will resume action on Oct. 3.

Fast-pitch tourney set

The second annual Montclair Invitational fast-pitch softball tourney will be held during the weekends of Sept. 24-26 and Oct. 1-3.

The tourney will be held at the Pony League at Montclair's John F. Kennedy Park. It is co-sponsored by the Montclair Recreation Department and Toddy Boys.

Sixteen teams from Montclair, Ontario, Corona, Colton, Fontana, San Bernardino, East L.A., Chino, Montebello, Norco and Santa Ana have entered.

For further information, call Monte Hamilton at 993-5886.

Rigney has had enough managing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants are looking for a manager, one who can handle the young players who spent most of this season losing and grumbling under the departing Bill Rigney.

"I don't think it was any secret that we were having communications problems," said Jim Barr, one of the starting pitchers on the team whose other problems included sickly attendance figures.

Rigney, 58, said Tuesday night in an announcement that was no surprise, that he was resigning at the end of the season. He began his big league managerial career with the 1956 New York Giants and returned to the organization last spring after his close friend, Bob Lurie, bought the National League franchise.

"The club looked interesting and it was hard to say no," Rigney said Tuesday night. He concluded, "I was disappointed about the way we played, but that had nothing to do with my decision. I've just had enough of managing."

Lurie, who said Rigney would stay with the Giants in another job, named eight men under consideration as Rigney's succesor and said he expected to name a new manager by the end of the season.

The candidates: out-of-work managers Alvin Dark and Dick Williams, minor league managers Rocky Bridges and Vern Rapp, Giants coaches Bobby Winkles and Jim Davenport, former Giants coach Joey Amalfitano and former Los Angeles Dodgers' star Maury Wills.

"Who they make manager doesn't concern me as much as the caliber of players we have here next season. If we go out and sign a good free agent or two, we surely can be contenders," said outfielder Gary Matthews, who hasn't signed a 1976 contract and could be a free agent himself this fall.

But Matthews, like Barr, said it would be best if the new manager was familiar with the Giants' playing personnel.

"Rig came here not knowing much about us. That makes it tough," Matthews said.

The Giants were last in the West Division most of this season before a recent hot streak elevated them to fourth place. Attendance under the new ownership edged over 600,000 for the season Tuesday night and the Giants, with five games left, will finish with the lowest attendance total in the majors for the third straight year.

NEW SENSATION — Steve Baker, America's new road racing sensation, blasts through turn at Laguna Seca. Baker will be a hot favorite to win event at Riverside Oct. 3.

National 'cycle championship may be decided at Riverside

RIVERSIDE — Kenny Roberts and Gary Scott may decide their rousing battle for the national motorcycle championship Oct. 3 in the Mulholland Shock Absorber Challenge Cup on the road course at Riverside International Raceway, but they may be jockeying for nothing better than second place in the race.

Barring the unpredictable, a bespectacled 23-year-old, Steve Baker of Bellingham, Wash., is the most likely race winner in the historic first-ever AMA Camel Pro Series event held on the Riverside road course

The Yamaha of Canada rider is the uncrowned road racing champion of the world following his upset victory Sunday in the Race of the Year at Mallory Park, England.

He defeated, among others, newly crowned world 500 cc champion Barry Sheene of England and all-time great Giacomo Agostini of Italy. Sheene finished a distant second, and Ago placed fourth behind another American sensation, Pat Hennen of San Mateo.

The Mallory Park win was only the latest in a string of successes that have been tacked onto his claim to be the best road racer in the world at this time.

Baker started the season with a controversial win in the Venezuelan 750 Grand Prix (results are still under protest), and followed with victory in the Imola (Italy) 200, billed as the richest motorcycle race in the world.

Although his U.S. team lost the Anglo-American series in England, Baker was high point scorer with four wins in six starts. Returning to this country, he won the Loudon (N.H.) National and the Champion Spark Plug Classics at Laguna Seca.

A flat tire at Silverstone, England, that put him out of the second heat after he had won the first eliminated Baker from contention in the world Formula 750 series, but already corporate board rooms are buzzing with speculation about Baker's chances of making a European tour next season to bring his factory, Yamaha, a world championship.

Tickets for the Mulholland Challenge Cup are on sale at Ticketron, Liberty and Mutual outlets.

Joyce Brothers

Reason for jealousy

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My wife can't see another woman talk to me without being certain that I want to have an affair with her. She's miserable at a party. When we leave, she spends hours telling me she knows that the women I talk with are much more beautiful than she, etc. Considering her envy and jealousy, I find it odd that she goes out of her way to be with women who are extremely attractive. Because of her attitude, I can't be at ease when a woman is near me. — R.O.

Dear R.O.: Jealousy is one of the most destructive emotions and almost always, it covers a tremendous insecurity. The root is a deep dissatisfaction with self. The more you can reassure your wife of your feelings for her, the more you can make her appreciate herself, the more apt she will be to overcome her feelings.

Encourage her to talk about her apprehensions and to admit that she is insecure about her own strengths and her relationship with you. Once she accepts the fact that jealousy begins with self-discontent, she will begin to see the problem more clearly and recognize that the difficulty springs from within herself, rather than from how you're behaving.

I'm assuming that what you've said in your letter is accurate and that you're giving her no cause for suspicion or jealousy.

It is quite normal for her to feel jealous occasionally, especially if the other woman behaves indiscreetly or if you have had romantic liaisons in the past. The person who consistently indulges in extramarital relations shouldn't be too surprised if his or her mate is jealous.

Sometimes, the irrationally jealous wife accuses her husband of behavior she would like to indulge in herself. This is a possibility, and if you think this applies, your wife would profit from professional help.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm constantly doing things for other people that I don't want to do. The result is that I often find I'm angry and bored, angry because I feel I've been used and bored because I get sucked into something I've no interest in. My mother says that no one should ever be bored and that this is my weakness. I'm most angry at myself for continually allowing muself to be put in such positions. — J.O.

Dear J.O.: You have to learn to start saying "No." Once you try it a few times, you'll discover that while people may complain a bit at first, the results are far from disastrous. You may find that people actually respect you more for having the courage to appreciate your time and to be honest with them about your priorities.

I don't know if you have problems about being late, but most people who find it difficult to respond in the negative also have trouble being on time. This is because they overbook themselves. Because they fear rejection they commit themselves to the other people's wishes, rather than to the realistic.

Everybody is bored sometimes. Those who pride themselves on never being bored are kidding themselves. Boredom may also serve as an adaptive function. It can be a kind of local anesthetic that dulls or masks pain or other emotions. Boredom can also be part of a creative function and it is sometimes necessary to go through a period of boredom so ideas can germinate.

The greater a person's scope of interests, the less apt he or she is to be bored. Stop doing so much for others. Learn to say "no" so that you'll have time to expand your interests. Be selective with those you help. You'll find you have the time and you won't be bored with projects you really want to take on.

Reyes and Foster vows are repeated

Miss Catherine Foster of Upland and Michael L. Reyes of Pomona were married in Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Upland. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Foster of Arcadia and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Reyes were wed in a morning ceremony by the Rev. Anton Sommer.

Honor attendant was Miss Jeannie Atkinson of Pomona and bridesmaids were Miss Susan Luna of Pomona and Mrs. Nancy Hatada of Cypress.

Standing as best man was William Speer of Claremont. Ushers were Tom Redford of San Francisco and Tom Williamson of Chino.

Following the rite, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Foster. When the couple returned from a wedding trip to San Diego they established a home in Upland.

Commission meeting set on Status

The Los Angeles County Commission on the Status of Women has planned a community meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Sportsman Park community building, 9651 S. Western Ave., Los Angeles.

The 14-member commission was established by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors to represent the special concerns and interests of women in Los Angeles County.

There will be time provided for comments from those attending. Child care will be available.

Attention, clubwomen!

Special forms due

Valley Women, a supplement of the Progress Bulletin highlighting activities of all women's clubs in the area, will be published Oct. 26.

Madame President will your club be included?

Fact sheets, sent out Aug. 26 to club presidents or publicity chairmen, are due by the end of this week if they are to be included in the special edition.

If any club has not received the form to be filled out, an officer of the organization should contact the Progress Bulletin Family Section editor, Mrs. Mary Remillard, at the newspaper, 622-1201, by Friday.

The 15th annual edition will carry interviews with the four Woman Achievers for the valley who were selected recently by a panel of judges, in addition to the stories of almost 200 women's clubs.

The future bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Thomas of Alta Loma, graduated in 1974 from Chaffey High School. She is employed as a quality control technician at Frito-Lay in Cucamonga.

Son of Mrs. Dorothy Sorensen of Ontario, the groom-to-be is a 1971 graduate of Montclair High School. He is also employed by Frito-Lay. He served three years in the military.

JEANNINE THOMAS

55 years marked by couple

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Whitchurch of Chino celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary at a dinner given in their honor at Big Bear by their daughters and families.

Their daughters are Mrs. Lucille E. Perkins of Montclair and Mrs. Lois A. Karmann of Riverside.

The Whitchurches were married Sept. 20, 1921, in Sheridan, Wyo. Mr. Whitchurch is a native of Maysville, Mo., and Mrs. Whitchurch was born in Creston, Neb. They moved to the Chino area in 1944 and have lived there since that time.

Mr. Whitchurch was employed by Potlatch Forest Inc., Pomona, for 20 years before retiring.

The Whitchurches have six grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren, all residing in Southern California.

Casual comfort is in furnishing trend

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In borrowing from Europeann Oriental and American timeless designs, materials and motif, new home furnishings may inspire amateur decorators to casual ambience in their homes. Most of it has a "go-with-anything" comfortable look.

Store buyers have been asking for distinctive merchandise of quality design — a mandate from consumers — and it looks as if manufacturers are fulfilling the need.

In their concentration on the back-to-nature movement, recent exhibits of furniture, accessories and decorative fabrics at the New York Merchandise Mart seem to sponsor the easy decorating formula that everyone seeks. How can you go wrong with motif, color schemes and materials that are often animal, vegetable, mineral?

Casual furniture in wood, bamboo, rattan and even straw is moving from sun rooms and patios to play starring roles in every room of the house. Finishes include gleaming dark tortoise shell and fake bamboo.

There is a great concentration on chairs with broken outlines, scrolls, curves and rectangular lines, often combining contemporary and classical ideas in whimsical designs with new materials and finishes. One rattan chair has a canvas sling seat. Bentwood-like chairs get new styling with rattan, bamboo and cane. Peel cane and rattan are a duo used in many tables and chairs and even planters.

As for planters, they have become prized accessories in the home as indoor gardens become home furnishings. Not only are plants selected to flatter decorating schemes, but new planters are being designed to emphasize the importance of these accessories to the whole room scheme even as they are built to accommodate plants of every size.

There are big metal floor planters that are trimmed with wood dowels — wood and metals, especially brass, steel and pewter are artfully combined in many furnishings — and there are the smaller ceramic cache pots with animal motif or plant design that can become handsome accessories as well as containers for plants on the table top. One large elephant wears a planter and another planter is topped with a nest of birds.

One of the more handsome metal standing planters has a tripod base finished in faux bamboo, a popular treatment in the current collection of furnishings.

Lamps continue to be tastefully styled. Classical and oriental bases emphasize their durable style quality. Some wood bases are unstained and show off their knotholes. Others are turned like newel posts. A selection of "wall washers" designed by Joe Head are for table and floor and provide intrigue. The light fixtures have been placed behind large woven rattan discs to be used where diffused lighting is needed.

There are flowers and leaves and buds and twigs on decorative fabrics that look handcrafted in a wide range of pastels — blues, greens and peachy shades — as well as the deep orange and brown colors that are compatible with pastels. Melon and brown with green is a color combination that gets approval from many buyers. One fabric is printed to look like rattan.

Explanations help children to cope

NEW HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — "If I were that little boy, I'd cry too," said Dr. Abraham Lurie of a scene he observed recently at Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Center. Dr. Lurie is head of social work services at that hospital.

A grandmother, mother and small child were sitting in the clinic waiting room when the mother was called for her appointment. She turned to her 4-year-old and said, "Now be good." With that she disappeared into one of the inner examining rooms. Not a word of explanation to the child about where she was going or when she would be back.

The little one started to wail and his grandmother commanded "Keep quiet. Stop being a big baby."

"Here," says Dr. Lurie, "is a little boy, surrounded by people he's never seen before, in a place he's never been before. His mother leaves. His grandmother is antagonistic. Nobody offers any explanation of his mother's absence. Is it any wonder the child is crying?

"The best of us make mistakes. Perhaps the simplest advice I can give is: try to bring some objectivity to each stressful situation. Watch yourself and see just what you are doing," says Dr. Lurie, who offers these guidelines on disciplining children:

—It is important to give children full explanations and, what's more, to be sure to offer these explanations in a way they can understand and at the time they are required.

—Use discipline by all means, but not punitively Use it to teach.

—Set boundaries and be consistent but try to avoid being either too rigid or too permissive. In establishing limits, take into account your child's personality and emotional makeup.

—The hope is that over the years these boundaries become his social antennae, evoking immediate response to right and wrong. These firmly entrenched values will give him a later sense of security and freedom both in conducting his own life and in interacting with others.

—Objectional behavior often comes from the child's demand for instant gratification — "I want the candy, NOW." "I want to go out and play NOW." He will learn by your example that one must sometimes delay immediate gratification for later rewards. Be patient. This takes time.

—Do not delay discipline. If you wait, the child may not relate the punishment to his own misbehavior.

—And above all, listen to the message. When your child has a tantrum or uses other provocative behavior, he may be trying to tell you something — that he is perhaps frightened, worried, feeling threatened. Give him the emotional support he needs.

This does not mean that you should reverse a no to a yes. It does mean that you should allow him to work off his bad temper by himself and then let him know that you understand how he feels. Try a lollipop, a hug or some other small show of affection. If you don't show this empathy, he may have a longer, louder tantrum the next time in an effort to reach you.

Q. "WHY DOES AN OCTOPUS SQUIRT ITS INK?"
PAUL ARGAIJO ONTARIO, CA
A. AN OCTOPUS SQUIRTS ITS INKY LIQUID TO ESCAPE ENEMIES. THE INKY CLOUD DULLS THE ENEMY'S SENSE OF SMELL AND HIDES THE OCTOPUS LONG ENOUGH FOR IT TO ESCAPE.

DICK ROGERS
9/22

Octopuses are famous for their ability to squirt an inky liquid into the water that forms a dark cloud.

An octopus squirts its ink to escape enemies.

It stores its inky liquid in a special "ink sac" inside its body.

Sharks and other big fish like to eat octopuses. When an enemy comes too close, the octopus squirts out its ink cloud.

The "smoke screen" dulls the enemy's sense of smell and hides the octopus long enough for it to escape. By the time the water clears, the octopus is far away and safe.

An octopus swims by drawing water into its body and then shooting the water out behind like a jet.

Octopuses dwell on the ocean bottom where they crawl about on their 8 long arms called tentacles. Each arm has rows of round suckers which help octopuses catch and hold the shrimp and crabs that they eat.

Inside the circle of arms is a strong, parrotlike beak.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Three of South Carolina's four signers of the Declaration of Independence, Arthur Middleton, Edward Rutledge, and Thomas Heyward, were imprisoned by the British during the Revolutionary War at the Castillo de San Marcos in St. Augustine, Fla. On July 4, 1781, by special permission, all three signers dined together to celebrate the anniversary. The World Almanac recalls the men singing "God save the 13 States" to the tune "God save the King."

PUBLIC NOTICE

ORDINANCE NO. 544

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SAN DIMAS ADDING CHAPTER 5.94 TO TITLE 5 OF THE SAN DIMAS MUNICIPAL CODE TO AUTHORIZE THE ISSUANCE OF PERMITS FOR THE PLAYING OF BINGO TO NON-PROFIT CHARITABLE ORGANIZATIONS CONSISTENT WITH SECION 19 OF ARTICLE IV OF THE CONSITITION.

The City Council of the City of San Dimas does ordain as follows:

SECTION 1. Chapter 5.94 is hereby added to Title 5 of the San Dimas Municipal Code to read as follows:

"Chapter 5.94

Bingo for Charitable Purposes

5. 94.010. Bingo Game. Definition.

As used in this chapter, "Bingo" means a game of chance in which prizes are awarded on the basis of designated numbers or symbols on a card which conform to numbers or symbols selected at random.

5.94.011 Bingo Game. Authorized.

Bingo may be lawfully played in the City of San Dimas pursuant to the provisions of Section 326.5 of the California Penal Code and this chapter and not otherwise.

5. 94.012. Permit Required.

Any non-profit charitable organization which is located in the City of San Dimas and is exempt from the payment of the bank and corporation tax by Section 23701 (d) of the Revenue and Taxation Code and a contribution or gift to which would be a charitable contribution under Section 170 (c) (2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 as amended, may apply to the City Clerk for a permit to operate a Bingo Game pursuant to this chapter.

5.94.013. Application.

The application shall be upon a form prescribed by the City Clerk, shall be personally signed by three officers of the non-profit charitable organization or by a person specifically authorized for that purpose by the organization, be accompanied by a copy of the articles of incorporation or other evidence of the charitable nature of the organization and a certificate issued by the State Franchise Tax Board and the United States Collector of Internal Revenue certifying to the exempt status of the non-profit organization.

5. 94. 014. Permit Fee.

The application shall be accompanied by a non-refundable permit fee in the amount of $25.00 which is the amount determined by the City Council to be the actual cost of verifying the information in the application and issuing the permit. The permit shall not be issued until the City Clerk has verified the facts stated in the application and has determined that the applicant meets the requirements of this chapter and is entitled to the permit.

5. 94.015. Annual Permit Required.

Any permit issued pursuant to this chapter shall be subject to the conditions contained in Section 326.5 of the Penal Code and this chapter and shall be valid for a period of one year. The permit can only be renewed upon the filing of a new application and the payment of the permit fee.

5. 94. 016. Conditions.

Each permit issued pursuant to this chapter shall be issued subject to the following conditions:

(a) No minor shall be allowed to participate in any bingo game.

(b) A bingo game shall be only conducted on property owned or leased by the non-profit charitable organization which holds a valid permit issued pursuant to this chapter and which property is used by such organization for an office or for the performance of the purposes for which the organization is organized. The property shall have been owned or leased and occupied by the non-profit charitable organization for a period of at least six months prior to the date of the application for the permit.

(c) All bingo games shall be open to the public and not limited to the members of the non-profit charitable organization.

(d) A bingo game shall be operated and staffed only by members of the non-profit charitable organization which holds a valid permit issued pursuant to this chapter. No member of the non-profit charitable organization shall receive a profit, wage or salary from any bingo game. Only the organization holding a valid permit to conduct a bingo game shall operate such game or participate in the promotion, supervision or any other phase of such game.

(e) No individual, corporation, partnership or other legal entity except the organization holding a valid permit issued pursuant to this chapter is authorized to conduct a bingo game or to have a financial interest in the conduct of such a game.

(f) All profits derived from a bingo game shall be kept in a special fund or account and shall not be comingled with any other fund or account. Such funds may be expended only for the use and benefit of such charitable organization. At the time of the application for the renewal of a permit the City Clerk may require the applicant to file with him a copy of an audit of the special fund or account prepared by a certified public accountant showing the gross revenue received from all bingo games, the costs incurred in the operation of the games including the amounts paid out in connection therewith, the amount deposited in the special fund and any expenditures made from the special fund. No renewal permit shall be issued until a copy of the audit report is filed with the Clerk if the filing of such a report is required.

(g) No person shall be allowed to participate in a bingo game unless the person is physically present at the time and place in which the bingo game is being conducted.

(h) The total value of prizes awarded during the conduct of any bingo game shall not exceed $250.00 in cash or kind or both for each separate game which is held.

(i) The non-profit charitable organization to which a permit to operate a bingo game is issued pursuant to this chapter shall be responsible to see that the conditions contained in this chapter are complied with by the organization, its officers and members. Any violations of one or more of the conditions of the permit shall constitute cause for its revocation by the City Council. If requested to do so by the organization, the City Council shall hold a public hearing before revoking any permit issued pursuant to this chapter."

SECTION 2: The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this ordinance and shall cause the same to be published as required by law.

Passed and approved this 14th day of September, 1976.

NOTICE

This newspaper strives to protect its readers against fraud, deception or injustices. Advertisements which require cash bonds or investment should be investigated thoroughly. All advertising statements must be accurate. All ads pertaining to sales must relate some nature of work involved and not designed to mislead the reader. An ad requiring a tuition for study course is not considered a help wanted ad and should be in classification 462 "Educational".

NO HELP WANTED AD CAN STIPULATE OR INFER A DEFINITE AMOUNT WHEN starting pay is commission basis. Report any exception to this rule to Classified Manager 622-1201.

The Progress-Bulletin reserves the right to reject or re-edit any advertisement for the protection of the advertiser and reader.

CLASSIFIED ADS IN THE Progress Bulletin GO FURTHER!

All advertisers in the Wednesday Edition of the Progress Bulletin will receive MORE IMPACT from their Advertising because, your classified ad will receive an additional Circulation of 20,000 homes each and every week, for only 7¢ per line more . . .

BEGINNING WEDNESDAY
OCTOBER 6, 1976

all classified advertising appearing in each Wednesday's edition of the Progress Bulletin will automatically be picked up and run in the La Verne Leader, San Dimas Press, Montclair Tribune - South, and the Diamond Bar-Walnut Valley Bulletin.

The additional circulation of these papers coupled with the circulation of the Progress Bulletin will give to you, the advertiser, non-duplicated saturation coverage of all homes in these areas.
